Bridges Declares Class Struggle is Under Way in U. S.

Alleged Communists Workers Are Being Shot All over the Country

SEES OPEN HOSTILITY AND MUCH BLOODSHED

Says He's Concerned over Immediate Future of Workers

San Francisco, Aug. 3 (AP)—Harry Bridges declared at his deportation hearing today a "class struggle" was underway in the United States and workers are being shot down on picket lines all over the country."

Then, as the Australian-born CIO labor leader stepped down from the stand he picked up a newspaper and pointed to bold headlines reading "troops rush to battle zone—4 shot in strike."

The story was about Gov. Ralph Carr of Colorado proclaiming a state of insurrection existed in the Green Mountain dam strike zone after four union sympathizers were shot and wounded.

The government is attempting to deport Bridges on the contention he is a Communist and that Communists advocate overthrow of government by violence. Bridges is head of west coast maritime workers.

"Is there a class struggle?" Thomas B. Shoemaker, chief of the government's counsel, asked the defendant.

See Class Struggle

"Very definite. On the one hand are the large corporate interests; on the other hand are the working people, the small business people and the small farmers and such as that."

Shoemaker inquired whether Bridges though the struggle "can ever be amicably settled?"

The witness replied he thought if the employers would agree to "give a little," amicable settlement could be arranged.

Asked whether he thought the "class struggle" situation would result in open hostility with bloodshed, Bridges answered:

"Certainly, it results in bloodshed, but the blood is usually ours."

"I mean, do you think it will eventually result in a class war which means gas, guns and bloodshed?" Shoemaker asked.

Says Workers Shot Down

"I am not passing opinions," Bridges continued. "I am stating that right now workers are being shot down on picket lines all over the country. With the employers organizes nationally, the weakness of the unions is that they are not organized nationally. x x x

"I've never found any worker yet who found any pleasure in facing bayonets and tear gas. x x Right

Murphy Plans To Enforce Law To Curb Politicians

Attorney General Praises Latest Federal Statute

Washington, Aug. 3 (AP)—Attorney General Murphy today accepted responsibility for enforcement of the new law curbing political activities of most federal employes.

He told his press conference that a citizen was entitled to complain to the justice department against alleged violations of the statute, just as he might report infractions of other federal laws.

Murphy expressed the opinion that enforcement of the measure "does lie with the department of justice."

Alleged Violation

A reporter observed that in Pittsburgh a federal district attorney and assistant district attorney were campaigning for office in the Democratic primaries in September.

"If these men continue to campaign, the public will get the idea the law does not take," the newsman added.

"The law is only 24 hours old," Murphy replied. "That question concerns me very much, not alone because these public officials and the public as well ought to know if they come under the law. It can very well be said to the attorney general that he has a personal responsibility. I'm prepared to meet that and will do it promptly."

Murphy Wants Test

Murphy pronounced the law a good one, and said he would welcome a test of its constitutionality.

When President Roosevelt signed the measure yesterday, he asked the attorney general to see that "the Committee Asks Probe of Labor Affairs in West

Washington Aug. 3 (AP) — Proposals for an investigation of labor conditions on the Pacific coast and a study of the national monetary and banking policy were approved by the Senate Civil Liberties Committee, and $25,000 for the proposed monetary study by the Senate Banking and Currency Committee.

Senator Schwellenbach (D-Wash), who with Senator Downey (D-Calif) sought $100,000 for the Civil Liberties Investigation, told reporters the adjournment rush would make it difficult to obtain action.

Previously the civil liberties committee —composed of Senator La Follette (Prog-Wis) and Chairman Thomas (D-Utah) of the Senate Labor Committee—had promised the Senate to wind up their long inquiry into labor disputes.

The Senate voted the committee $69,000 for this purpose in May, 1938, in adition to previous grants of $90,000 for investigations that started more than three years ago.

The audit committee reduced from $100,000 to $25,000 funds to finance the proposed monetary study.

Chairman Wagner (D-NY) of the Banking Committee asked the monetary study to "consider and recommend a national monetary and banking policy by which the monetary and banking authorities of the federal government shall be guided and governed."

The Audit Committee also recommended $10,000 to enable the Senate Immigration Committee to make a study of aliens in this country, and the operation of the immigration laws.

Japanese Said To Seek an Alliance With Axis Powers

Ambassadors to Rome and Berlin Holding Secret Conference

Admit It Is Being Held but Deny Reported Purpose

Rome, Aug. 3 (AP) — Reliable sources disclosed tonight that the Japanese ambassadors to Italy and Germany, with their embassy advisers and military attaches, were meeting at Villa D'Este, near Lake Como, to consider "closer adherence of Tokyo to the two axis powers."

Although a Japanese secretary at Villa D'Este denied the reported purpose of the conference, he admitted the meeting was being held.

The reliable sources, however, attributed the following statement as being issued from the conference:

"Villa D'Este was not chosen by mere chance for this meeting of ours after those which we have already had in Rome and Berlin.

"It will be recalled that the Italian and German foreign ministers met here to conclude the agreements fruitful in prosperity and power for the two friendly nations and Japan, all adherents to the anti-comintern pact.

"This is a good augury for us who have now more fully examined the question of an eventually closer adherence of Toyko to the two axis powers."

The Italian and German foreign ministers, Count Galeazzo Ciano and Joachim Von Ribbentrop signed the German-Italian military alliance at Villa DEste on May 2.

The source of the attributed statement said the meetings would continue until the end of this week.

The Japanese ambassadors to Rome and Germany have been reported favoring a closer alliance of Japan with the axis powers, though the matter has caused divided councils in Tokyo.

Diplomats here reported last Friday that a Japanese military and economic mission en route to Italy and Germany would go into the question of closer military, political and economic ties with the axis powers.

Guild Backs Roosevelt, Raps Associated Press

San Francisco, Aug. 3 (AP)—The American Newspaper Guild's national convention, by a delegate vote of 108 to 8, today passed a resolution endorsing President Roosevelt and asking him to run for re-election.

The vote came after long discussion. Eight delegates, including Roger Irwin of Toronto, Canada, abstained from voting.

Another resolution adopted condemned "reactionary labor policies of the Associated Press."

The convention instructed the Guild's International Executive Board "to take the proper steps to bring these policies of the Associated Press to the attention of the entire labor movement and to the attention of the Associated Press's 1,400 member newspapers which are responsible for the Associated Press's anti-labor relations with its own employes."

Chinese Being Urged To Drive All White People Out of North China

Demonstrations Against British Are Extended to Americans

Shanghai, Aug. 3 (AP)—Japanese-sponsored demonstrations in North China, though nominally directed against the British, today assumed a more general anti-foreign tinge with exhortations for Asiatics to drive all whites out of the east.

Tsingtao dispatches reported a meeting of Chinese business men had been called for Aug. 10 in that Japanese-controlled seaport to consider a resolution denouncing American abrogation of the United States-Japanese 1911 trade treaty.

Informed persons in Tsingtao believed this might be the opening gun of an anti-American campaign, possibly along the lines of the bitter drive Japanese are waging against British.

The Japanese blockade of the British and French concessions at Tientsin, imposed June 14, was strengthened considerably today and a new shortage of food and milk was felt by foreign residents.

Floods in Hopeh province seemed likely, however, to ease the blockade where diplomacy has failed.

Two bridges upstream from the French concessions were endangered by th rising Hai river. If the bridges are carried away, the Japanese would have to re-route all trans-river traffic over the bridge into the international settlement and thus necessarily ease restrictions on travel.

Authorities of Shanghai's international settlement started erecting barricades as precautions against terrorism they said they feared might occur between now and Aug. 13, second anniversary of the beginning of Chinese-Japanese fighting in the Shanghai area.

Heard He Was Lynched, But Knew He Wasn't

Savannah, Ga., Aug. 3 (AP) — A 33-year-old negro Charlie Williams, whom the Tuskegee Institute listed in its semi-annual report as having been lynched by a group of white men at Woodcliffe, Ga., March 11 was discovered working at a fertilizer plant here today.

Detective Sergeant E. A. Fitzgerald, who found Williams after a dogged search, said the negro told him, "I heard I was lynched but didn't pay any attention to it 'cause I knew I was living."

An investigation of the purported lynching, first reported in a negro newspaper, was made at the request of the Southern Women for the Prevention of Lynching.

Western Gamblers Given Long Terms

Sentenced to Nine Years by New York City Judge

New York, Aug. 3 (AP)—Two florid-faced western gamblers who took their dupes for millions in the heyday of a Reno, Nev., bunch ring, cashed in their chips today with wry expressions of defeat.

Far from the tradition of steely-eyed gamblers taking their losses with a philosophic shrug, William J. Graham and James C. McKay gulped and jumped up like schoolboys, nervously fingering their neckties, when they were called up to surrender before federal Judge John C. Knox.

"That's us," Graham whispered when their names were called.

Both strapping big men, they stood before the bench for just 30 second—after a half hour wait—in the formal ceremony of surrender to start serving nine-year sentences as convicted confidence men.

Defense Attorney — Moses Polakoff—asked that the record note they had paid federal authorities $22,000 in fines and $8,000 costs, and moved to discharge the $75,000 bail bonds in which each had been held since they were convicted in February, 1938.

Then without a word they walked to the U. S. marshal's office for removal to a jail in lower Manhattan before being sent to some federal penitentiary.

The gamblers said they "celebrated" their last night of freedom quietly in a midtown hotel, arranging business matters with their attorneys.

"It isn't any champagne blowout," Graham said. "Me, I can't drink it. Only a little beer."

With good conduct, the pair would be eligible for parole in five years, nine months.

"If we last that long," amended Graham, gloomily.

Hanes Predicts Better Business

Washington, Aug. 3 (AP)—John W. Hanes, acting chief of the treasury and former Wall Street broker, told reporters today that he believed business was on the eve of "a big step forward."

Undersecretary Hanes, in charge of the treasury while Secretary Morgenthau is in Europe on a month's vacation, added at a press conference that business conditions looked better by far than they did 30 to 60 days ago.

He said he based his prediction on an important advance on the piling up of forward orders at factories, the low state of merchandise inventories from which orders could be filled, and the "general state of business."

Farmer Kills Wife Girl, Self with Bomb

Oregon City, Ore., Aug. 3 (AP)—A 15-year-old girl died today, third victim of a farmer's plot to wipe out his family with a blasting powder bomb.

Ruth Connerly died from multiple injuries after lying unconscious since the bomb exploded almost in her face in a trailer house here last night.

Deputy Sheriff Tom Steenson said Lee Phillipy, Ruth's stepfather, maddened by domestic difficulties, prepared the bomb. He and his estranged wife were killed instantly.

Guardsmen Disarm 200 Officers and Workers in Colo.

Six Wounded by Bullets and another Man Is Beaten

Green Mountain Dam, Colo., Aug. 3 (AP)—Colorado national guardsmen late today disarmed more than 200 special deputy sheriffs and workers at this hub of the strife-torn zone where six persons have been wounded by bullets and a seventh beaten.

Shortly before their arrival at the $4,000,000 federal reclamation project, reports of a threatened fresh outbreak of violence came from the sector. But the area, where sporadic shooting occurred throughout the night and where three small bridges were blown up, quieted before the advance of the soldiers.

Gov. Ralph L. Carr ordered the troops into the region last night, declaring it in a "state of insurrection." He followed them today, contemplating the possibility of taking direct charge.

Sympathizers Leave Camp

Even before arrival of the guardsmen, massed sympathizers of striking American Federal of Labor workers began leaving their camp at a road junction three miles from the dam site. The strikers have been demanding recognition of their union as a bargaining agency.

A. K. Anderson, superintendent of the dam construction said "five or six" truckloads of men left during the morning.

The national guard, under Adjutant General Harold H. Richardson, established its first outpost at a bridge two miles south of town where a back-to-work faction clashed last night with a caravan of strike sympathizers and turned it back, after two men were shot.

The Green Mountain disorders were precipitated by a massed movement of back-to-work supporters through a picket line, following which unmarried members among the strikers agreed to leave the camp Married strikers remained.

Earlier today Anderson telephoned

Hagerstown Mayor Asks Work for Jobless

Hagerstown, Md., Aug. 3 (AP)—An appeal from Mayor Richard H. Sweeney that all unemployed Hagerstown persons eligible for WPA rolls be given work immediately was in the hands of the area and local WPA representatives today.

In telegrams to F. W. Springer, area representative, and Harold F. Seibert, local representative, the mayor asked that eligible persons be employed on city projects that had been approved but not yet undertaken.

Sweeney said several alley, street and grading projects had been approved and the city was anxious to have them completed. At the same time, he said, some former WPA employes were blaming the city for their lack of work.

Meanwhile, an independent survey indicated 600 WPA workers in Washington county probably would be furloughed under the new 18-months law.

Democrats and Republicans Get Together To Kill $800,000,000 Measure

By RICHARD L. TURNER

Washington, Aug. 3 (AP) — The House completed the destruction of President Roosevelt's lending program today with a 191-170 vote declining even to consider the $800,000,000 Slum Clearance and Housing bill.

A coalition of Republicans and Democrats mowed the measure down in precisely the same way it killed the $1,950,000,000 Works Financing bill.

The coalition consisted today of 137 Republicans and 54 Democrats. A total of 159 Democrats, eight Republicans and three minor party members supported the administration.

Speeds Adjournment Plan

The vote removed one more obstacle to adjournment, and soon after it was taken another was shoved aside. Representative Rayburn of Texas, the Democratic leader, announced to the house the decision of the administration leadership to scrap for the session highly controversial legislation amending the wage-hour law.

However, leaders who had hoped to end the session Saturday night were forced to allow for a possible revision of their plans by developments in the Senate. There, a row was evidently developing over the third deficiency bill, which as it passed the House failed to provide funds for a continuation of price-bolstering loans on farm commodities.

Victory for Economy Bloc

Omission of funds for this purpose was another victory for the economy bloc. The Senate, however, has repeatedly shown itself more inclined to appropriate for farm relief than the other branch of Congress, and an effort to write a $119,000,000 amendment for farm loans into the bill was in the making. Today, the measure was in the hands of the Senate Appropriations Committee, before which Secretary Wallace appealed for the item, lest, he said, farm prices sag to disastrous levels.

One other piece of major legislation remained to complicate the adjournment situation: Amendments to the social security act were tied up in a tight snarl in a conference committee representing both houses of Congress.

The housing bill was brought be-

British Leaders Differ over War Outlook in Europe

Halifax Sounds Warning, but Inskip Is Optimistic

London, Aug. 3 (AP) — Lord Halifax, foreign secretary, cautioned Great Britain tonight against taking the world situation too lightly as Prime Minister Chamberlain prepared to leave for a vacation and parliament got ready to adjourn for two months.

Taking a much more optimistic view, Sir Thomas Inskip, dominions secretary, declared war was unlikely.

The foreign secretary told the House of Lords in a foreign affairs debate that "the next few weeks or months may prove critical" and "I cannot encourage anyone to feel complacent about the situation in which the world finds itself."

But Sir Thomas, addressing a political gathering at Oban, Scotland, said that the government had "very good reasons" for believing "war is not likely."

These reasons, he said were "the growing strength of the nation" and the strength of "the peace front."

Chamberlain Leaves Today

The prime minister planned to leave tomorrow for a vacation, first at Chequers, his official country residence, and then in Scotland.

Madeline Branson Held Entitled to $250 Cash Monthly

Oklahoma, City, Aug. 3 (AP) — Madeline Baniff Branson is legally married to Fred P. Branson, former chief justice of the Oklahoma Supreme Court, and is entitled to $250 a month support money, District Judge John B. Wilson held today.

The decision climaxed a four-day hearing on the 47-year old stenographer's suit for validation of her 1930 marriage to Branson, 59, and $500 a month for support.

In her petition, she alleged Branson, now an oil man, was worth $250,000. Branson said he was "broke."

Branson brought his bank safety deposit box into court today to support his contention that business reverses, together with the romantic affair with his former stenographer and a divorce settlement had dissipated his fortune.

Has Trinkets and Notes

The deposit box contained only a few trinkets and a number of notes. Those signed by Branson were marked "paid" and those payable to Branson were marked "not a penny paid on them."

Branson, both lawyer and witness, told the court Madeline ruined him, "financially and otherwise," by refusing his requests "not to drag this case through Oklahoma courts." He testified yesterday the affair with her cost him $60,000 in 15 years, adding he had paid Eula Branson, his divorced wife, more than $80,000 in a settlement.

Branson said Madeline came to him one morning in 1928 "in hysterics' 'and demanded to see a doctor to determine "whether she was in a delicate condition."

When she returned, he said, she told him "if it was true they couldn't tell it yet."

"She had a slip of paper," he related, "on which was written names of some pills. x x x This defendant went into the drug store and bought the pills."

Senator Robert A. Taft Agrees To Be Candidate for President

Prefers Present Place, but Will Not Run Away from New Job

HIS HAT IN RING

Sen. Robert A. Taft

Washington, Aug. 3 (AP)—Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio entered the Republican presidential race today with a statement in which he denounced "New Deal fallacies" and supported relief, old age pensions, subsidized housing and other aids to "the less fortunate people."

Taft, son of the former president, sent a letter to George F. Eyrich of Cincinnati declaring his willingness to stand for the Republican nomination. Eyrich is chairman of the Hamilton county (Ohio) Republican Executive Committee, which has endorsed Taft for the nomination.

Tough Job Ahead

The letter, issued by Taft's office during his absence in Ohio, said that "the unpleasant job which lies before the next president of the United States is such that no sensible man could be eager to assume it."

Although saying he preferred his present Senate seat to any other office, Taft added that "I will not run away from a harder job, but whether I am a candidate for any other office is entirely up to the Republicans of Ohio."

He called attention to "peculiar provisions" of the Ohio constitu-

Bruce Barton Hails Defeat of Spending Bill as Historic Event

Congressman Says It Is Like New Declaration of Independence

Washington, Aug. 3—Representative Bruce Barton, Republican, of New York, today said he believed August 1, 1939—the day the administration's last spending scheme was defeated—"may very properly become a memorable date in our history." He said the vote against the spending bill "like the signing of the Declaration of Independence", was "a blow for freedom."

"Yesterday," he said, "the curtain went down on one of the strangest of all chapters in American history. Future scholars will regard it as a sort of midsummer night's dream in the life of an otherwise sensible people. They will compare it to the periods of the South Sea Company, and the Mississippi Bubble, and the Tulipomania which for a little time mocked the solid common sense of France, England and Holland. Guardsmen Disarm 200 Officers and Workers in Colo.

Situation at Green Mountain Dam Still Believed Serious

Six Wounded by Bullets and another Man Is Beaten

Green Mountain Dam, Colo., Aug. 3 (AP)—Colorado national guardsmen late today disarmed more than 200 special deputy sheriffs and workers at this hub of the strife-torn zone where six persons have been wounded by bullets and a seventh beaten.

Shortly before their arrival at the $4,000,000 federal reclamation project, reports of a threatened fresh outbreak of violence came from the sector. But the area, where sporadic shooting occurred throughout the night and where three small bridges were blown up, quieted before the advance of the soldiers.

Gov. Ralph L. Carr ordered the troops into the region last night, declaring it in a "state of insurrection." He followed them today, contemplating the possibility of taking direct charge.

Sympathizers Leave Camp

Even before arrival of the guardsmen, massed sympathizers of striking American Federal of Labor workers began leaving their camp at a road junction three miles from the dam site. The strikers have been demanding recognition of their union as a bargaining agency.

A. K. Anderson, superintendent of the dam construction said "five or six" truckloads of men left during the morning.

The national guard, under Adjutant General Harold H. Richardson, established its first outpost at a bridge two miles south of town where a back-to-work faction clashed last night with a caravan of strike sympathizers and turned it back, after two men were shot.

The Green Mountain disorders were precipitated by a massed movement of back-to-work supporters through a picket line, following which unmarried members among the strikers agreed to leave the camp. Married strikers remained.

Earlier today Anderson telephoned

Hagerstown Mayor Asks Work for Jobless

Hagerstown, Md., Aug. 3 (AP)—An appeal from Mayor Richard H. Sweeney that all unemployed Hagerstown persons eligible for WPA rolls be given work immediately was in the hands of the area and local WPA representatives today.

In telegrams to F. W. Springer, area representative, and Harold F. Seibert, local representative, the mayor asked that eligible persons be employed on city projects that had been approved but not yet undertaken.

Sweeney said several alley, street and grading projects had been approved and the city was anxious to have them completed. At the same time, he said, some former WPA employes were blaming the city for their lack of work.

Meanwhile, an independent survey indicated 600 WPA workers in Washington county probably would be furloughed under the new 18-months law.

By RICHARD L. TURNER

Washington, Aug. 3 (AP) — The House completed the destruction of President Roosevelt's lending program today with a 191-170 vote declining even to consider the $800,000,000 Slum Clearance and Housing bill.

A coalition of Republicans and Democrats mowed the measure down in precisely the same way it killed the $1,950,000,000 Works Financing bill.

The coalition consisted today of 137 Republicans and 54 Democrats. A total of 159 Democrats, eight Republicans and three minor party members supported the administration.

Speeds Adjournment Plan

The vote removed one more obstacle to adjournment, and soon after it was taken another was shoved aside. Representative Rayburn of Texas, the Democratic leader, announced to the house the decision of the administration leadership to scrap for the session highly controversial legislation amending the wage-hour law.

However, leaders who had hoped to end the session Saturday night were forced to allow for a possible revision of their plans by developments in the Senate. There, a row was evidently developing over the third deficiency bill, which as it passed the House failed to provide funds for a continuation of price-bolstering loans on farm commodities.

Victory for Economy Bloc

Omission of funds for this purpose was another victory for the economy bloc. The Senate, however, has repeatedly shown itself more inclined to appropriate for farm relief than the other branch of Congress, and an effort to write a $119,000,000 amendment for farm loans into the bill was in the making. Today, the measure was in the hands of the Senate Appropriations Committee, before which Secretary Wallace appealed for the item, lest, he said, farm prices sag to disastrous levels.

One other piece of major legislation remained to complicate the adjournment situation: Amendments to the social security act were tied up in a tight snarl in a conference committee representing both houses of Congress.

The housing bill was brought be-

British Leaders Differ over War Outlook in Europe

Halifax Sounds Warning, but Inskip Is Optimistic

London, Aug. 3 (AP) — Lord Halifax, foreign secretary, cautioned Great Britain tonight against taking the world situation too lightly as Prime Minister Chamberlain prepared to leave for a vacation and parliament got ready to adjourn for two months.

Taking a much more optimistic view, Sir Thomas Inskip, dominions secretary, declared war was unlikely.

The foreign secretary told the House of Lords in a foreign affairs debate that "the next few weeks or months may prove critical" and "I cannot encourage anyone to feel complacent about the situation in which the world finds itself."

But Sir Thomas, addressing a political gathering at Oban, Scotland, said that the government had "very good reasons" for believing "war is not likely."

These reasons, he said were "the growing strength of the nation" and the strength of "the peace front."

Chamberlain Leaves Today

Madeline Branson Held Entitled to $250 Cash Monthly

Oklahoma City, Aug. 3 (AP) — Madeline Baniff Branson is legally married to Fred P. Branson, former chief justice of the Oklahoma Supreme Court, and is entitled to $250 a month support money, District Judge John B. Wilson held today.

The decision climaxed a four-day hearing on the 47-year old stenographer's suit for validation of her 1930 marriage to Branson, 59, and $500 a month for support.

In her petition, she alleged Branson, now an oil man, was worth $250,000. Branson said he was "broke."

Branson brought his bank safety deposit box into court today to support his contention that business reverses, together with the romantic affair with his former stenographer and a divorce settlement had dissipated his fortune.

Has Trinkets and Notes

The deposit box contained only a few trinkets and a number of notes. Those signed by Branson were marked "paid" and those payable to Branson were marked "not a penny paid on them."

Branson, both lawyer and witness, told the court Madeline ruined him, "financially and otherwise," by refusing his requests "not to drag this case through Oklahoma courts." He testified yesterday the affair with her cost him $60,000 in 15 years, adding he had paid Eula Branson, his divorced wife, more than $80,000 in a settlement.

Branson said Madeline came to him one morning in 1928 "in hysterics" and demanded to see a doctor to determine "whether she was in a delicate condition."

When she returned, he said, she told him "if it was true they couldn't tell it yet."

"She had a slip of paper," he related, "on which was written names of some pills. x x x This defendant went into the drug store and bought the pills."

Committee Asks Probe of Labor Affairs in West

Washington Aug. 3 (AP) — Proposals for an investigation of labor conditions on the Pacific coast and study of the national monetary and banking policy were approved by the Senate Civil Liberties Committee, and $25,000 for the proposed monetary study by the Senate Banking and Currency Committee. Senator Schwellenbach (D-Wash), who with Senator Downey (D-Calif) sought $100,000 for the Civil Liberties Investigation, told reporters the adjournment rush would make it difficult to obtain action.

Previously the civil liberties committee —composed of Senator La Follette (Prog-Wis) and Chairman Thomas (D-Utah) of the Senate Labor Committee—had promised the Senate to wind up their long inquiry into labor disputes.

The Senate voted the committee $50,000 for this purpose in May, $8 in adition to previous grants of $90,000 for investigations that started more than three years ago.

The audit committee reduced from $100,000 to $25,000 funds to finance the proposed monetary study. Chairman Wagner (D-NY) of the Banking Committee asked the monetary study to "consider and recommend a national monetary and banking policy by which the monetary and banking authorities of the federal government shall be guided and governed."

The Audit Committee also recommended $10,000 to enable the Senate Immigration Committee to make a study of aliens in this country, and the operation of the immigration laws.

Senator Robert A. Taft Agrees To Be Candidate for President

Prefers Present Place, but Will Not Run Away from New Job

HIS HAT IN RING

Sen. Robert A. Taft

Washington, Aug. 3 (AP)—Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio entered the Republican presidential race today with a statement in which he denounced "New Deal fallacies" and supported relief, old age pensions, subsidized housing and other aids to "the less fortunate people."

Taft, son of the former president, sent a letter to George F. Eyrich of Cincinnati declaring his willingness to stand for the Republican nomination. Eyrich is chairman of the Hamilton county (Ohio) Republican Executive Committee, which has endorsed Taft for the nomination.

Tough Job Ahead

The letter, issued by Taft's office during his absence in Ohio, said that "the unpleasant job which lies before the next president of the United States is such that no sensible man could be eager to assume it."

Although saying he preferred his present Senate seat to any other office, Taft added that "I will not run away from a harder job, but whether I am a candidate for any other office is entirely up to the Republicans of Ohio."

He called attention to "peculiar provisions" of the Ohio constitu-

SEES NEW DEAL DEFEAT

Bruce Barton

Washington, Aug. 3—Representative Bruce Barton, Republican, of New York, today said he believed August 1, 1939—the day the administration's last spending scheme was defeated—"may very properly become a memorable date in our history." He said the vote against the spending bill "like the signing of the Declaration of Independence", was "a blow for freedom."

"Yesterday," he said, "the curtain went down on one of the strangest of all chapters in American history. Future scholars will regard it as a sort of midsummer night's dream in the life of an otherwise sensible people. They will compare it to the periods of the South Sea Company, and the Mississippi Bubble, and the Tulipomania which for a little time mocked the solid common sense of France, England and Holland. These scholars will shake their heads and say: 'It certainly was a strange phenomenon. The people had always been noted for their Yankee shrewdness, yet they let themselves buy a second-hand idea which the inventor, John Maynard Keynes, had failed to sell in his own country—the fantastic notion that debt and investment are the same thing, and that the more a nation owes

Three Girls Are Making Good as New York Guides

Take Visitors Around City and Are Building Up Business

By MARY ELIZABETH PLUMMER

New York, Aug. 3 (AP)—There's a shingle out these days over the casement window of "the narrowest house in New York," the tiny red brick residence in Greenwich Village where Edna St. Vincent Millay, the poet, once live.

Three enterprising girls, Carol and Frances and Anne, not long out of college, have rented the house, which has a kitchen unexpectedly fronting Bedford street and a trim little garden with morning glories.

"Sidewalk tours, guide service," says their sign. They devised their own business, a service which is thriving and expanding, and are having the time of their lives showing New York to persons unfamiliar with the city.

"Would you like to see some satisfied customers?" asked blue-eyed Anne Coyle, 23, when she answered the doorbell at the kitchen.

"Satisfied Customers"

The "Satisfied customers," who had been on a sidewalk tour of the financial district, were Mr. and Mrs. George Winham, of Texarkana, Ark., and their children, Ross, 15, and Kathryne, 11. Their tour was ending with a friendly chat in the long living room, which is only about eight feet wide, and they had had a good time.

"It's a friendly atmosphere for sightseeing," they said. "Anyone who has never been here before appreciates that."

"An intellectual atmosphere, too," smiled Winham, glancing up at the rows of books by the fireplace. (Among the books were seven copies of Plato's "Republic" and two copies of "Mathematics for the million.")

Anne Coyle and Carol Jackson, who started the service a year ago, were philosophy majors at Wellesley together. They thought of "sidewalk tours" a year ago.

Looking for Excitement

"We were looking for something exciting to do, and were tired of sitting in offices. We decided there was a need for this type of service—perosnalized but conscientious—for sightseeing."

Carol is the dark-haired daughter of Mrs. Carl Jackson, of West Redding, Conn., and was born in Oshkosh, Wis. Anne's parents are Mr. and Mrs. David Cushman Coyle, of Washington, D. C. Her father is an economist, and is consultant for the National Resources Committee.

"Frances came later," explained Anne. "We paid $3.30 for Frances."

She and Carol advertised in the New York Herald Tribune:

"Wanted—a girl college graduate, preferably speaking one foreign language, for a position involving more fun than money, but with excellent possibilities."

Ninety applicants came. It took Carol and Anne three days to interview them.

Oklahoma Girl Gets Job

Frances Puccini, a brown-eyed, auburn-haired girl from Oklahoma, the daughter of V. I. Puccini, an Ardmore oil man, got the job. She had majored in Spanish at Oregon University, and spent a year in Spain.

So far, however's there's been no call for Spanish on their tours.

The girls spent all last Summer and most of the fall learning more about New York, reading and exploring.

"It's an endless business," they said. "That's why it's so fascinating."

They decided on five regional tours. The patrons choose theirs.

The girls never take more than five persons at a time, unless by special arrangement, because they believe in "sightseeing personalized." The tours last three hours. They travel by public conveyances, and on foot, one guide to a party.

They have a couple of additional guides on call. Once they had a bicycle tour, on which some native New Yorkers went.

So far this summer, they've pointed out Manhattan's wonders to 150 persons, one a French countess.

The tours start from the little house at 75½ Bedford street that is both office and home to Carol and Anne. Frances, who writes short stories on the side, has an uptown apartment.

A number of other persons sought to rent Miss Millay's former home, but the agent let the eager-eyed girls have the place, "beacuse they wanted it so much."

civil rights of every government employe may be duly protected and that the element of fear may be removed."

While he discussed the new law with reporters, a proposal to restrict political activity of state employes paid in part by federal funds won approval of the Senate Civil Service Committee.

Senator Neely (D-WVa) author of the measure, said he had no hope that Congress would act on it at this session, but predicted it would become law before the 1940 campaign got into full swing.

Mr. Roosevelt suggested such legislation to Congress yesterday when he signed the bill by Senator Hatch (D-NM) against political activities of federal jobholders.

Federal Officials Start Search For Senders of Fake Radio Call

Now Convinced that Reports Ship Needed Help Were False

Miami, Fla., Aug. 3 (AP)—Convinced they had been victimized by a hoax, federal officials started a state wide search today for the operator who loaded radio channels with urgent distress signals through a hectic seven hours last night.

In answer to a stream of erratic messages, the coast guard and private shipping vainly searched the Atlantic off Southeast Florida by air and water, seeking a British tanker afire and sinking.

First doubt arose after the unknown operator had said his ship was the Tanker Dunkwa and Lloyd's of London reported the Dunkwa safe in port at Rotterdam.

Other Discrepancies

Further discrepancies in the harrowing calls—supposedly sent by a ship's officer after the radio operator was badly hurt—were noted soon but the coast guard didn't immediately abandon its costly search.

"All evidence points to a hoax," said Lieut W. B. Schiebel of the coast guard aid station, "but we can't take any chances."

Coast guard headquarters at Jacksonville commented bluntly:

"The whole thing stinks."

"There doesn't appear to be a chance that the messages came from a ship in distress," said Arthur S. Fish at the Miami office of the federal communications commission.

He said the FCC had some cause to believe the signals came from a land station in the Tampa area. He put investigators into the field and assembled records of radio direction finders used on the mysterious messages, but explained it would be hard to find the offender because the hunt started after the signals ceased.

Heavy Penalties

Conviction of sending false distress calls carries a maximum penalty of a $10,000 fine and two years' imprisonment.

The first SOS hit the air about 10 last night and was followed by a dramatic, though fragmentary, story of explosion, fire, death and lifeboat launching. A final message, coming in weakly about 5 A. M., said:

"Abandoning ship now."

tion which require persons running for delegate to the national convention to state their choice for the presidency and to obtain the written consent of the man so designated.

"As an Ohio matter," Taft added, "I shall be willing when the time comes to give my consent to have my name designated as the first choice by candidates for delegates throughout the state."

Vandenberg Comments

On hearing of the Ohioan's statement, Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich) said: "that's fine—the more the merrier." Vandenberg previously has indicated his own willingness to accept the nomination.

Senator Austin (R-Vt), acting minority leader, told reporters that Taft's statement was a "logical development" and was indicative of the Ohio Senator's "mental honesty" in answering the Hamilton County Committee's endorsement.

Senator Bridges (R-NH), who also is being boomed for the nomination, told reporters that "there is no question from Senator Taft's statement that his hat is in the ring."

"It would appear at this stage of the game," Bridges added, "that there would be a group of men available for the Republican convention to choose from, and I believe they will be able to choose an effective candidate."

Bridges To Take Stump

It was reported authoritatively that Bridges would start a speaking campaign during September and would visit every state west of the Mississippi river. It was said he would urge Republicans to send uninstructed delegates to the next national convention.

Outlining his views on national problems, Taft said that unless "the whole present tendency of government is redirected, we can not long maintain financial solvency or free enterprise or even individual liberty in the United States." He added:

"The leaders of the movement against New Deal fallacies must have the courage to incur the unlimited displeasure of every vested interest whose selfish purposes conflict with a radical policy of reform.

"Furthermore, they must work out the very difficult problem of continuing an adequate provision for the less fortunate people through relief, old age pensions, subsidized housing and the like on the one hand, while on the other restoring financial solvency and the spirit of business initiative and expansion which alone can cure unemployment. This is not going to be easy or pleasant."

Says Roosevelt Is Weakest Democrat

Cincinnati, Aug. 3 (AP) — Senator Robert A. Taft announced today his candidacy for the Republican nomination for president with the comment that the past week in Congress "has knocked out of the window any chance of a third term for Mr. Roosevelt."

Coincident with his expressed willingness that his name be used as a candidate, the son of the late president and chief justice William Howard Taft said "all the polls and the logic of the situation indicate Mr. Roosevelt would be the weakest candidate the Democrats could put up.

Says Public Ignored

Citing slashed appropriations as a "reflection of what the public wants," Taft said in an interview that "the people are against pouring out money to produce prosperity and passage of the Hatch Bill shows they are against spending relief money to promote a candidate."

Fate of the Neutrality Bill, he declared, indicates "disapproval of foreign policy in which the president is apparently too much inclined to interfere in European affairs."

Warns Republicans

But, he warned, should the Republicans win in 1940, the country need expect "no overnight miracles."

"These things," he said, referring to Roosevelt policies, "cannot be stopped at once. For instance, we couldn't stop WPA or turn it back to the states short of 12 months. Similarily, it will take at least two years to get back to a balanced budget."

This, he estimated at between $6,500,000,000 and $7,000,000,000.

Amendment of the Social Security Laws to provide a "coordinated program that makes sense," and of the Wagner Labor Act should be effected, Taft asserted, terming "some (labor board) proceedings the grossest perversion of justice I have ever encountered."

Baltimore Profits From Securities Sales

Baltimore, Aug. 3 (AP)—Baltimore's municipal government made $1,025,623.43 today through the sale of two issues of securities. A syndicate headed by Lehman Brothers, of New York, bid 120.03 for each $100 of one lot of securities with a par value of $1,355,200. A group of concerns headed by the Bankers Trust Company of New York was awarded the other lot, with a par value of $3,204,300, on a bid of $123.5364 for each $100. Both issues bear interest at 3¼ percent.

Bonds in the smaller lot will be due in 1954, and those in the other will mature in 1980.

Sheriff and Beer Runner Kill Each Other in Battle

Rusk, Tex., Aug. 3. (AP)—The sharpshooting young sheriff of Dry Cherokee county and a tavern keeper shot each other to death early today over a load of beer.

Myrtle Stanley, 25, was wounded in the pistol duel between Sheriff Bill Brunt, 29, and Isaiah Creel, 42, in whose roadhouse inn she was employed. A murder charge was placed against her.

County Attorney Ellis Lewis quoted the young woman as giving this account of the shooting:

She and Creel were returning from Kilgore with a load of beer when Brunt after sereval attempts to halt their car shot the tire off a front wheel.

As the sheriff approached on foot Creel fired once, the bullet striking Brount in the heart.

The officer fired three or four times before he fell. One bullet struck the tavern keeper in the chest, another hit the woman in the leg. All three lay beside the road nearly an hour until a truck driver arrived.

Brunt, one of the youngest sheriffs in Texas, had served four years in the navy where he won honors as a crack shot.

His 26-year-old widow was appointed late today to serve out his term.

the more it has.' The scholars will remember that the spending madness raged for almost five years, beginning in 1934, but they will record the satisfying fact that an independent House of Representatives put an end to it by a non-partisan vote on Tuesday afternoon August 1, 1939.

Memorable Fate

"August first may very properly become a memorable date in our history. Like the signing of the Declaration of Independence and the Emancipation proclamation, the vote cast yesterday was a blow for freedom. The American people, regardless of party, gathered themselves together and threw off the yoke of a false and destructive idea.

"Two emotions must today be mingled in the minds of thoughtful folk. First, satisfaction. Yesterday's vote revived our faith in representatives government. It proved anew the wise observation of Lincoln that you cannot fool all of the people all of the time, or even part of the people very long. It reaffirmed our faith in the soundness of American institutions and the capacity of the people to govern themselves.

"Second, there comes with the satisfaction a renewed sense of responsibility. Many who occupy important places in political or business life have been assuring the people that if ever industry could be freed from the overhanging threat of economic heresies, it would itself begin to spend and expand and remove the cancer of unemployment. Well, the heresies are being swept away, the threats are one by one being dispelled, the responsibility now comes back directly to industry. Its leaders must banish unemployment from America. They must put men and women back to work. This is their challenge and their opportunity. I for one have no doubt that their vision, courage and ingenuity will prove equal to the task."

Time Extension Is Granted Allen

Cynthiana, Ky., Aug. 3 (AP)—Harrison County Judge John A. Stewart today allowed Charles Allen, 70, retired farmer, "three or four days" to prepare for his examining trial on a charge of murdering Police Chief George M. Dickey last Saturday night.

The time extension was granted on motion of Attorney John P. Lair after the lawyer had conferred with Allen at the courthouse for half an hour.

H. G. Wells Loud In Praise of FDR

Scores Other Leaders and Paints Gloomy Picture in Book

London, Aug. 3. (AP)—H. G. Wells contends that the United States, guided by a "great man and patrician," Franklin D. Roosevelt, holds the clearest hope for the salvation of man through the development of a "world brain."

The 73-year-old novelist and philosopher otherwise ponders gloomily on humanity, its leaders and its future in "The Fate of Homo Sapiens," his latest book, published today.

He concludes that the world brain, the education of mankind through super-universities until it is fit for a democracy in which there would be real equality, economic justice, universal education and full knowledge for all those who desire it is the only hope.

Paints Dismal Future

He predicts that humanity, "which began in a cave, will end in the disease-soaked ruins of a slum."

Wells devotes a 20-page chapter to "the American mentality" and finds the United States "the most freespoken, active, perplexing and various of countries" in which "radical and liberal and democratic ideas have had a maximum of expression."

Crisis discovered "a great man in Franklin Roosevelt," he said.

As for the United States after Roosevelt, he wrote "it is hard to guess what may happen when this abnormal phase of personal government by one inspired, insufficiently able man of genius comes to an end. There is no one to replace him and nothing to replace him. Nothing is being prepared."

Scores Dictators

His opinion of Roosevelt contrasts with his judgments of Hitler, Mussolini, Stalin and Chamberlain.

Of the two axis partners, he calls Hitler an "unqualified horror" and Mussolini "vain, rhetorical and immensely energetic x x x."

He said the British prime minister was "essentially ignorant, narrow-minded, subconsciously timid, cunning and inordinately vain." Stalin he described as not of "overwhelming intelligence" but "honest, strong and human."

Jersey City, N. J., Aug. 3 (AP)—The collector of internal revenue padlocked today the Greenville Home News, a neighborhood weekly newspaper, for failure to pay $227 in social security taxes.

This week's issue due today did not appear and Editor Henry F. Auger said he would offer the newspaper for sale August 14. Auger said difficulties in operating the paper centered about differences over policies between him and the co-owner.

ernment had done everything possibly to "strengthen deterrents to war," adding:

"It only remains for us to keep calm, and so far as we may, to keep united, to avoid exaggerated attention to rumor and to be neither overconfident nor overpessimistic."

In his review of the international situation, the foreign secretary said:

1. Britain was prepared to use her good offices "if and when they could usefully be employed" to mediate the Chinese-Japanese conflict.

2. Continued anti-British agitation in North China could only worsen relations between Britain and Japan "with all the consequences that that deterioration must inevitably bring."

3. The Japanese under the July 22 agreement assumed responsibility for maintaining order in Japanese-controlled areas of China. "The British government will expect them x x x to put down agitation and check anti-British propaganda in those areas."

4. Britain was watching the Danzig situation "most closely" and was "fully alive to possible repercussions or developments in that quarter upon the future of European peace."

5. The main difficulty in concluding a British-French-Soviet Russian mutual assistance pact was finding a "formula that will be likely to cover indirect aggression without in any way encroaching on the independence or neutrality of other states.

"It is no secret," Lord Halifax said, "that the proposals the British and French have made have appeared to the Soviet government insufficiently comprehensive, while the formula favored by the Soviet government has seemed to his majesty's government and the French government to go too far in the other direction."

During the debate, Lord Davies, a Liberal, protested against parliament's recess tomorrow until Oct. 3.

Holt Prevents Senate Confirmation of Two Names for Postoffices

Washington, Aug. 3 (AP)—Senator Holt (D-WVA) postponed his trip to Norway and showed up unexpectedly in the Senate today, just in time to change the destiny of two would-be postmasters.

The nominations of these two—John Kenna Kerwood, of Ripley, W. Va., and Charles B. McCray, Webster Springs, W. Va—had been held up in the post office committee until yesterday, at the request of Holt, who said he objected to the appointments because protests had been filed with him.

"Then," Holt told reporters, "three hours after I was supposed to have sailed from New York for Oslo, Norway, the committee met and sent them to the floor."

After Holt turned up in the chamber and announced his opposition to confirmation, the Senate sent the nominations back to the committee.

Wallace Deplores House Failure To Vote Farm Credi

Declares Refusal To Pro vide $119,000,000 is Calamity

Washington, Aug. 3 (AP)—Secretary Wallace declared today would be a "national calamity" Congress refused to appropri $119,000,000 for restoration of cap tal stock of the Commodity Cred Corporation, agency which mak price-pegging loans on farm pr ducts.

In a letter to Senator LaFo lette (Pro-Wis), the secretary com mented on House action in refusi to add this administration-spo sored item to the third deficien appropriation bill, now before t Senate Appropriations Committee

"The appropriation," he declare "is vitally necessary to the succe of the farm program." He sa the corporation has only $9,000,0 unobligated and that unless t capital was restored no new loa could be made.

The secretary recalled that t farm act of 1938 made it mand tory under certain circumstanc for the corporation to offer loans producers of corn, wheat and co ton.

"In accordance with this requir ment, a loan program has alrea been announced with respect to t wheat crop. Wheat is now bei marketed, and, largely, as a res of the loan, the price of Americ wheat is very substantially abo world prices.

For Sale! ONE JAP MINK COAT $395.00

For Sale! ONE SEAL DYED CONEY COAT $59.00

These two fur coats have just arrived in our stocks.

What have they in common?

One costs fifty-nine dollars; the other costs nearly seven times that much . . . a great variance in price, but these two coats have one supreme distinction in common . . . BOTH are "the most in furs for the money!" They are like all Rosenbaum's fur coats. They must have Quality, Fashion, Good Taste and Fidelity to wear the Rosenbaum label.

When you purchase a fur coat, it is an act of absolute faith in the store from which you buy it . . . for, in no purchase may the layman be so deceived as in the purchase of fur. By dint of constant vigilance the Federal Trade Commission has rendered it almost impossible for you to purchase as genuine, an imitation fur. But it is not able to protect you from purchasing an inferior quality of genuine fur; fur poorly cured, scanty, over-stretched, ill-dyed or imperfectly sewn. These are the things you must take on faith when you purchase fur . . . and you can, wisely, at Rosenbaum's, which sells nothing but fashionable, quality furs at any price.

Mark this well: we make no compromise with fashion or with quality. You KNOW when you purchase furs from us that they will bring you the feeling of happiness that comes from an excellent thing desired and owned . . . because in fur purchases, as in all other transactions at Rosenbaum's, no sale is considered complete until you are completely satisfied!

Three Girls Are Making Good as New York Guides

By MARY ELIZABETH PLUMMER

New York, Aug. 3 (AP)—There's a shingle out these days over the casement window of "the narrowest house in New York," the tiny red brick residence in Greenwich Village where Edna St. Vincent Millay, the poet, once live.

Three enterprising girls, Carol and Frances and Anne, not long out of college, have rented the house, which has a kitchen unexpectedly fronting Bedford street and a trim little garden with morning glories.

"Sidewalk tours, guide service," says their sign. They devised their own business, a service which is thriving and expanding, and are having the time of their lives showing New York to persons unfamiliar with the city.

"Would you like to see some satisfied customers?" asked blue-eyed Anne Coyle, 23, when she answered the doorbell at the kitchen.

"Satisfied Customers"

The "Satisfied customers," who had been on a sidewalk tour of the financial district, were Mr. and Mrs. George Winham, of Texarkana, Ark., and their children, Ross, 15, and Kathryne, 11. Their tour was ending with a friendly chat in the long living room, which is only about eight feet wide, and they had had a good time.

"It's a friendly atmosphere for sightseeing," they said. "Anyone who has never been here before appreciates that."

"An intellectual atmosphere, too," smiled Winham, glancing up at the rows of books by the fireplace. (Among the books were seven copies of Plato's "Republic" and two copies of "Mathematics for the million.")

Anne Coyle and Carol Jackson, who started the service a year ago, were philosophy majors at Wellesley together. They thought of "sidewalk tours" a year ago.

Looking for Excitement

"We were looking for something exciting to do, and were tired of sitting in offices. We decided there was a need for this type of service—perosnalized but conscientious—for sightseeing."

Carol is the dark-haired daughter of Mrs. Carl Jackson, of West Redding, Conn., and was born in Oshkosh, Wis. Anne's parents are Mr. and Mrs. David Cushman Coyle, of Washington, D. C. Her father is an economist, and is consultant for the National Resources Committee.

"Frances came later," explained Anne. "We paid $3.30 for Frances."

She and Carol advertised in the New York Herald Tribune:

"Wanted—a girl college graduate, preferably speaking one foreign language, for a position involving more fun than money, but with excellent possibilities."

Ninety applicants came. It took Carol and Anne three days to interview them.

Oklahoma Girl Gets Job

Frances Puccini, a brown-eyed, auburn-haired girl from Oklahoma, the daughter of V. I. Puccini, an Ardmore oil man, got the job. She had majored in Spanish at Oregon University, and spent a year in Spain.

So far, however's there's been no call for Spanish on their tours.

The girls spent all last Summer and most of the fall learning more about New York, reading and exploring.

"It's an endless business," they said. "That's why it's so fascinating."

They decided on five regional tours. The patrons choose theirs.

The girls never take more than five persons at a time, unless by special arrangement, because they believe in "sightseeing personalized." The tours last three hours. They travel by public conveyances, and on foot, one guide to a party.

They have a couple of additional guides on call. Once they had a bicycle tour, on which some native New Yorkers went.

So far this summer, they've pointed out Manhattan's wonders to 150 persons, one a French countess.

The tours start from the little house at 75½ Bedford street that is both office and home to Carol and Anne. Frances, who writes short stories on the side, has an uptown apartment.

A number of other persons sought to rent Miss Millay's former home, but the agent let the eager-eyed girls have the place, "beacuse they wanted it so much."

Murphy Plans To Enforce Law To Curb Politicians

civil rights of every government employe may be duly protected and that the element of fear may be removed."

While he discussed the new law with reporters, a proposal to restrict political activity of state employes paid in part by federal funds won approval of the Senate Civil Service Committee.

Senator Neely (D-WVa) author of the measure, said he had no hope that Congress would act on it at this session, but predicted it would become law before the 1940 campaign got into full swing.

Mr. Roosevelt suggested such legislation to Congress yesterday when he signed the bill by Senator Hatch (D-NM) against political activities of federal jobholders.

PRESIDENT RECEIVES GIFT FROM PHILIPPINES

Francis Sayre, President Roosevelt and Paul V. McNutt

Federal Security Administrator Paul V. McNutt, former high commissioner of the Philippines, presents President Roosevelt with flags of the United States and the Philippines made by the people of the islands as a friendly gesture. Watching the proceedings is Francis Sayre, former assistant secretary of state and new high commissioner to the Philippines.

Federal Officials Start Search For Senders of Fake Radio Call

Now Convinced that Reports Ship Needed Help Were False

Miami, Fla., Aug. 3 (AP)—Convinced they had been victimized by a hoax, federal officials started a state wide search today for the operator who loaded radio channels with urgent distress signals through a hectic seven hours last night.

In answer to a stream of erratic messages, the coast guard and private shipping vainly searched the Atlantic off Southeast Florida by air and water, seeking a British tanker afire and sinking.

First doubt arose after the unknown operator had said his ship was the Tanker Dunkwa and Lloyd's of London reported the Dunkwa safe in port at Rotterdam.

Other Discrepancies

Further discrepancies in the harrowing calls—supposedly sent by a ship's officer after the radio operator was badly hurt—were noted soon but the coast guard didn't immediately abandon its costly search.

"All evidence points to a hoax," said Lieut W. B. Schiebel of the coast guard aid station, "but we can't take any chances."

Coast guard headquarters at Jacksonville commented bluntly:

"The whole thing stinks."

"There doesn't appear to be a chance that the messages came from a ship in distress," said Arthur S. Fish at the Miami office of the federal communications commission.

He said the FCC had some cause to believe the signals came from a land station in the Tampa area. He put investigators into the field and assembled records of radio direction finders used on the mysterious messages, but explained it would be hard to find the offender because the hunt started after the signals ceased.

Heavy Penalties

Conviction of sending false distress calls carries a maximum penalty of a $10,000 fine and two years' imprisonment.

The first SOS hit the air about 10 last night and was followed by a dramatic, though fragmentary, story of explosion, fire, death and lifeboat launching. A final message, coming in weakly about 5 A. M., said:

"Abandoning ship now."

tion which require persons running for delegate to the national convention to state their choice for the presidency and to obtain the written consent of the man so designated.

"As an Ohio matter," Taft added, "I shall be willing when the time comes to give my consent to have my name designated as the first choice by candidates for delegates throughout the state."

Vandenberg Comments

On hearing of the Ohioan's statement, Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich) said: "that's fine—the more the merrier." Vandenberg previously has indicated his own willingness to accept the nomination.

Senator Austin (R-Vt), acting minority leader, told reporters that Taft's statement was a "logical development" and was indicative of the Ohio Senator's "mental honesty" in answering the Hamilton County Committee's endorsement.

Senator Bridges (R-NH), who also is being boomed for the nomination, told reporters that "there is no question from Senator Taft's statement that his hat is in the ring."

"It would appear at this stage of the game," Bridges added, "that there would be a group of men available for the Republican convention to choose from, and I believe they will be able to choose an effective candidate."

Bridges To Take Stump

It was reported authoritatively that Bridges would start a speaking campaign during September and would visit every state west of the Mississippi river. It was said he would urge Republicans to send uninstructed delegates to the next national convention.

Outlining his views on national problems, Taft said that unless "the whole present tendency of government is redirected, we can not long maintain financial solvency or free enterprise or even individual liberty in the United States." He added:

"The leaders of the movement against New Deal fallacies must have the courage to incur the unlimited displeasure of every vested interest whose selfish purposes conflict with a radical policy of reform.

"Furthermore, they must work out the very difficult problem of continuing an adequate provision for the less fortunate people through relief, old age pensions, subsidized housing and the like on the one hand, while on the other restoring financial solvency and the spirit of business initiative and expansion which alone can cure unemployment. This is not going to be easy or pleasant."

Says Roosevelt Is Weakest Democrat

Cincinnati, Aug. 3 (AP) — Senator Robert A. Taft announced today his candidacy for the Republican nomination for president with the comment that the past week in Congress "has knocked out of the window any chance of a third term for Mr. Roosevelt."

Coincident with his expressed willingness that his name be used as a candidate, the son of the late president and chief justice William Howard Taft said "all the polls and the logic of the situation indicate Mr. Roosevelt would be the weakest candidate the Democrats could put up.

Says Public Ignored

Citing slashed appropriations as a "reflection of what the public wants," Taft said in an interview that "the people are against pouring out money to produce prosperity and passage of the Hatch Bill shows they are against spending relief money to promote a candidate."

Fate of the Neutrality Bill, he declared, indicates "disapproval of foreign policy in which the president is apparently too much inclined to interfere in European affairs."

Warns Republicans

But, he warned, should the Republicans win in 1940, the country need expect "no overnight miracles."

"These things," he said, referring to Roosevelt policies, "cannot be stopped at once. For instance, we couldn't stop WPA or turn it back to the states short of 12 months. Similarily, it will take at least two years to get back to a balanced budget."

This, he estimated at between $6,500,000,000 and $7,000,000,000.

Amendment of the Social Security Laws to provide a "coordinated program that makes sense," and of the Wagner Labor Act should be effected, Taft asserted, terming "some (labor board) proceedings the grossest perversion of justice I have ever encountered."

Baltimore Profits From Securities Sales

Baltimore, Aug. 3 (AP)—Baltimore's municipal government made $1,025,623.43 today through the sale of two issues of securities. A syndicate headed by Lehman Brothers, of New York, bid 120.03 for each $100 of one lot of securities with a par value of $1,355,200. A group of concerns headed by the Bankers Trust Company of New York was awarded the other lot, with a par value of $3,204,300, on a bid of $123.5364 for each $100. Both issues bear interest at 3¼ percent.

Bonds in the smaller lot will be due in 1954, and those in the other will mature in 1980.

Charles Francis Coe Out for U. S. Senate

Paris, Aug. 3. (AP)—Charles Francis Coe, American writer, widely known for his stories of the gangster era, announced tonight his candidacy for United States Senator from Florida.

Sheriff and Beer Runner Kill Each Other in Battle

Rusk, Tex., Aug. 3. (AP)—The sharpshooting young sheriff of Dry Cherokee county and a tavern keeper shot each other to death early today over a load of beer.

Myrtle Stanley, 25, was wounded in the pistol duel between Sheriff Bill Brunt, 29, and Isaiah Creel, 42, in whose roadhouse inn she was employed. A murder charge was placed against her.

County Attorney Ellis Lewis quoted the young woman as giving this account of the shooting:

She and Creel were returning from Kilgore with a load of beer when Brunt after sereval attempts to halt their car shot the tire off a front wheel.

As the sheriff approached on foot Creel fired once, the bullet striking Brount in the heart.

The officer fired three or four times before he fell. One bullet struck the tavern keeper in the chest, another hit the woman in the leg. All three lay beside the road nearly an hour until a truck driver arrived.

Brunt, one of the youngest sheriffs in Texas, had served four years in the navy where he won honors as a crack shot.

His 26-year-old widow was appointed late today to serve out his term.

the more it has.' The scholars will remember that the spending madness raged for almost five years, beginning in 1934, but they will record the satisfying fact that an independent House of Representatives put an end to it by a non-partisan vote on Tuesday afternoon August 1, 1939.

Memorable Fate

"August first may very properly become a memorable date in our history. Like the signing of the Declaration of Independence and the Emancipation proclamation, the vote cast yesterday was a blow for freedom. The American people, regardless of party, gathered themselves together and threw off the yoke of a false and destructive idea.

"Two emotions must today be mingled in the minds of thoughtful folk. First, satisfaction. Yesterday's vote revived our faith in representatives government. It proved anew the wise observation of Lincoln that you cannot fool all of the people all of the time, or even part of the people very long. It reaffirmed our faith in the soundness of American institutions and the capacity of the people to govern themselves.

"Second, there comes with the satisfaction a renewed sense of responsibility. Many who occupy important places in political or business life have been assuring the people that if ever industry could be freed from the overhanging threat of economic heresies, it would itself begin to spend and expand and remove the cancer of unemployment. Well, the heresies are being swept away, the threats are one by one being dispelled, the responsibility now comes back directly to industry. Its leaders must banish unemployment from America. They must put men and women back to work. This is their challenge and their opportunity. I for one have no doubt that their vision, courage and ingenuity will prove equal to the task."

Time Extension Is Granted Allen

Cynthiana, Ky., Aug. 3 (AP)—Harrison County Judge John A. Stewart today allowed Charles Allen, 70, retired farmer, "three or four days" to prepare for his examining trial on a charge of murdering Police Chief George M. Dickey last Saturday night.

The time extension was granted on motion of Attorney John P. Lair after the lawyer had conferred with Allen at the courthouse for half an hour.

H. G. Wells Loud In Praise of FDR

Scores Other Leaders and Paints Gloomy Picture in Book

London, Aug. 3. (AP)—H. G. Wells contends that the United States, guided by a "great man and patrician," Franklin D. Roosevelt, holds the clearest hope for the salvation of man through the development of a "world brain."

The 73-year-old novelist and philosopher otherwise ponders gloomily on humanity, its leaders and its future in "The Fate of Homo Sapiens," his latest book, published today.

He concludes that the world brain, the education of mankind through super-universities until it is fit for a democracy in which there would be real equality, economic justice, universal education and full knowledge for all those who desire it is the only hope.

Paints Dismal Future

He predicts that humanity, "which began in a cave, will end in the disease-soaked ruins of a slum."

Wells devotes a 20-page chapter to "the American mentality" and finds the United States "the most freespoken, active, perplexing and various of countries" in which "radical and liberal and democratic ideas have had a maximum of expression."

Crisis discovered "a great man in Franklin Roosevelt," he said.

As for the United States after Roosevelt, he wrote "it is hard to guess what may happen when this abnormal phase of personal government by one inspired, insufficiently able man of genius comes to an end. There is no one to replace him and nothing to replace him. Nothing is being prepared."

Scores Dictators

His opinion of Roosevelt contrasts with his judgments of Hitler, Mussolini, Stalin and Chamberlain.

Of the two axis partners, he calls Hitler an "unqualified horror" and Mussolini "vain, rhetorical and immensely energetic x x x."

He said the British prime minister was "essentially ignorant, narrow-minded, subconsciously timid, cunning and inordinately vain." Stalin he described as not of "overwhelming intelligence" but "honest, strong and human."

Collector Padlocks Weekly Newspaper

Jersey City, N. J., Aug. 3 (AP)—The collector of internal revenue padlocked today the Greenville Home News, a neighborhood weekly newspaper, for failure to pay $227 in social security taxes.

This week's issue due today did not appear and Editor Henry F. Auger said he would offer the newspaper for sale August 14. Auger said difficulties in operating the paper centered about differences over policies between him and the co-owner.

Four Persons Die In Automobile Crash

Dover, Del., Aug. 3. (AP)—Four persons were killed today in an automobile wreck south of Middletown, Del.

The only survivor, Waldo Fehling, of Philadelphia, regained consciousness at a hospital, and murmured: "A tire blew out."

The victims were Raymond Dryden and his wife of Pocomoke City, Md., their son and Fehling's 15-year-old son, Walter.

MORGENTHAU OFF FOR EUROPE

Taking time out from the headaches entailed in keeping the nation's finances in order in sweltering Washington, Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau sails from New York with his wife, bound for a tour of the Scandinavian countries. British Leaders Differ Over War Outlook In Europe

ernment had done everything possibly to "strengthen deterrents to war," adding:

"It only remains for us to keep calm, and so far as we may, to keep united, to avoid exaggerated attention to rumor and to be neither overconfident nor overpessimistic."

In his review of the international situation, the foreign secretary said:

1. Britain was prepared to use her good offices "if and when they could usefully be employed" to mediate the Chinese-Japanese conflict.

2. Continued anti-British agitation in North China could only worsen relations between Britain and Japan "with all the consequences that that deterioration must inevitably bring."

3. The Japanese under the July 22 agreement assumed responsibility for maintaining order in Japanese-controlled areas of China. "The British government will expect them x x x to put down agitation and check anti-British propaganda in those areas."

4. Britain was watching the Danzig situation "most closely" and was "fully alive to possible repercussions or developments in that quarter upon the future of European peace."

5. The main difficulty in concluding a British-French-Soviet Russian mutual assistance pact was finding a "formula that will be likely to cover indirect aggression without in any way encroaching on the independence or neutrality of other states.

"It is no secret," Lord Halifax said, "that the proposals the British and French have made have appeared to the Soviet government insufficiently comprehensive, while the formula favored by the Soviet government has seemed to his majesty's government and the French government to go too far in the other direction."

During the debate, Lord Davies, a Liberal, protested against parliament's recess tomorrow until Oct. 3.

Holt Prevents Senate Confirmation of Two Names for Postoffices

Washington, Aug. 3 (AP)—Senator Holt (D-WVA) postponed his trip to Norway and showed up unexpectedly in the Senate today, just in time to change the destiny of two would-be postmasters.

The nominations of these two—John Kenna Kerwood, of Ripley, W. Va., and Charles B. McCray, Webster Springs, W. Va—had been held up in the post office committee until yesterday, at the request of Holt, who said he objected to the appointments because protests had been filed with him.

"Then," Holt told reporters, "three hours after I was supposed to have sailed from New York for Oslo, Norway, the committee met and sent them to the floor."

After Holt turned up in the chamber and announced his opposition to confirmation, the Senate sent the nominations back to the committee.

Wallace Deplores House Failure To Vote Farm Cred

Declares Refusal To Pr vide $119,000,000 Is Calamity

Washington, Aug. 3 (AP)—Sec tary Wallace declared today would be a "national calamity" Congress refused to appropri $119,000,000 for restoration of ca tal stock of the Commodity Cre Corporation, agency which ma price-pegging loans on farm pr ducts.

In a letter to Senator LaF lette (Pro-Wis), the secretary co mented on House action in refusi to add this administration-spo sored item to the third deficien appropriation bill, now before t Senate Appropriations Committe

"The appropriation," he declare "is vitally necessary to the succe of the farm program." He sa the corporation has only $9,000,0 unobligated and that unless t capital was restored no new loa could be made.

The secretary recalled that t farm act of 1938 made it mand tory under certain circumstanc for the corporation to offer loans producers of corn, wheat and co ton.

"In accordance with this requir ment, a loan program has alrea been announced with respect to t wheat crop. Wheat is now bei marketed, and, largely, as a res of the loan, the price of America wheat is very substantially abo world prices.

Yes, Byron Has "Sold Out"

NOT LONG SINCE, this newspaper raised the question whether Representative William D. Byron, of this congressional district, had "sold out" to the New Deal. The query was posited upon the fact that Byron had been dodging his vote on all the important measures coming before the House and that when he did occasionally vote on minor matters he was voting generally in accordance with White House wishes.

Mr. Byron got considerable publicity on his record of non-voting and even his own party organs began to criticize him for his failure to represent his district one way or another. In fact, they started the criticism. His vote-dodging came to be somewhat notorious. This newspaper considered his record strange in view of the fact that when he was campaigning for his seat Mr. Byron let it be known, under cover, through his supporters if not by himself, that he was not at all in sympathy with the New Deal crackpotism. He was pictured as a level-headed business man who would not stand for such monkey business. Assumption to that effect was carefully built up throughout his campaign and there is no question but what that was largely responsible for his sliding into the House seat by the skin of his teeth.

In view of all that, it was natural for the question to come up whether Mr. Byron had "sold out" to the New Deal. It appears now that he has so done. He voted for consideration of the perilous spend-lend program ordered by the president, which, in view of the issue, is as good a test as anything. That certainly does not conform to the hopes of many of his friends who voted for him, particularly in view of the representations made in behalf of his candidacy. Mr. Byron must feel himself out on a limb now considering the vote cast by the House, which, in view of popular demand, was one of the best things that body has done during a session in which so many well-deserved and long-needed punches were taken at the New Deal failures, which Mr. Byron was ostensibly against.

It is of interest to note the vote against the president's latest spendthrift measure registered by Pennsylvania representatives. Only nine members voted for it with one being so paired, namely, Boland, Bradley, Dunn, Flannery McArdle, Moser, Myers, Sacks, Walters and McGranery, the last named being the one paired.

But the following rolled up their votes in opposition: Eberharter, Faddis, Corbett, Darrow, Ditter, Fenton, Gartner, Gerlach, Graham, Gross, Jarrett, Kinzer, Kunkel, McDowell, Rich, Rodgers, Rutherford, Simpson, Tibbott, Van Zandt and Wolfenden. That is at the rate of two to one. Pennsylvania apparently, has its stomach full of the New Deal and is feeling nauseated.

Even the adjoining state of West Virginia, so long held in the clutches of the administration, kicked over the traces. Representatives Edmiston, Johnson, Smith and Shiffler (R), voted against consideration. Jennings Randolph and Kee stuck to orders and voted for consideration.

The Maryland vote was, unhappily, not in accordance with the general trend as all its representatives fell in line under the presidential whip, Cole, D'Alesandro, Kennedy, Sasscer and Ward voting for consideration as well as Byron.

Perhaps Mr. Byron would have liked to dodge the issue this time again, but the likelihood is that he was caught on the end of the New Deal grabhook and forced to toe the mark, which he did quite obediently, thus giving unmistakable evidence that the assurances given in his campaign were a sham and a fraud.

In Labor's Interest

IT has long been apparent that defects in the Wagner Labor act and more especially the biased administration of that act by the National Labor Relations Board have constituted a major deterrent to business recovery.

The independence of the House is voting an investigation not only of the board but of the act itself despite strong New Deal pressure to head off such inquiry is another heartening indication that Congress is determined to recapture and reassert its constitutional rights. It is not without significance that business indices and security market prices have steadily advanced since Congress began to exercise its proper legislative functions.

This action by the House is really a blow struck in the interest of labor, which labor will not fail to understand despite New Deal efforts to distort this truth. Labor will not forget that it was not the head of a large corporation but John Green, president of the Union of Marine and Shipbuilding Workers, who told the House Labor committee that the Labor board deprived the Wagner act of effectiveness by delaying settlement of cases for months and even for years.

This is precisely one of the major complaints of employers. Such delay has meant enormous losses for employees and for employers alike. It has been especially costly for employers in cases wherein after a delay of five or six months the board has ordered an employer to rehire strikers with full back pay.

Moreover, a recent study shows that sixty-seven concerns in twenty-eight states had to spend an average of $20,572 each in defending themselves against charges made by the board.

Belatedly, the Labor board grudgingly conceded that if it is right and proper—as nobody questions it is—that labor be protected against exploitation by employers, it is equally fair and proper that employers be protected against damage inflicted in the course of fights among labor unions.

But the ineffectiveness of the board's new rule to cover such a situation was made apparent by the strike against General Motors, the first company to petition the board for a collective bargaining unit election under the changed policy.

This investigation will have salutary effects for both labor and industry if it results not only in bringing administration of the act more in line with the intent of Congress which passed it but also in remedying the defects in the act itself which experience has disclosed.

The Horn-Blowing Nuisance

THE HORN-BLOWING NUISANCE again is under the fire of the Keystone Automobile Club. This time, however, the club extends its criticism to parents who permit children to operate horns on parked automobiles, apparently in the belief the resulting din is "cute."

"We have received many complaints," said George E. Keneipp, manager of the club, "about this form of nuisance. Most of them come from homes where there is serious illness or where some member of the family suffers from nervous disorder. The incessant tooting of horns by children not only annoys persons in normal health but often aggravates the condition of invalids."

Horn-blowing by drivers who "ought to know better" continues to be a major problem, the club official declared. Intersection accidents continue because drivers place more reliance on their horns than their brakes. This condition is worse in early morning hours, when operators literally bet their lives they can clear an intersection with a horn blast.

It is emphasized by the club that horns should be used only as a warning device in case of sudden emergency. They were never intended to be anything else—much less a device for announcing the arrival or departure of callers in otherwise sedate and peaceful residential sections.

A Fair Proposal

THE ANGRY AFTERMATH of John L. Lewis's attack on Vice President Garner is the opportune time for it, and there is merit in the proposal of Senator Tydings regarding political contributions by labor unions.

Tydings would amend the corrupt practices act to forbid political contributions by any organization, including unions, which had not collected the money for that special purpose. The proposal obviously refers to Mr. Lewis and the $470,000 mortgage of his miners' union on the Democratic party.

Tydings proposes in effect to extend to labor unions and other organizations the same restrictions federal law now applies to corporations. The reason also is the same. Corporations were forbidden to make political contributions (the Democrats sold them "year books" autographed by President Roosevelt, however, at thousands of dollars a copy) because it was thought wise that political parties should not be indebted to them.

Individuals should be prevented from exerting political power irresponsibly with other people's money. Thus the prohibition on corporate contributions and thus also the added restriction now proposed. The idea is to keep political power in the hands of the voter.

The man at the next desk says the quickest way to find the millinery department in a department store is to find the counters displaying objects which couldn't possibly be hats. That's it.

You Can't Do Anything About It

By MARSHALL MASLIN

Bill is in trouble and he asked me if I could help him.

It seems that he was invited to a dinner and he accepted. Then he forgot all about it. He went out of town and never thought of it again. . . . And the dinner was all prepared and the people were waiting for Bill and his wife, and they didn't appear. His wife would have remembered, of course, but he hadn't even told her about the invitation. . . . And after he came back to town again his friends wanted to know what was what, and he didn't have any excuse worth putting into words.

Marshall Maslin

He did say, "I forgot," and that was the literal truth. But what kind of excuse is THAT, anyway? A man's not supposed to forget such things. It's an insult if he does, a slight, an unforgivable affront to forget an invitation to dinner from friends, and it seems to indicate you don't think much of them, after all. . . You forgot their invitation and that family will always remember you forgot and the coolness between you and them will mitigate any hot spell of weather that comes along.

So I gave no "advice" to my friend Bill. (All I did was moan in sympathy with him). . . . Once a good friend invited me to his weddingg shortly after the war, and I forgot to go. . . . So I blamed it on the war which was big enough to shoulder the burden. . . . And once, during that same period, I went to a dance and while I was sitting before the fireplace talking to the beautiful and intelligent hostess, I fell asleep. . . . And when I woke, she laughed at me and was kind, and blamed that on the war, too. She had a sense of humor and some proper pride and she knew that if I hadn't been tired and if my nerves hadn't been somewhat frayed, I could never have fallen asleep while talking to HER. . . . But if she hadn't been that sort of person, I'd never have seen her again (and, come to think of it, I DIDN'T see her very often, either).

There's nothing you can do in such a situation, Bill. You can explain. You can apologize. You can crawl. You can eat Humble Pie and choke on it. . . But, finally, there's nothing for you to do but go put your head in a bucket and crawl in after it. . . . Every so often a man is doomed to do some asinine thing like that and he might as well accept his fate.

The Human Side Of the News

Here's a bang-up chance for another "Old Ironsides" poem to save a gallant old ship. The Charles W. Morgan, the last of the great Whaleships, is marooned up near New Bedford, Mass., on the estate of the late Col. E. H. R. Green, and just what is to be done about her is becoming a public issue in these parts. When the Colonel gave her a temporary berth he made no provision for a permanent home, and unless one is provided she will have to be broken up.

Edwin C. Hill

The Massachusetts state legislature has refused an appropriation to enshrine the fine old ship in the New Bedford waterfront park, and now citizens of the seaport have been petitioning the Federal government to do something about it. They have written to Postmaster General Farley suggesting a series of postage stamps of famous old whaleships, to get the nation whaleship conscious and help them save their beloved old hooker.

More power to them, but why drag in Uncle Sam for a job like this? If there is anything which New Bedford should be proud and happy to do all by herself it is to stow the Charles W. Morgan comfortably for the rest of her days, deal her a new dress and keep her clear of barnacles, as befits her high estate. In the name of Moby Dick, why not?

No Subsidy

Hard-fisted old Captain John A. Cook, who once owned and sailed the Charles W. Morgan, didn't have much use for governments, and there never was a dime of government subsidy behind his ships or any other ships of the great whaling fleets.

Chasing whales in the Bowhead, built in Norway, the captain had to pick up foreign registry, as foreign-built boats couldn't get American registry. Every now and then this got him in a tangle with some officious and perhaps grafting underling of an alien power. On these occasions Captain Cook showed a disposition to lick the given alien power single-handed, and on several occasions pretty nearly did.

When the Japanese tried to put the squeeze on him for $6,000 in Yokohama, he told them what he thought of them in Cape Cod fo'c'sle lingo, sailed his boat under the guns of their fort into a black night and raging sea, ducked their pursuing cruisers and got a fast running start, knocking over whales in the far northern sea.

In the above and many other similar encounters, the captain didn't bother the American consul, and in his battles with the ice and and angry Arctic seas, there was no government whatever in his corner.

If any one chapter of American history brings through winners without benefit of red tape or federal nursing or bottle-feeding it is the story of the whaleships. It is true that when Captain Cook got around to it, he went down to Washington, pounded a few desks and got Congress to pass a law admitting the Bowhead to American registry. But he wasn't there for a hand-out. He was just telling 'em.

If New Bedford wants to work under her old ground-rules, her solvent citizens will start harpooning their own pocket books to take care of the Charles W. Morgan, and not start poaching on Uncle Sam.

A Good Yarn

For pleasant summer reading, an anodyne for governmental futility and muddling all over the world, read Captain Cook's book, "Pursuing the Whale," published by Houghton Mifflin Company in 1926. The story is as naive as the title, with no fancy writing getting in the way of the narrative. And, mates, there's a yarn to keep you up nights. Here's a passage speared at random.

"As soon as he felt the harpoon, I knew by his actions that we had got hold of a tartar, for he did not run, but lashed the sea with his tail, and then threw his jaw into air, looking to see where the boat was that had dared to harpoon him.

"The waist boat came to assist me to kill him. As the harpoon from that boat penetrated his flesh, he caught the boat in his eighteen-feet of jaw and bit it all to pieces. We in the larboard boat took the crew into our boat and slacked the line to get a safe distance away."

That story starts on page 9. Read on through the tale of how the whale snapped at another boat and "bit it in two halves with no more trouble than we take to crack an egg." All this in a heavy sea—and they finally got the whale.

And now the sons of the whalers turn to the federals to get a spot for the old Charles W. Morgan!—Copyright, 1939, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

RIGHT BEHIND THE EARS

By MARK SULLIVAN

Washington, Aug. 3—The House's rejection of the president's program had been about 3 in the afternoon, and the president's press conference was to be at 4. News of the debacle in the House had flown through the town, and as we gathered for the press conference, in exceptionally large number — there were upward of 200—we talked of how sensational the debacle had been, and how the president would take it.

Mark Sullivan

Nothing quite like it had ever happened before. The House had not defeated the president's measure—it had not given the measure, or him, the courtesy of administering a defeat. What the House had defeated was the preliminary motion for a rule, that is, a motion providing for debate on the bill. It was as if a man at a desk had said to a caller with a business proposition, "Take the damn thing out, I won't even talk about it."

Every One Curious

All this the newspaper men discussed, while we waited in the lobby. As the door to the president's office opened, there was a faint manner of rush, to get places in the front rows of the crowd that would face the president's desk. One felt sure the president, who is alert and sensitive to psychological atmospheres, was aware of this eagerness to get where they could see the expression of his face as he commented on a serious set-back to himself. The president, long a pleased basker in the populace's favor, is likely to learn that there is in human nature a trait which will eye him curiously when he is in defeat.

On this occasion, he was perfectly game. He achieved gameness without the appearance of trying to. His expression and manner was of smiling ease.

Michelson Perturbed

That was in contrast with Charley Michelson. At every press conference, Mr. Michelson, in his role of publicity sage for the New Deal, sits a little behind the president, where he can observe the faces of the newspaper men and in other respects watch over this detail of the process of influencing public psychology. Charley, in his long life, has ridden out many a crisis, and achieved great immunity to perturbance. Yet on this occasion he betrayed nervousness by the poker player's unconscious device of covering his mouth with his hand, with fingers and thumb holding the features set, to conceal expression, and guard against any sudden flush of unwanted emotion. Mr. Michelson was apprehensive—but need not have been.

The president was not in the faintest degree nervous or on guard. While the crowd was gathering, he exchanged smiling chat, about his fishing trip and the like, with those who had arrived first and were close to his desk. When the usher closed the door and called out, "All in" Mr. Roosevelt said something jocose about having settled some matters with the front row, and now was there anything else?

Question Is Put

Instantly the expected question came. Had he heard of the action of the House? With a perhaps artificially achieved matter-of-factness, Mr. Roosevelt said he had only heard of it an hour before, and had not had time to reflect on it much. The newspaper men gave him some additional details, exact figures of the vote, the number of Democrats who had voted against him, the fact that the Republicans had voted as a solid unit.

The first part of Mr. Roosevelt's comment was perhaps the part he may have thought out in anticipation of the press conference. It addressed itself to taxpayers and business men, classes not heretofore always the primary concern of the president. His comment was: that had the bill been passed, in about sixty days industry would have felt its benefits; many men now on relief would have got jobs; now, these men will continue a burden to taxpayers; it will cost taxpayers hundreds of millions. There was talk about how many men are put to work by a given amount of money; the number who get jobs directly on projects, and the number who get jobs "behind the line", supplying materials. It was an exposition of the whole New Deal thesis about spending.

Eagerness Lacking

All this the newspaper men listened to gravely. Most took notes; they knew this press conference was important. They were interested, sympathetic; they all like the president. Yet their manner was faintly detached; it lacked the eagerness with which, in the early days, press conferences used to listen to the New Deal ideas when they were new.

Faintly there was in the manner of the newspaper men that which said, "Yes, yes, we've heard that before." And that was precisely what Congress had said, with less courtesy. The lending bill was just another out-pouring of money. All the arguments for it had been made for previous out-pourings. That "first fine careless rapture" which had attended New Deal projects when the New Deal was pristine, had gone, and could not be recaptured.

Mr. Roosevelt, early in his administration, explained the New Deal philosophy. It was—I quote from memory: "Do something; if it doesn't work, try something else." By that New Deal axiom Mr. Roosevelt had justified many things—and received tolerance for many things that went sour.

But, when you have spent twenty billions, and it hasn't worked, and then you start to spend some billions more—that is not trying something else; that is trying the same thing over. This Congress realized.

Rail Passenger Traffic Up

From the Philadelphia Inquirer.

The substantial increase in passenger traffic last month, reported by the railroads, may be attributed to the reduced rates for round trips and the decided improvements in speed and equipment. The eighteen per cent. gain over July, 1938 is particularly encouraging in view of the fact that during most of the previous period the straight two cents a mile coach rate wasn't in effect.

This suggests that while the lower round trip fares have been a stimulus to rail travel, the more attractive and comfortable accommodations have played an even greater part.

Five years ago the first lightweight, streamlined train was put in service. Today about eighty are operated by twenty railroads. All are classed as money makers. Two trains of this type running between Chicago and Denver had net earnings of $1,568,000 in a single year. Comparable results in the case of similar trains are reported.

While extra fare or all-Pullman trains will always attract a fair share of customers, they are not revenue producers. The immediate success of the new all-coach, fast trains between New York and Chicago, introduced by the Pennsylvania and New York Central railroads, shows what the public wants.

These trains are designed to meet competition from buses. With more trains of this type the buses may find their most profitable field in shorter distances, thus affording a logical division of passenger traffic, giving each branch of transportation its share. The railroads still require freedom from unjust restrictions on their earning power, but are learning how to regain some of their lost business.

On the Record

By Senator Harry F. Byrd, Democrat, of Virginia.

To minimize the evils of debt—to make debt popular—is a dangerous doctrine to preach. When the day of reckoning comes, as it inevitably must, the people of America will know to their sorrow that the payment of debt is vastly different from spending the proceeds of debt.

Small kindnesses, small courtesies, small considerations, habitually practiced in our social intercourse, give a greater charm to the character than the display of great talents and accomplishments. — M. A. KELTY.

Illusion

From the Cincinnati Times-Star.

"Pay as you go," that rock-bottom counsel of prudence, has been consistently neglected during the Roosevelt regime. It should mean increased taxes to meet increased expenditures. There are reasons of temporary expediency of course, for borrowing to make up a part of the difference rather than to cover it by increased taxation alone, yet the administration's refusal to recommend taxes commensurate with daily needs rests on something else: the fear of a political overturn, once the bill for its adventures is presented. There have been curious individual instances of the failure of government to face the facts—as when the United States Senate added millions to the Agricultural Appropriation bill without making provision for raising the money to pay for the benefits and bounties decreed; again, as when the Florida Senate voted to increase the state's contribution to old age pensions without finding funds to pay the difference.

If all this were good practice, if it were even rational practice, we would expect to see people generally increasing their living expenses beyond present income without making provision to increase that income. Nobody is doing it. The common practice of Americans amounts to a condemnation of the theory of the regime under which they are living. Will not that theory go down in history as another of the Great Illusions?

Bias of Board Cause of Trouble

By HUGH S. JOHNSON

Washington, D. C., Aug. 3—The rioting in Cleveland is not the result of an industrial dispute. What we have here is an outgrowth of a labor dispute. The employer, the General Motors Corporation, long ago bowed to the requirements of the Wagner Labor Relations act. It made a contract with the United Automobile Workers which the union accepted. The union seemed satisfied with General Motors. But it soon became apparent that it was not satisfied with itself.

HUGH JOHNSON

Its president, Homer Martin, with one group of workers, began leaning toward Mr. Green's A.F. of L. Another element among the workers preferred Mr. Lewis's C.I.O. On January 8, 1939, the president of the latter faction, Mr. E. J. Thomas, who himself had signed the resolutions of the union of September 16, 1937, which were the basis of a settlement, presented himself as the authorized agent of the union to conduct negotiations for a new agreement. At the same time Mr. Homer Martin made a similar demand.

Both Groups Large

If it was not clear then, it has become certain since that each of these leaders represented very substantial groups of workers. Each insisted on exclusive representation of all workers. The company had no guide as how to comply with the law as to any particular plant or group of plants. It is forbidden to favor any union or any group. There is only one way in which that question can be peacefully settled. That way is, for the National Labor Relations Board either with or without an election to decide which is the exclusive bargaining agency in any plants in which there is a dispute on that point.

Accordingly, on July 1, 1939, the corporation petitioned the Labor Relations board to investigate and make such a decision. Earlier in the year it could not have done that because, in defiance of the terms of the law of its creation, the board had decided that it would function only at the request of workers and never at the petition of an employer. That arbitrary illegal and unfair ruling raised such a howl of protest that the Board emended its self-declared law and decided that it would receive employer petitions—thereby convicting itself of an earlier perversion of the act.

Arbitrary and Perversive

But apparently, while it will "receive" such a petition, it will act upon it only if it so elects—which is just as arbitrary and almost as great a perversion as before. The company's petition of July 1st might as well have been dropped into a well. The board has taken no action and the strikes and riotings are on—a battle to a knockout—not primarily between the company and its employees but between two rival unions.

Why Don't the unions seek a peaceful settlement by an impartial election? Because, just like the company, neither is sure which side has a majority. If either were certain, naturally it would ask for an election instantly. The aggressor group, in this case the C.I.O., prefers to use force to intimidate its rivals and, like Mr. Hitler, to continue its power politics until it has strong-armed or bluffed enough timid and uninterested workers to make a majority, or bulldozed the company into an infraction of the law.

Confidence Lost

Why doesn't the Labor board perform the duty to fairness and the public which was laid upon it by Congress? Isn't it fair to suspect that it does not do so because it approves and encourages such tactics or would prefer to suffer them rather than risk the disfavor of either group of labor—regardless of justice and impartiality?

This board is to be investigated by a committee of Congress. It doesn't need much investigation. It has so smeared itself with stuff like this that it has lost the confidence of the country.—Distributed by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

Yes, Byron Has "Sold Out"

NOT LONG SINCE, this newspaper raised the question whether Representative William D. Byron, of this congressional district, had "sold out" to the New Deal. The query was posited upon the fact that Byron had been dodging his vote on all the important measures coming before the House and that when he did occasionally vote on minor matters he was voting generally in accordance with White House wishes.

Mr. Byron got considerable publicity on his record of non-voting and even his own party organs began to criticize him for his failure to represent his district one way or another. In fact, they started the criticism. His vote-dodging came to be somewhat notorious. This newspaper considered his record strange in view of the fact that when he was campaigning for his seat Mr. Byron let it be known, under cover, through his supporters if not by himself, that he was not at all in sympathy with the New Deal crackpotism. He was pictured as a level-headed business man who would not stand for such monkey business. Assumption to that effect was carefully built up throughout his campaign and there is no question but what that was largely responsible for his sliding into the House seat by the skin of his teeth.

In view of all that, it was natural for the question to come up whether Mr. Byron had "sold out" to the New Deal. It appears now that he has so done. He voted for consideration of the perilous spend-lend program ordered by the president, which, in view of the issue, is as good a test as anything. That certainly does not conform to the hopes of many of his friends who voted for him, particularly in view of the representations made in behalf of his candidacy. Mr. Byron must feel himself out on a limb now considering the vote cast by the House, which, in view of popular demand, was one of the best things that body has done during a session in which so many well-deserved and long-needed punches were taken at the New Deal failures, which Mr. Byron was ostensibly against.

It is of interest to note the vote against the president's latest spendthrift measure registered by Pennsylvania representatives. Only nine members voted for it with one being so paired, namely, Boland, Bradley, Dunn, Flannery McArdle, Moser, Myers, Sacks, Walters and McGranery, the last named being the one paired.

But the following rolled up their votes in opposition: Eberharter, Faddis, Corbett, Darrow, Ditter, Fenton, Gartner, Gerlach, Graham, Gross, Jarrett, Kinzer, Kunkel, McDowell, Rich, Rodgers, Rutherford, Simpson, Tibbott, Van Zandt and Wolfenden. That is at the rate of two to one. Pennsylvania apparently, has its stomach full of the New Deal and is feeling nauseated.

Even the adjoining state of West Virginia, so long held in the clutches of the administration, kicked over the traces. Representatives Edmiston, Johnson, Smith and Shiffler (R), voted against consideration. Jennings Randolph and Kee stuck to orders and voted for consideration.

The Maryland vote was, unhappily, not in accordance with the general trend as all its representatives fell in line under the presidential whip, Cole, D'Alesandro, Kennedy, Sasscer and Ward voting for consideration as well as Byron.

Perhaps Mr. Byron would have liked to dodge the issue this time again, but the likelihood is that he was caught on the end of the New Deal grabhook and forced to toe the mark, which he did quite obediently, thus giving unmistakable evidence that the assurances given in his campaign were a sham and a fraud.

In Labor's Interest

IT has long been apparent that defects in the Wagner Labor act and more especially the biased administration of that act by the National Labor Relations Board have constituted a major deterrent to business recovery.

The independence of the House is voting an investigation not only of the board but of the act itself despite strong New Deal pressure to head off such inquiry is another heartening indication that Congress is determined to recapture and reassert its constitutional rights. It is not without significance that business indices and security market prices have steadily advanced since Congress began to exercise its proper legislative functions.

This action by the House is really a blow struck in the interest of labor, which labor will not fail to understand despite New Deal efforts to distort this truth. Labor will not forget that it was not the head of a large corporation but John Green, president of the Union of Marine and Shipbuilding Workers, who told the House Labor committee that the Labor board deprived the Wagner act of effectiveness by delaying settlement of cases for months and even for years.

This is precisely one of the major complaints of employers. Such delay has meant enormous losses for employees and for employers alike. It has been especially costly for employers in cases wherein after a delay of five or six months the board has ordered an employer to rehire strikers with full back pay.

Moreover, a recent study shows that sixty-seven concerns in twenty-eight states had to spend an average of $20,572 each in defending themselves against charges made by the board.

Belatedly, the Labor board grudgingly conceded that if it is right and proper—as nobody questions it is—that labor be protected against exploitation by employers, it is equally fair and proper that employers be protected against damage inflicted in the course of fights among labor unions.

But the ineffectiveness of the board's new rule to cover such a situation was made apparent by the strike against General Motors, the first company to petition the board for a collective bargaining unit election under the changed policy.

This investigation will have salutary effects for both labor and industry if it results not only in bringing administration of the act more in line with the intent of Congress which passed it but also in remedying the defects in the act itself which experience has disclosed.

The Horn-Blowing Nuisance

THE HORN-BLOWING NUISANCE again is under the fire of the Keystone Automobile Club. This time, however, the club extends its criticism to parents who permit children to operate horns on parked automobiles, apparently in the belief the resulting din is "cute."

"We have received many complaints," said George E. Keneipp, manager of the club, "about this form of nuisance. Most of them come from homes where there is serious illness or where some member of the family suffers from nervous disorder. The incessant tooting of horns by children not only annoys persons in normal health but often aggravates the condition of invalids."

Horn-blowing by drivers who "ought to know better" continues to be a major problem, the club official declared. Intersection accidents continue because drivers place more reliance on their horns than their brakes. This condition is worse in early morning hours, when operators literally bet their lives they can clear an intersection with a horn blast.

It is emphasized by the club that horns should be used only as a warning device in case of sudden emergency. They were never intended to be anything else—much less a device for announcing the arrival or departure of callers in otherwise sedate and peaceful residential sections.

A Fair Proposal

THE ANGRY AFTERMATH of John L. Lewis's attack on Vice President Garner is the opportune time for it, and there is merit in the proposal of Senator Tydings regarding political contributions by labor unions.

Tydings would amend the corrupt practices act to forbid political contributions by any organization, including unions, which had not collected the money for that special purpose. The proposal obviously refers to Mr. Lewis and the $470,000 mortgage of his miners' union on the Democratic party.

Tydings proposes in effect to extend to labor unions and other organizations the same restrictions federal law now applies to corporations. The reason also is the same. Corporations were forbidden to make political contributions (the Democrats sold them "year books" autographed by President Roosevelt, however, at thousands of dollars a copy) because it was thought wise that political parties should not be indebted to them.

Individuals should be prevented from exerting political power irresponsibly with other people's money. Thus the prohibition on corporate contributions and thus also the added restriction now proposed. The idea is to keep political power in the hands of the voter.

You Can't Do Anything About It

By MARSHALL MASLIN

Bill is in trouble and he asked me if I could help him.

It seems that he was invited to a dinner and he accepted. Then he forgot all about it. He went out of town and never thought of it again. . . . And the dinner was all prepared and the people were waiting for Bill and his wife, and they didn't appear. His wife would have remembered, of course, but he hadn't even told her about the invitation. . . . And after he came back to town again his friends wanted to know what was what, and he didn't have any excuse worth putting into words.

Marshall Maslin

He did say, "I forgot," and that was the literal truth. But what kind of excuse is THAT, anyway? A man's not supposed to forget such things. It's an insult if he does, a slight, an unforgivable affront to forget an invitation to dinner from friends, and it seems to indicate you don't think much of them, after all. . . You forgot their invitation and that family will always remember you forgot and the coolness between you and them will mitigate any hot spell of weather that comes along.

So I gave no "advice" to my friend Bill. (All I did was moan in sympathy with him). . . . Once a good friend invited me to his weddingg shortly after the war, and I forgot to go. . . . So I blamed it on the war which was big enough to shoulder the burden. . . . And once, during that same period, I went to a dance and while I was sitting before the fireplace talking to the beautiful and intelligent hostess, I fell asleep. . . . And when I woke, she laughed at me and was kind, and blamed that on the war, too. She had a sense of humor and some proper pride and she knew that if I hadn't been tired and if my nerves hadn't been somewhat frayed, I could never have fallen asleep while talking to HER. . . . But if she hadn't been that sort of person, I'd never have seen her again (and, come to think of it, I DIDN'T see her very often, either).

There's nothing you can do in such a situation, Bill. You can explain. You can apologize. You can crawl. You can eat Humble Pie and choke on it. . . But, finally, there's nothing for you to do but go put your head in a bucket and crawl in after it. . . . Every so often a man is doomed to do some asinine thing like that and he might as well accept his fate.

The Human Side Of the News

Here's a bang-up chance for another "Old Ironsides" poem to save a gallant old ship. The Charles W. Morgan, the last of the great Whaleships, is marooned up near New Bedford, Mass., on the estate of the late Col. E. H. R. Green, and just what is to be done about her is becoming a public issue in these parts. When the Colonel gave her a temporary berth he made no provision for a permanent home, and unless one is provided she will have to be broken up.

Edwin C. Hill

The Massachusetts state legislature has refused an appropriation to enshrine the fine old ship in the New Bedford waterfront park, and now citizens of the seaport have been petitioning the Federal government to do something about it. They have written to Postmaster General Farley suggesting a series of postage stamps of famous old whaleships, to get the nation whaleship conscious and help them save their beloved old hooker.

More power to them, but why drag in Uncle Sam for a job like this? If there is anything which New Bedford should be proud and happy to do all by herself it is to stow the Charles W. Morgan comfortably for the rest of her days, deal her a new dress and keep her clear of barnacles, as befits her high estate. In the name of Moby Dick, why not?

No Subsidy

Hard-fisted old Captain John A. Cook, who once owned and sailed the Charles W. Morgan, didn't have much use for governments, and there never was a dime of government subsidy behind his ships or any other ships of the great whaling fleets.

Chasing whales in the Bowhead, built in Norway, the captain had to pick up foreign registry, as foreign-built boats couldn't get American registry. Every now and then this got him in a tangle with some officious and perhaps grafting underling of an alien power. On these occasions Captain Cook, showed a disposition to lick the given alien power single-handed, and on several occasions pretty nearly did.

When the Japanese tried to put the squeeze on him for $6,000 in Yokohama, he told them what he thought of them in Cape Cod fo'c'sle lingo, sailed his boat under the guns of their fort into a black night and raging sea, ducked their pursuing cruisers and got a fast running start, knocking over whales in the far northern sea.

In the above and many other similar encounters, the captain didn't bother the American consul, and in his battles with the ice and and angry Arctic seas, there was no government whatever in his corner.

If any one chapter of American history brings through winners without benefit of red tape or federal nursing or bottle-feeding it is the story of the whaleships. It is true that when Captain Cook got around to it, he went down to Washington, pounded a few desks and got Congress to pass a law admitting the Bowhead to American registry. But he wasn't there for a hand-out. He was just telling 'em.

If New Bedford wants to work under her old ground-rules, her solvent citizens will start harpooning their own pocket books to take care of the Charles W. Morgan, and not start poaching on Uncle Sam.

A Good Yarn

For pleasant summer reading, an anodyne for governmental futility and muddling all over the world, read Captain Cook's book, "Pursuing the Whale," published by Houghton Mifflin Company in 1926. The story is as naive as the title, with no fancy writing getting in the way of the narrative. And, mates, there's a yarn to keep you up nights. Here's a passage speared at random.

"As soon as he felt the harpoon, I knew by his actions that we had got hold of a tartar, for he did not run, but lashed the sea with his tail, and then threw his jaw into air, looking to see where the boat was that had dared to harpoon him.

"The waist boat came to assist me to kill him. As the harpoon from that boat penetrated his flesh, he caught the boat in his eighteen-feet of jaw and bit it all to pieces. We in the larboard boat took the crew into our boat and slacked the line to get a safe distance away."

That story starts on page 9. Read on through the tale of how the whale snapped at another boat and "bit it in two halves with no more trouble than we take to crack an egg." All this in a heavy sea—and they finally got the whale.

And now the sons of the whalers turn to the federals to get a spot for the old Charles W. Morgan!—Copyright, 1939, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

It was as if a man at a desk had said to a caller with a business proposition, "Take the damn thing out, I won't even talk about it."

Every One Curious

All this the newspaper men discussed, while we waited in the lobby. As the door to the president's office opened, there was a faint manner of rush, to get places in the front rows of the crowd that would face the president's desk. One felt sure the president, who is alert and sensitive to psychological atmospheres, was aware of this eagerness to get where they could see the expression of his face as he commented on a serious set-back to himself. The president, long a pleased basker in the populace's favor, is likely to learn that there is in human nature a trait which will eye him curiously when he is in defeat.

On this occasion, he was perfectly game. He achieved gameness without the appearance of trying to. His expression and manner was of smiling ease.

Michelson Perturbed

That was in contrast with Charley Michelson. At every press conference, Mr. Michelson, in his role of publicity sage for the New Deal, sits a little behind the president, where he can observe the faces of the newspaper men and in other respects watch over this detail of the process of influencing public psychology. Charley, in his long life, has ridden out many a crisis, and achieved great immunity to perturbance. Yet on this occasion he betrayed nervousness by the poker player's unconscious device of covering his mouth with his hand, with fingers and thumb holding the features set, to conceal expression, and guard against any sudden flush of unwanted emotion. Mr. Michelson was apprehensive—but need not have been.

The president was not in the faintest degree nervous or on guard. While the crowd was gathering, he exchanged smiling chat, about his fishing trip and the like, with those who had arrived first and were close to his desk. When the usher closed the door and called out, "All in" Mr. Roosevelt said something jocose about having settled some matters with the front row, and now was there anything else?

Question Is Put

Instantly the expected question came. Had he heard of the action of the House? With a perhaps artificially achieved matter-of-factness, Mr. Roosevelt said he had only heard of it an hour before, and had not had time to reflect on it much. The newspaper men gave him some additional details, exact figures of the vote, the number of Democrats who had voted against him, the fact that the Republicans had voted as a solid unit.

The first part of Mr. Roosevelt's comment was perhaps the part he may have thought out in anticipation of the press conference. It addressed itself to taxpayers and business men, classes not heretofore always the primary concern of the president. His comment was: that had the bill been passed, in about sixty days industry would have felt its benefits; many men now on relief would have got jobs; now, these men will continue a burden to taxpayers; it will cost taxpayers hundreds of millions. There was talk about how many men are put to work by a given amount of money; the number who get jobs directly on projects, and the number who get jobs "behind the line", supplying materials. It was an exposition of the whole New Deal thesis about spending.

Eagerness Lacking

All this the newspaper men listened to gravely. Most took notes; they knew this press conference was important. They were interested, sympathetic; they all like the president. Yet their manner was faintly detached; it lacked the eagerness with which, in the early days, press conferences used to listen to the New Deal ideas when they were new.

Faintly there was in the manner of the newspaper men that which said, "Yes, yes, we've heard that before." And that was precisely what Congress had said, with less courtesy. The lending bill was just another out-pouring of money. All the arguments for it had been made for previous out-pourings. That "first fine careless rapture" which had attended New Deal projects when the New Deal was pristine, had gone, and could not be recaptured.

Mr. Roosevelt, early in his administration, explained the New Deal philosophy. It was—I quote from memory: "Do something; if it doesn't work, try something else." By that New Deal axiom Mr. Roosevelt had justified many things—and received tolerance for many things that went sour.

But, when you have spent twenty billions, and it hasn't worked, and then you start to spend some billions more—that is not trying something else; that is trying the same thing over. This Congress realized.

Rail Passenger Traffic Up

From the Philadelphia Inquirer.

The substantial increase in passenger traffic last month, reported by the railroads, may be attributed to the reduced rates for round trips and the decided improvements in speed and equipment. The eighteen per cent. gain over July, 1938 is particularly encouraging in view of the fact that during most of the previous period the straight two cents a mile coach rate wasn't in effect.

This suggests that while the lower round trip fares have been a stimulus to rail travel, the more attractive and comfortable accommodations have played an even greater part.

Five years ago the first lightweight, streamlined train was put in service. Today about eighty are operated by twenty railroads. All are classed as money makers. Two trains of this type running between Chicago and Denver had net earnings of $1,568,000 in a single year. Comparable results in the case of similar trains are reported.

While extra fare or all-Pullman trains will always attract a fair share of customers, they are not revenue producers. The immediate success of the new all-coach, fast trains between New York and Chicago, introduced by the Pennsylvania and New York Central railroads, shows what the public wants.

These trains are designed to meet competition from buses. With more trains of this type the buses may find their most profitable field in shorter distances, thus affording a logical division of passenger traffic, giving each branch of transportation its share. The railroads still require freedom from unjust restrictions on their earning power, but are learning how to regain some of their lost business.

On the Record

By Senator Harry F. Byrd, Democrat, of Virginia.

To minimize the evils of debt—to make debt popular—is a dangerous doctrine to preach. When the day of reckoning comes, as it inevitably must, the people of America will know to their sorrow that the payment of debt is vastly different from spending the proceeds of debt.

Morning Motto

Illusion

From the Cincinnati Times-Star.

"Pay as you go," that rock-bottom counsel of prudence, has been consistently neglected during the Roosevelt regime. It should mean increased taxes to meet increased expenditures. There are reasons of temporary expediency of course, for borrowing to make up a part of the difference rather than to cover it by increased taxation alone, yet the administration's refusal to recommend taxes commensurate with daily needs rests on something else: the fear of a political overturn, once the bill for its adventures is presented. There have been curious individual instances of the failure of government to face the facts—as when the United States Senate added millions to the Agricultural Appropriation bill without making provision for raising the money to pay for the benefits and bounties decreed; again, as when the Florida Senate voted to increase the state's contribution to old age pensions without finding funds to pay the difference.

If all this were good practice, if it were even rational practice, we would expect to see people generally increasing their living expenses beyond present income without making provision to increase that income. Nobody is doing it. The common practice of Americans amounts to a condemnation of the theory of the regime under which they are living. Will not that theory go down in history as another of the Great Illusions?

Bias of Board Cause of Trouble

HUGH JOHNSON

Washington, D. C., Aug. 3—The rioting in Cleveland is not the result of an industrial dispute. What we have here is an outgrowth of a labor dispute. The employer, the General Motors Corporation, long ago bowed to the requirements of the Wagner Labor Relations act. It made a contract with the United Automobile Workers which the union accepted. The union seemed satisfied with General Motors. But it soon became apparent that it was not satisfied with itself.

Its president, Homer Martin, with one group of workers, began leaning toward Mr. Green's A.F. of L. Another element among the workers preferred Mr. Lewis's C.I.O. On January 8, 1939, the president of the latter faction, Mr. E. J. Thomas, who himself had signed the resolutions of the union of September 16, 1937, which were the basis of a settlement, presented himself as the authorized agent of the union to conduct negotiations for a new agreement. At the same time Mr. Homer Martin made a similar demand.

Both Groups Large

If it was not clear then, it has become certain since that each of these leaders represented very substantial groups of workers. Each insisted on exclusive representation of all workers. The company had no guide as how to comply with the law as to any particular plant or group of plants. It is forbidden to favor any union or any group. There is only one way in which that question can be peacefully settled. That way is, for the National Labor Relations Board either with or without an election to decide which is the exclusive bargaining agency in any plants in which there is a dispute on that point.

Accordingly, on July 1, 1939, the corporation petitioned the Labor Relations board to investigate and make such a decision. Earlier in the year it could not have done that because, in defiance of the terms of the law of its creation, the board had decided that it would function only at the request of workers and never at the petition of an employer. That arbitrary, illegal and unfair ruling raised such a howl of protest that the Board emended its self-declared law and decided that it would receive employer petitions—thereby convicting itself of an earlier perversion of the act.

Arbitrary and Perversive

But apparently, while it will "receive" such a petition, it will act upon it only if it so elects—which is just as arbitrary and almost as great a perversion as before. The company's petition of July 1st might as well have been dropped into a well. The board has taken no action and the strikes and riotings are on—a battle to a knockout—not primarily between the company and its employees but between two rival unions.

Why Don't the unions seek a peaceful settlement by an impartial election? Because, just like the company, neither is sure which side has a majority. If either were certain, naturally it would ask for an election instantly. The aggressor group, in this case the C.I.O., prefers to use force to intimidate its rivals and, like Mr. Hitler, to continue its power politics until it has strong-armed or bluffed enough timid and uninterested workers to make a majority, or bulldozed the company into an infraction of the law.

Confidence Lost

Why doesn't the Labor board perform the duty to fairness and the public which was laid upon it by Congress? Isn't it fair to suspect that it does not do so because it approves and encourages such tactics or would prefer to suffer them rather than risk the disfavor of either group of labor—regardless of justice and impartiality?

This board is to be investigated by a committee of Congress. It doesn't need much investigation. It has so smeared itself with stuff like this that it has lost the confidence of the country.—Distributed by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

State Policeman Admits He Drank While on Duty

Sgt. Edrington Questioned at Hearing for Reinstatement

Baltimore, Aug. 3 (AP)—The hearing for a suspended state policeman recessed here after the defendant testified he took one drink while on duty and later denied it to a superior officer.

Employment Commissioner Harry C. Jones said he would resume the hearing Friday. One witness remains to be called. Jones said he would not hand down a decision on the case before Monday

Suspended by Ober

Detective Sergeant William G. Edrington, suspended on four counts after 16 years service for the state, took the stand in his own defense to tell how he spent July 1. Col. Beverly Ober, superintendent of the state force, suspended him on charges he had been drinking and did not patrol the Philadelphia road that day as ordered.

Edrington, who appealed the suspension to Jones, said he patrolled the road for about one hour and spent another hour watching the operation of a traffic light to make sure cars did not jam around it. He added that he then returned to headquarters for duty and was there from 4 p. m. to midnight.

Capt. Edward Johnson of the state police, testified he gave Edrington patrol orders which superseded the orders to headquarters duty. He said that being asleep in a bunk at headquarters, one of the charges against Edrington, was not an "impropriety" for the man on duty.

Drank in Tavern

Col. Ober said he met Edrington coming out of a tavern at Golden Ring, Md., and that the sergeant admitted having two drinks that day, both several hours before. Later, he said, Edrington told him he had had a third just before meeting Ober The colonel said he smelt liquor on Edrington's breath but accepted his story about having had no drinks recently and did not suspend him at once.

Edrington told Jones he had had one drink in the tavern for a headache.

"Whiskey for a headache?" Jones said, "that's a new one on me."

Edrington, charged with inefficiency because he patrolled for four days over the July 4 holiday and made no reprimands, said he saw only one law violation and did not reprimand that.

Doughton Voted against Ohio Pension Bil at Altmeyer's Request

Washington, Aug. 3(AP)—Informed sources disclosed today Representative Doughton (D-NC) acted on the request of Arthur J. Altmeyer of the Social Security Board in opposing yesterday passage of a bill to pay Ohio $1,338,160 in old age pension funds.

They say Altmeyer wrote Doughton urging Hous rejection of the measure, introduced by Representative Jenkins (R-Ohio) after the board refused to allocate the money held up in October, 1938.

Committee Refuses An Appropriation for Montgomery County

Washington, Aug. 3 (AP)—Efforts by Montgomery county officials to obtain matching funds to acquire a right of way for the George Washington Memorial highway were rejected by the House Appropriations Committee.

The National Capital Park and Planning Commission sought to match $150,000 made available by the county for purchase of the land. The committee omitted the amount needed from the third deficiency bill filed today.

Delay in acquiring the land might increase its cost, T. S. Settle, secretary of the commission, told the committee.

Restoration of the Chesapeake and Ohio canal as a parkway, he said, "is increasing the value of the property adjoining . . . so there is nothing to be gained and a great deal to be lost, as far as acquiring the property is concerned, by delaying the appropriation."

Neilan Exonerated

Los Angeles, Aug. 3 (AP)—Marshall Neilan, a former motion picture director who once earned $200,000 a year, was exonerated today of charges that he issued checks without sufficient funds. A superior court judge returned the verdict after the district attorney's representative said he was unable to prove intent to defraud.

Neilan had only $1.28 when he was arrested recently.

Electrocutioner Wanted by Warden To Replace Elliott

By CHARLES A. GRUMICH

New York, Aug. 3 (AP) — Wanted: Master electrician with steady nerves, no compunctions about capital punishment; intermittent work at fees ranging from $150 to $250 per night, sometimes can make much more; no more amateurs need apply as successful applicant must have thorough knowledge of high voltage and general experience in electrical engineering; easy hours on the job, although predecessors have complained of uneasy hours afterward; not dangerous for right man.

It became certain at Sing Sing prison today that an expert would be trained as a deathhouse understudy at the lethal switch even though master electrocutioner Robert G. Elliott returns from a sickbed to send condemned felons to death in this and five other eastern state prisons.

Will Replace Elliott

Elliott, apparently recovering from illness at his home in Queens, is nearing 70, and Warden Lewis E. Lawes is in the market for someone to take over the onerous job some people wouldn't have for all the money in the world.

However, 100 applications lay on Warden Lawes' desk, most of them from the unemployed — and the patently inept.

Of the eight who offered themselves as executioners of two youths electrocuted early today in Massachusetts for a $3.50 holdup slaying, Warden Francis J. W. Lanagan said only one had "anywhere near" the proper qualifications as an electrician.

The "Mr. X" who was chosen to throw the lethal voltage into the young pair for $300 — $150 per head — took 40 minutes at a double job that would have required only a few minutes of Elliott's time; and an association opposed to capital punishment immediately protested it as an "example of inhumanity." To which the Massachusetts corrections commissioner, Arthur T. Lyman, replied:

"Mr. X was not as expert as Elliott; no one in the country is."

Massachusetts shielded the substitute "X"-ecutioner with anonymity, saying only that he was from another state. It was indicated that "Mr. X" would not be given a permanent job.

With no intent to discourage a really capable applicant, here is what happened to Elliott's predecessors:

Keeper McNeal, the first Sing Sing switchman, dropped dead in the prison office;

Edward Davis became a recluse;

John Hulbert shot himself fatally.

Man Visits Friend in Hospital and Returns Soon as a Patient

Bluefield, W. Va., Aug. 3 (AP) — Giles Cecil, 31-year-old Matoaka resident, came to the hospital to visit a sick friend and returned within a hour as a patient. He was struck by an automobile.

Today Cecil and his friend, James Pierce shared the same room. Cecil suffered severe back and head lacerations but physicians said he would recover.

Irvin Cobb Recovers

San Francisco, Aug. 3 (AP)—Irvin S. Cobb, author and movie actor, is "well over his illness" and will be released from University of California hospital in three or four days, his physician said tonight. Cobb recently suffered a stomach disorder at the Bohemian Club grove on Russian river.

Former Judge Says He Was Made a Fool By His Stenographer

Oklahoma City, Aug. 3 (AP)—Fred P. Branson, former chief justice of the Oklahoma Supreme Court, testified here that, after he gave money, jewels and automobiles, his one-time stenographer tormented him with demands he divorce the woman he married in 1904.

"There is only one answer as to why the defendant tolerated this," he commented. "The defendant was a fool."

The stenographer, 47-year old Madeline Braniff Branson, is suing for $500 a month separate maintenance. Branson contends they never were legally married because six months had not elapsed after his wife obtained a divorce in 1930.

The ex-jurist testified that several times a week Madeline would inquire:

" 'When are you going to get a divorce? Don't you know my people aren't fools. They know what's going on. They know you are not sending me to New York, giving me motor cars, buying me clothes and everything else for nothing.' "

Branson called James I. Phelps, his former supreme court associate, as a witness.

He asked Phelps if the association of Branson and Madeline was "closer than usual between employer and employe."

"There was considerable unsavory gossip about you," Phelps replied.

Pointing to "Australia's future place in the Pacific, her very existence perhaps," Prof. Stephen H. Roberts urges the New South Wales government to teach American history in its schools.

Oklahoma City, Aug. 3 (AP)—Fred P. Branson, former chief justice of the Oklahoma Supreme Court, testified here that, after he gave money, jewels and automobiles, his one-time stenographer tormented him with demands he divorce the woman he married in 1904.

"There is only one answer as to why the defendant tolerated this," he commented. "The defendant was a fool."

The stenographer, 47-year old Madeline Braniff Branson, is suing for $500 a month separate maintenance. Branson contends they never were legally married because six months had not elapsed after his wife obtained a divorce in 1930.

The ex-jurist testified that several times a week Madeline would inquire:

" 'When are you going to get a divorce? Don't you know my people aren't fools. They know what's going on. They know you are not sending me to New York, giving me motor cars, buying me clothes and everything else for nothing.' "

Branson called James I. Phelps, his former supreme court associate, as a witness.

He asked Phelps if the association of Branson and Madeline was "closer than usual between employer and employe."

"There was considerable unsavory gossip about you," Phelps replied.

Pointing to "Australia's future place in the Pacific, her very existence perhaps," Prof. Stephen H. Roberts urges the New South Wales government to teach American history in its schools.

Glamorous Organdie Frocks Coming Out

Paris (AP) —Organdie frocks are coming out in glamorous styles for bridesmaids, garden parties, and just plain summer evening. Red roses printed on white organdie appear in a Patou model. This is girlish, with a full skirt, round neck and small puffed sleeves. Thick ruches of the material outline neck and sleeve edges. Ovals of sheer black lace inset a white organdie frock Lelong shows. This is circular skirted, and has a wide cape-collar falling over the arm tops and taking the place of sleeves. Pink organdie is featured by Chanel, trimmed with narrow lace insertions edged with organdie flutings. This garden party style (or bridesmaid's) is topped with a lace trimmed pink organdie hat.

Phantom Ranch

WRITTEN FOR AND RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

by OREN ARNOLD

SYNOPSIS

LORENA HAMILTON, in the desert country of Arizona, to visit her uncle, meets

YESTERDAY: Jerry finds Lorena, following her escape from the Mexicans, tells her the Brazees, her aunt and uncle, have been greatly worried since Rogers' horse, carrying her beaded bag, returned.

She sensed a premonition of action and danger.

CHAPTER SEVEN

JERRY DALE didn't go back down trail to tell the posse that Lorena had been found. Instead, he put Midnight on a big mare and sent that black youngster. Midnight was delighted; thrilled with a sense of adventure and personal importance. He found the posse—swelled to nearly 20 men now, including Shot Rogers—nearing the Ghost river ford. They had stopped for a conference about dividing and combing the hills thoroughly for the missing girl or any tracks that might be a clew to her. They knew from the Negro's hallooing that he had news, even before he galloped up to them.

"What is it, Midnight?" George Brazee demanded sternly.

"Yassuh, whoo-wee, dis mare she sho can single-foot, Mistuh Brazee!"

"Where are you going? What is it? Have you—have they heard anything? Or—?" Mr. Brazee grasped the black lad's leg.

"Oh, Yassuh, a white lady done come in. Mistuh Jerry he took and brought her in on a hoss, suh."

"Is she hurt? Dead? Answer me, Midnight!"

The men had pressed close, staring intently at him. Midnight seemed to discover their presence then, and looked round-eyed from one to the other while answering slowly.

"Naw, suh, she ain't rightly dead, I reckon. But she don't look so pert. She—"

"She what?" Shot Rogers snapped that question at him. "What about her? Was she badly mistreated? Was she conscious?"

"Suh?"

"I say, was she conscious? Could she—good guns, kid! Could she talk and see and hear and all?"

Midnight swallowed. White cowboys were strange people sometimes, he knew. But he sort of worshiped Mistuh Shot Rogers and wanted to please him.

"Mistuh Shot, I never asked nobody, to tell you de truf. But I reckon she wasn't 'sconcious none, naw suh. Leastways, it didn't show none, far as I could see, but I wasn't—"

"Let's get going!" George Brazee interrupted. "I want to thank all of you men. I'll do it better when I have more time. I don't guess we'll need the outside help any longer, since she's found, but any of you who want to ride on with us is welcome. You're always welcome at the Phantom, as you know."

He led off, spurring immediately to a lazy, easy gallop, the pace which a good horse can maintain indefinitely. Without a word of discussion the entire troop filed after him. They were a bunch of determined men, some quite stern of face, all of them a bit weary from a full night in the saddle, but all deeply concerned with the trouble facing George Brazee.

Shot Rogers and some of the others clung near the mare that young Midnight was riding and sought to question the lad again.

"Has she been shot?" Rogers asked. "You sure she wasn't dead?"

"Aw, Mistuh Shot, you all cain't hurraw me none, leastways not in daytime, suh! I knows you all says it's ghosts in Ghost canyon and on Phantom ranch, but shuh!" Midnight was quite sophisticated about it; one of the cowboys himself now.

"Listen, kid, I'm not hurrawing! I'm serious, can't you understand? Now answer me carefully—was she dead or not?"

"Ef she was, Mistuh Shot, den I sho seen a ghost in daytime! Whoo!"

"You mean—"

"She was walking along wid Miss Sally and Mistuh Jerry. He had his arm aroun' her, friendly like, and—"

"Why?"

"Suh?"

"Why did he have his arm around her? Was she—was he carrying her? Or helping her? Couldn't she talk?"

"Yas, suh, she was laughing and talking sweet talk to him, ontil Miss Sally she rush out and cry."

"Um," murmured Shot Rogers then. He felt infinite relief. Four men had been killed in the recent Phantom ranch trouble with rustlers. It was inconceivable that a harmless girl, a stranger, should be harmed, but he had been responsible for sending her alone to the ranch from Blanco and he had been almost beside himself with worry.

"What happened to her, Midnight?" he went on. "That was a new horse of mine, all right, but he was trustworthy. And I saw she could ride. Did he throw her, or fall? Or what?"

"I never asked nobody, Mistuh Shot, suh."

The matter stood that way until the troop of riders reined in at the Brazee home itself. Mrs. Brazee had heard them coming. When she ran out to greet her husband and his friends, they expected the worst. They didn't see Jerry Dale smiling happily on the porch.

"What is it, Sally?" George Brazee demanded, calmly.

"George, she was kidnaped! By Mexicans!"

The men all were alert, not even dismounting, in their intense interest. Shot Rogers edged forward.

"Go on," George requested. "What happened?"

She gave every detail she knew, but hers was second-hand information and so presently Lorena herself was brought out to talk with them. A load seemed to be lifted off the men when they saw, not a corpse or near-dead person, but a bright and smiling young woman, exceptionally pretty. Lorena had eaten amazingly, topped the meal with two cups of coffee and two hours in bed. Bruises still ached but she felt good enough to ignore the pain.

She shook hands with every one of the men, adding special thanks to Rogers for his aid the day before. And then she had to face a siege of questioning which took nearly an hour.

"Well, sir," her Uncle George remarked at last, "you probably done the only thing you could, honey, but I don't know why you weren't killed when you jumped off that cliff. I know the stretch of river you mean. The wall's high there. Must be 50 or 60 feet. You've got some of your Aunt Sally's spunk!"

"I hit in the soft tree foliage, as I told you. And the sand was soft. I counted on them before hand."

The men all were admiring her, not for her looks alone, but for her nerve. The talk shifted, however, to the kidnapers themselves.

"You say they talked about somebody named Luis Escobar?" Shot Rogers asked.

"Yes, Mr. Rogers. It sounded like that—like Louise Ace-ko-bar."

"It's a man's name. Spanish. Loo-ees, spelled L-u-i-s."

"Since those men were Mexicans," another rancher put in, "I'd bet they were in the gang responsible for your cattle losses and for the death of those men, George."

"No doubt," agreed Mr. Brazee.

"Oh, George!" Mrs. Brazee spoke then. "Can't something be done to stop it? I—we can't have people—Lorena—anybody's life endangered this way! Can't we—"

"We can sure do something, Mrs. Brazee, ma'am!" an elderly man declared. "We'll ride down every thief in this country! If the law is unable to cope with them, why, we can do it ourselves."

"Certainly!" put in another. "If there aren't enough ranch men and sheriff's deputies, we could even get a bunch of army cavalry to help. There's men at Fort Huachucha."

"Hold on," said Shot Rogers, earnestly. "Didn't I hear you say once, Mr. Brazee, that you weren't sure where the Line is? The line between the United States and Mexico?"

"That's right, son. My ranch property goes right to the line, according to deed. But it's awfully rugged and wild up there in the rough hills. Even the survey is vague. No markers or anything. It would cost a lot to have it re-surveyed, and—"

"Unh-huhm," nodded Shot Rogers. "Well now, another thing—this Luis Escobar is no peanut rustler or border crook. He's a power in Mexico. An ex-revolutionist building another strong following. We'd get into a political mess if we brought soldiers; national diplomacy, and all that. It's a fight we better all pitch in to help you with, but keep it as quiet and among ourselves as we can."

Nobody answered at once. But Lorena, staring up at the mounted ranchmen, saw most of them nodding stolidly, earnestly. Somehow she sensed from their faces a premonition of action and danger to come.

Phantom Ranch

by OREN ARNOLD

SYNOPSIS

JERRY DALE, college bred, is a newcomer to Phantom ranch, who has corresponded with Lorena.

YESTERDAY: Jerry finds Lorena, following her escape from the Mexicans, tells her the Brazees, her aunt and uncle, have been greatly worried since Rogers' horse, carrying her beaded bag, returned.

She sensed a premonition of action and danger.

CHAPTER SEVEN

JERRY DALE didn't go back down trail to tell the posse that Lorena had been found. Instead, he put Midnight on a big mare and sent that black youngster. Midnight was delighted; thrilled with a sense of adventure and personal importance. He found the posse—swelled to nearly 20 men now, including Shot Rogers—nearing the Ghost river ford. They had stopped for a conference about dividing and combing the hills thoroughly for the missing girl or any tracks that might be a clew to her. They knew from the Negro's hallooing that he had news, even before he galloped up to them.

"What is it, Midnight?" George Brazee demanded sternly.

"Yassuh, whoo-wee, dis mare she sho can single-foot, Mistuh Brazee!"

"Where are you going? What is it? Have you—have they heard anything? Or—?" Mr. Brazee grasped the black lad's leg.

"Oh, Yassuh, a white lady done come in. Mistuh Jerry he took and brought her in on a hoss, suh."

"Is she hurt? Dead? Answer me, Midnight!"

The men had pressed close, staring intently at him. Midnight seemed to discover their presence then, and looked round-eyed from one to the other while answering slowly.

"Naw, suh, she ain't rightly dead, I reckon. But she don't look so pert. She—"

"She what?" Shot Rogers snapped tha. question at him. "What about her? Was she badly mistreated? Was she conscious?"

"Suh?"

"I say, was she conscious? Could she—good guns, kid! Could she talk and see and hear and all?"

Midnight swallowed. White cowboys were strange people sometimes, he knew. But he sort of worshiped Mistuh Shot Rogers and wanted to please him.

"Mistuh Shot, I never asked nobody, to tell you de truf. But I reckon she wasn't 'sconcious none, naw suh. Leastways, it didn't show none, far as I could see, but I wasn't—"

"Let's get going!" George Brazee interrupted. "I want to thank all of you men. I'll do it better when I have more time. I don't guess we'll need the outside help any longer, since she's found, but any of you who want to ride on with us is welcome. You're always welcome at the Phantom, as you know."

He led off, spurring immediately to a lazy, easy gallop, the pace which a good horse can maintain indefinitely. Without a word of discussion the entire troop filed after him. They were a bunch of determined men, some quite stern of face, all of them a bit weary from a full night in the saddle, but all deeply concerned with the trouble facing George Brazee.

Shot Rogers and some of the others clung near the mare that young Midnight was riding and sought to question the lad again.

"Has she been shot?" Rogers asked. "You sure she wasn't dead?"

"Aw, Mistuh Shot, you all cain't hurraw me none, leastways not in daytime, suh! I knows you all says it's ghosts in Ghost canyon and on Phantom ranch, but shuh!" Midnight was quite sophisticated about it; one of the cowboys himself now.

"Listen, kid, I'm not hurrawing! I'm serious, can't you understand? Now answer me carefully—was she dead or not?"

"Ef she was, Mistuh Shot, den I sho seen a ghost in daytime! Whoo!"

"You mean—"

"She was walking along wid Miss Sally and Mistuh Jerry. He had his arm aroun' her, friendly like, and—"

"Why?"

"Suh?"

"Why did he have his arm around her? Was she—was he carrying her? Or helping her? Couldn't she talk?"

"Yas, suh, she was laughing and talking sweet talk to him, ontil Miss Sally she rush out and cry."

"Um," murmured Shot Rogers then. He felt infinite relief. Four men had been killed in the recent Phantom ranch trouble with rustlers. It was inconceivable that a harmless girl, a stranger, should be harmed, but he had been responsible for sending her alone to the ranch from Blanco and he had been almost beside himself with worry.

"What happened to her, Midnight?" he went on. "That was a new horse of mine, all right, but he was trustworthy. And I saw she could ride. Did he throw her, or fall? Or what?"

"I never asked nobody, Mistuh Shot, suh."

The matter stood that way until the troop of riders reined in at the Brazee home itself. Mrs. Brazee had heard them coming. When she ran out to greet her husband and his friends, they expected the worst. They didn't see Jerry Dale smiling happily on the porch.

"What is it, Sally?" George Brazee demanded, calmly.

"George, she was kidnaped! By Mexicans!"

The men all were alert, not even dismounting, in their intense interest. Shot Rogers edged forward.

"Go on," George requested. "What happened?"

She gave every detail she knew, but hers was second-hand information and so presently Lorena herself was brought out to talk with them. A load seemed to be lifted off the men when they saw, not a corpse or near-dead person, but a bright and smiling young woman, exceptionally pretty. Lorena had eaten amazingly, topped the meal with two cups of coffee and two hours in bed. Bruises still ached but she felt good enough to ignore the pain.

She shook hands with every one of the men, adding special thanks to Rogers for his aid the day before. And then she had to face a siege of questioning which took nearly an hour.

"Well, sir," her Uncle George remarked at last, "you probably done the only thing you could, honey, but I don't know why you weren't killed when you jumped off that cliff. I know the stretch of river you mean. The wall's high there. Must be 50 or 60 feet. You've got some of your Aunt Sally's spunk!"

"I hit in the soft tree foliage, as I told you. And the sand was soft. I counted on them before hand."

The men all were admiring her, not for her looks alone, but for her nerve. The talk shifted, however, to the kidnapers themselves.

"You say they talked about somebody named Luis Escobar?" Shot Rogers asked.

"Yes, Mr. Rogers. It sounded like that—like Louise Ace-ko-bar."

"It's a man's name. Spanish. Loo-ees, spelled L-u-i-s."

"Since those men were Mexicans," another rancher put in, "I'd bet they were in the gang responsible for you. cattle losses and for the death of those men, George."

"No doubt," agreed Mr. Brazee.

"Oh, George!" Mrs. Brazee spoke then. "Can't something be done to stop it? I—we can't have people—Lorena—anybody's life endangered this way! Can't we—"

"We can sure do something, Mrs. Brazee, ma'am!" an elderly man declared. "We'll ride down every thief in this country! If the law is unable to cope with them, why, we can do it ourselves."

"Certainly!" put in another. "If there aren't enough ranch men and sheriff's deputies, we could even get a bunch of army cavalry to help. There's men at Fort Huachucha."

"Hold on," said Shot Rogers, earnestly. "Didn't I hear you say once, Mr. Brazee, that you weren't sure where the Line is? The line between the United States and Mexico?"

"That's right, son. My ranch property goes right to the line, according to deed. But it's awfully rugged and wild up there in the rough hills. Even the survey is vague. No markers or anything. It would cost a lot to have it re-surveyed, and—"

"Unh-huhm," nodded Shot Rogers. "Well now, another thing—this Luis Escobar is no peanut rustler or border crook. He's a power in Mexico. An ex-revolutionist building another strong following. We'd get into a political mess if we brought soldiers; national diplomacy, and all that. It's a fight we better all pitch in to help you with, but keep it as quiet and among ourselves as we can."

Nobody answered at once. But Lorena, staring up at the mounted ranchmen, saw most of them nodding stolidly, earnestly. Somehow she sensed from their faces a premonition of action and danger to come.

Injections Help Varicose Veins, Physician Says

Causes Them To Shrink and Gradually Grow Together

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

I have noticed in my correspondence that I get on the average of 100 letters about skin diseases to one about liver or lung disease. The reason is that a skin disease thrusts itself upon your notice. It is out in the open. The stomach is down below in the Tropic of Capricorn, and while it may protest now and then, you cannot see it writhe and so are not so much concerned. So varicose veins thrust themselves on our attention and I get a large daily correspondence on the subject.

Common Beliefs

It is commonly said that the veins of the legs become varicosed because the blood column there is largest and its weight breaks down the valves in the veins. It is also said that the condition is commonest in peole who stand on their feet a great part of the day, such as clerks in stores.

But it has been my observation that the varicose veins I have examined, which have been removed at operaion, are quite stiff and filled with ime deposits. I am inclined to belies it is this change as much as the mechanical strain which brings n the condition.

The ondition is quite common. I should say that fifty per cent of those ver fifty years of age have some mount of it. As for the occupatinal incidence among those who wok on their feet, some of the worst ases I have ever seen have been n their feet only at the rarest ntervals and under the direst neessity.

The veins bring the blood back to the hert simply by the crowding of more blood from behind. There is no pmp action from the heart to force he venous blood on. Therefore, nture has provided valves so as to hold a column of blood until it is crowded upward. When these valves break down, the veins are swollen at that point and become torturous.

In treatment, formerly the only measures available were to wear elastic stockings, or removal by operation. In addition to those, there has now been developed the method of injection, which is a great boon to many patients.

Principle of Method

"The principle of the injection method," writes Dr. Otto Meyer, of New York, in the magazine Health and Wealth, "is to inject a non-poisonous solution into the varicose veins. This causes them to shrink (be obliterated). The inner wall of the vein swells all around, meets in the middle of the opening and grows completely together.

These treatments can be given in the doctor's office and it has not been found necessary to rest for any length of time after the treatment. The patient can leave the doctor's office and go about the ordinary duties right away. The doctors of my acquaintance who specialize in this injection treatment are busiest during the lunch hour. The patient can go back to work and spend the entire afternoon there.

Versailles Pact To Be Destroyed, Forster Asserts

By LYNN HEINZERLING

Free City of Danzig, Aug. 3 (AP)—Albert Forster, fiery Nazi district leader of Danzig, last night promised the destruction of "the last 10 per cent of the treaty of Versailles."

Uppermost in the minds of his listeners was this city's promised "return to the Reich."

At the same time the smooth-spoken leader reassured Danzigers that they were "protected against any surprises."

"Say it louder," cried some of his brown-shirted hearers when Forster quietly declared, "we have taken measures to protect ourselves."

"Nothing further need be said," he said.

Praises Hitler

"We know we cannot decide our freedom ourselves," he added. "We know that decision can come only from the Fuehrer. We know that he holds our fate in his hands and that it is in good hands."

Forster addressed a crowd of several thousand men and women in which brown shirts of storm troopers predominated, called together by the Reich Society for German sea prestige.

He mentioned Poland, who has declared she would allow none of her rights in Danzig to be impaired, only once in passing in his brief speech. He said the Poles were suffering from "seasickness."

Most of the speech was devoted to a description of "brutal" English colonial methods.

Denies Party Split

The Nazi leader denied there were differences within the party in Danzig.

Vice-admiral Adolf Von Trotha, now retired and 70, who holds the highest decorations for heroism in the battle of Skagerrak (the Germans' name for the world war battle of Jutland), and president of the society, also spoke.

"Here in Danzig," he said, "we look into the future with trust in our Fuehrer."

The Nazi party newspaper, Vorposten, meanwhile reported two new incidents with the Poles. It said three Polish customs officers violated the Danzig border but withdrew at a warning shot near Sobbowitz. Polish soldiers at Tczew, the paper said, threw stones at a train carrying German vacationists home from Danzig.

Defibaugh Sisters Win Outboard Races

Cambridge, Md., Aug. 3 (AP)—The three Defibaugh sisters from Woodside, Del., scooted their midget class outboards 'round and 'round the four mile course of the Cambridge Yacht club here to take all prizes in that event.

Frances Defibaugh ran her Double Trouble at 28.57 miles per hour over the pond-calm Choptank river course to take the first heat. Irene, in Maggie's Pup, was second and Betty, in Me O My was third.

In the second heat, Irene spurted to 28.80 miles an hour, Frances was second and Betty last again. But Double Trouble perked up in the finals and Frances won, with Irene second and Betty third.

Douglas Muncie of Cutchogue, N. Y. won the class a outboard event with a speed of 43.84 m. p. h. after Joseph Shutz of Merchantville, N. J., winer of the first five mile heat, was disqualified.

Muncie then returned for more trophies, winning the class B event at 40.80 m. p. h. and the class C at 44.75 m. p. h.

Army Pursuit Planes Pass over Pittsburgh

Pittsburgh, Aug. 2. (AP)—Thousands of workers in downtown buildings craned their necks from windows today as 18 U. S. army pursuit planes roared over the city on their flight commemorating the purchase of the army's first plane 30 years ago.

The ships forming the 17th pursuit squadron, arrived from Selfridge Field, Mich., at 1:07 p. m. and took off again 50 minutes later to continue the flight around western Pennsylvania and back to the home field.

Leaders of Industry and Labor Are to Take Part

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD
Associated Press Radio Editor

New York, Aug. 3—A new discussion series outlining differing views on the problems of the country's economic and industrial future is to make its WEAF-NBC appearance at 9:30 Friday night as "America Unlimited." Leaders of labor and industry are to participate.

For the start William Green, president of the A. F. of L., will be interviewed by Marshall Dimock, assistant secretary of labor.

Pamela Caveness, 14-year-old protege of Bette Davis of the films is to be the guest girl in Raymond Paige's concert on WABC-CBS at 8. Bette also will appear in the program to introduce the singing miss.

In a program commenorating the 149th anniversary of the formation of the U. S. Coast Guard, Rear Admiral R. R. Waesche is to be the speaker. It is on WJZ-NBC at 6:30.

What's developing in the way of Paris styles will be outlined in an overseas broadcast relayed by WJZ-NBC at 3.

Josephine Roche, chairman of the president's committee on health, is the guest of Women in the Making of America on WJZ-NBC at 1 p. m.

Dizzy Dean As Guest

The first nighter is playing "Gibson Pitching" for WABC-CBS at 8:30 and is having Pitcher Dizzy Dean of the Chicago Cubs as interview guest.

Edith E. Lowry, executive secretary of the council of women for home missions, is to conduct a series of devotional services for WEAF-NBC starting at 11:30 a. m.

A couple of music features, both WJZ-NBC—12:30 p. m., part of Wagner's "The Flying Dutchman" from the music festival at Bayreuth, Germany; 8:30 p. m., Robinhood Dell concert at Philadelphia, Sir Ernest MacMillan of Canada conducting.

One out of every thirty-seven persons in the United States is a criminal, according to the lew enforcement committee of the American Bar Association.

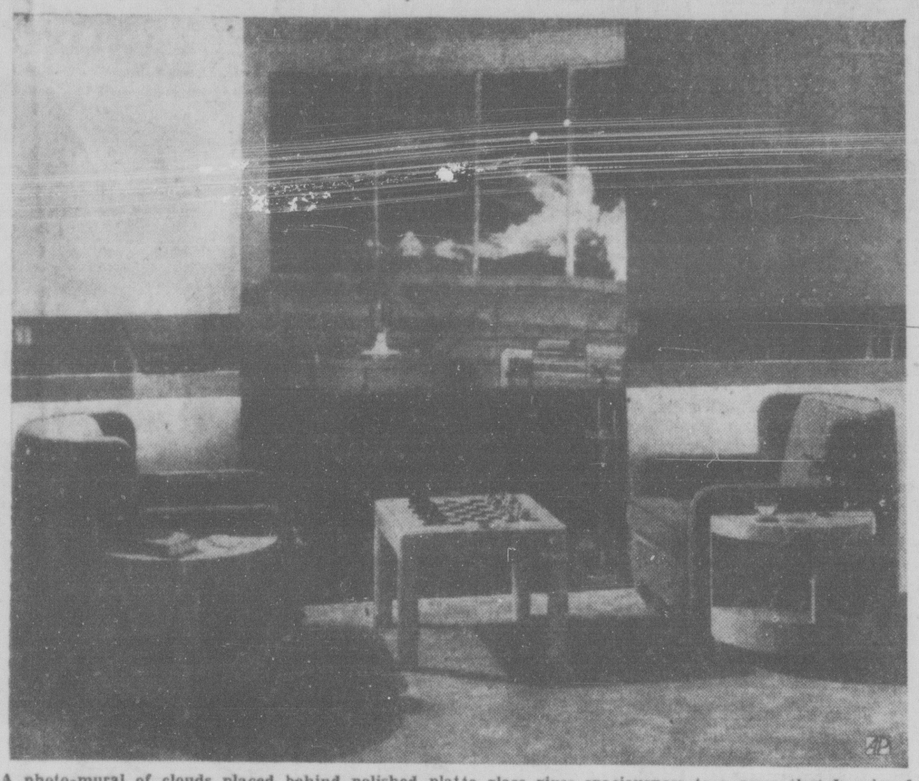
You Can Have a Favorite Scene In Your Home, via Photo-Murals



A photo-mural of clouds placed behind polished platte glass gives spaciousness to a room that has insufficient windows. The mural is hung with draperies to simulate a window. Here you see it as reflected in a large mirror installed over a fireplace.

By JOAN DURHAM
AP Feature Service Writer

Some of the most interesting interiors these days make use of murals.

The murals come in many types—painted, wallpaper and photographic—at a wide range of costs. They may cover just part of one wall, one entire wall or even all the walls in a room.

Photo-murals are especially popular. Perhaps that is because they are usually less expensive than others.

Travelers who want to remember some particular scene, for instance, may have their own snapshots enlarged into a mural. Or if they don't happen to be camera addicts themselves, there are all sorts of photographic agencies through which they may purchase views that can be enlarged to suit the space they want to fill.

The cost of an enlargement depends on several factors. The paper is one element. Regular enlargement paper, sepia, buff and also royal sepia papers are commonly used. Mounting is another consideration (muslin, cardboard, beaverboard or other specially-prepared boards are all used.) Then you must consider the cost of glazing and the manner in which the installation is made.

Some of the most interesting photo-murals I have seen recently include scenes taken from windows. One—on display in a camera "hobby room" in a model apartment—was an enlargement of a scene photographed through a long veranda of columns. It gave you the sensation of standing just inside a fine old Southern home and looking out across a cool porch on a hot day.

Another, on exhibition in a two-story model home, was an enlarged view of poplar tree-tops. It was placed on a landing between the first and second stories and gave you the feeling of almost walking into the outdoors as you came down the stairs.

Aged Farmer Five Days Alone Without Food

Mount Vernon, Ill., Aug. 3 (AP)—Helpless and suffering from a fractured leg, Alfred E. Caughenaur, 80-year-old bachelor, survived for five days on water until his cries for help finally were heard by a neighbor.

Caughenaur was kicked by a horse last Friday. He dragged himself to the house but was unable to prepare any food. The "lifesaver" was a bucket of water on a stand beside the bed.

Physicians said there was hope of his recovery.

The first Christian Adventure Camp of the Moorefield District Methodist church is in session at Camp Van Myra, Burlington, W. Va. The theme of the camp is: "Such As I Have, I Give," with the theme song, "Take My Life and Let It Be Consecrated, Lord, To Thee." There were 27 Intermediates registered on Monday to remain until Saturday.

The camp staff is composed of Rev. C. E. Brandt, Romney, W. Va., general superintendent; Rev. L. K. Knowles, Fort Ashby, camp director; Rev. R. E. Musser, Moorefield, dean; Miss Anne Williams, Grantsville, Md., registrar and pianist; Rev. J. L. Robertson, Romney, supplies and treasurer; Rev. C. W. Ambrose, Lost River, W. Va., recreation leader; Rev. C. J. Clark, Ridgeley, boys' counsellor; Mrs. C. E. Brandt, Romney, girls' counsellor; Charles Brandt, Romney, bugler.

On the camp faculty are Miss Alma Lawance, Clifton Forge, Va.; Rev. R. W. Morrow, Burlington, W. Va., and Rev. R. E. Musser, Moorefield. Rev. B. W. Coe, Budge, W. Va., is one of the master craftsmen.

Recreation leaders are in charge of archery, dart ball, horse shoes, soft ball, badminton, Volley Ball, swimming. An inspirational program is provided for the intermediates with class periods, assembly, singing, recreation, quiet hour, guilds, vespers, feature programs, and candlelight prayer circles. Last night a twilight vespers service was given on "My Body Is A Cathedral."

The following were elected officers of the camp: president, Mary C. Hott, Fabius, W. Va.; vice president, Richard Arrington, Ridgeley, W. Va.; secretary, Maxine Saville, Moorefield; treasurer, Walter Peed Armstrong, Doe Hill, Va., and counsellor, Rev. R. E. Musser, Moorefield.

Summer Silver Storage

Save yourself work this summer by storing your seldom used silverware in tissue paper. Or wrap it in tarnish-proof paper and it will be all ready to use in the fall.

Dried for Packing

When packing clothes see that they are perfectly dry. Otherwise they will wrinkle badly.

ADVERTISING THAT PRODUCES CROWDS

The value of newspaper advertising has been proved so thoroughly, there is little reason for anyone doubting its superiority as the ace advertising medium.

No other medium has crowded retail stores like newspapers. No other medium has produced as many direct sales.

Even customers have learned that newspaper advertisements pull. When an ad is especially interesting, Mr. and Mrs. Shopper expect a mob, so shop early.

Why experiment when you know Times-News advertising sells?

ony Refuses To Give Up His Ship

Santa Monica, Calif., Aug. 3 (AP)—he "blockade of Santa Monica ay," with sheriff's deputies in mall motor launches laying siege o a large gambling boat, entered s second night with no sign of truce.

Owner Tony Cornero Stralla, pac- g the deck of his swanky Casino, he Rex, from time to time picked p a megaphone and shouted de- ance at the launches floating just eyond reach of hoses set up to pre- nt, with heavy streams of water, ny boarding of the ship.

The officers boarded three ambling ships late Tuesday and losed down the games, ordering atrons ashore. On one, the exas, they destroyed gambling quipment and threw it overboaord.

"Let them aboard my boat?" houted the swarthy Cornero to an quirer today. "Never. Look what ey did to the Texas."

The self-styled former rum-run- r "surrendered," however, to the xtent of accepting service of a ourt injunction ordering him to op the roulette wheels.

Stralla said he had food enough n board for a year, if necessary. ttorney General Earl Warren re- lied "if Stralla and his crew want remain in seclusion three miles t on the ocean indefinitely, we n wait longer than they can."

TO BE M. C. AT SHRINE CLUB

Beginning Saturday August 5, and continuing through Saturday August 12, Bob Bruce, prominent in entertainment circles as a charming master of ceremonies, will be at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club, to present two floor shows each night. This entertainment arranged by the club as an added attraction during the fair and race meet, includes a quartette, Hawaiian ensemble and other entertainers.

Bob Bruce comes here from Ivan Frank's on the Great White Way in New York City, where he completed a successful engagement. He has been seen as Master of Ceremonies at the Hippodrome Theater with the Baltimore Follies and has done some radio announcing and vocalizing. He is also the originator of Candid Mike. Bob was a student at the University of Hawaii and was a classmate of Buster Crabbe, well known motion picture actor.

"The Authority on Authorities"

BAD PLAYS CAN AMAZE

SOME PLAYS are so truly terrible that they almost rise to the grandeur of what might be called "beautifully rotten." This is especially true of defensive work, when two partners discard so badly that at the finish they both have to play high honors on the same trick, making the declarer the beneficiary of their largesse.

(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

Here is a deal on which North and South should have been in a club contract, but they bid so queerly in a rubber game that they got into 3-No Trumps. The diamond K was led to the A, followed by an unsuccessful effort to drop the club K with the A. For some reason the declarer next took the spade K and then led a club to the K. When East now sent a diamond to his partner's Q, the latter for some unfathomable cause switched to a spade to the dummy's Q.

Followed then three club tricks, on which the opponents discarded, then the spade A. A heart was then led, on which both the K and A fell because of the opponents' bad discarding, and East, now holding two diamonds, led his 10, the partner having to overtake it with his J and then lead his last heart, which the declarer got with the Q, making his contract.

FASHION is funny; it is funny neer and funny ha-ha, both. A new ea arrives, women coldly peel their es at it, some accept it, others ke their time. Finally, whizz! the ea becomes an institution, everydy going in for it. Then it is no nger fashionable. Those who arch in the front ranks of the style rade seek something exciting to ke its place, so they can make a nsation. They don't want to look ke other women.

So it has been with liquid nail polh. Perfect ladies who used powder d buffers once considered the high olish vulgar. It wasn't nice, the arling prims thought. But it wasn't ng before the buffers were lost to emory dear and the prudish ones ere painting their nails with a colthat would put a fire engine to ame. The first short-haired girls ere looked upon as social outcasts. ard to believe. What's the matter ith us, anyway?

The swing back from blazing nail neer has gone so far that claws re now painted white. And very pretty they look, too, when the hands have been cissed a golden touch by the summer sun. Why not white? Why not any color we fancy? Why must it always be red that the growling sex hates to the last man? They'll think we've chucked it for their sakes, the sweet old things. Well, let 'em, if it makes 'em happy. We know better.

Thin girls who would be busty, develop a hipline worthy of the name and fill out hollow cheeks, must look to their diet for help. For breakfast have a glass of orange juice, a soft-boiled egg for protein, a dish of cooked cereal with plenty of cream, and cocoa. Start the day right and you won't suffer from fatigue.

The usual bill of fare can be supplemented with alligator pears or nuts that are rich in oils or a glass of milk and cream, half and half. Green salads won't put on an ounce of weight, but they are necessary because of the vitamins and mineral salts they contain; also to add bulk to stimulate the intestinal tract.

ony Refuses To Give Up His Ship

Santa Monica, Calif., Aug. 3 (AP)—The "blockade of Santa Monica Bay," with sheriff's deputies in small motor launches laying siege to a large gambling boat, entered its second night with no sign of truce.

Owner Tony Cornero Stralla, pacing the deck of his swanky Casino, the Rex, from time to time picked up a megaphone and shouted defiance at the launches floating just beyond reach of hoses set up to prevent, with heavy streams of water, any boarding of the ship.

The officers boarded three gambling ships late Tuesday and closed down the games, ordering patrons ashore. On one, the Texas, they destroyed gambling equipment and threw it overboard.

"Let them aboard my boat?" shouted the swarthy Cornero to an inquirer today. "Never. Look what they did to the Texas."

The self-styled former rum-runner "surrendered," however, to the extent of accepting service of a court injunction ordering him to stop the roulette wheels.

Stralla said he had food enough on board for a year, if necessary. Attorney General Earl Warren replied "if Stralla and his crew want to remain in seclusion three miles out on the ocean indefinitely, we can wait longer than they can."

Alleged Car Stolen

Savannah, Ga., Aug. 3. (AP)—Police are more interested in "why" than "who" in investigating theft of an automobile described thus:

Model, 1926; state license, none; city license, none; value, $10.

Note: No reward offered.

Controlling Humidity, Cherished Dream of Furnace Operators, Promises to Effect Savings and Insure Uniform Pig Iron

Humidifier, showing white containers, left, through which cooled air flows in the air-conditioning system installed at Woodward which may revolutionize southern iron making.

Giant blowing engines at the Woodward Iron Co., used to compress moisture-free air.

By CLYDE W. ENNIS
Central Press Correspondent

Birmingham, Ala., Aug. 3—The entire picture of southern iron making will undergo a revolutionary change if the air-conditioning equipment now operating at one of the Woodward Iron Company blast furnaces performs as expected and the results are as as they appear probable at this time.

The system, which has been installed at a very moderate cost, will, it is believed, completely subjugate the all-time enemy of furnace operators—humidity. One of the dreamed-of achievements that has evaded furnace men through all iron-making experience is controlled humidity.

Air conditioning will be of greater value to plants in the south, it is believed, due to the high temperatures and high humidity in this section as compared to the colder operating days at plants father north. However, even the latter will find it advantageous to make similar installations, if the Woodward installation measures up to expectations of the designers and the Woodward executives.

How It Operates

The process begins in a spray type dehumidifier which is essentially a small concrete building arranged to take the air into one end and pass it through three sets of sprays of frigerated water onto the intake of massive blowing engines. The engines compress the dehumidified air and supply it to stoves for reheating through an overhead pipe line, where it is ready to enter the blast furnaces at a given temperature.

Coming in at the intake at a temperature of say 85 degrees Fahrenheit, as it did on the first day of operation, the air is almost immediately cooled to a pre-determined temperature, depending upon the moisture content prevailing, but approximately 40 degrees Fahrenheit as a base.

The degree of temperature thus removed from the air is absorbed by the sprayed water sending it up several degrees. This water is pumped through a ten-inch pipe line to a centrifugal refrigeraion plant, located in a building some 200 feet away from the intake. The B. T. U. content is removed when it is routed back to the spryas, further cooled and then the process of continuous heat transfer is complete.

In this process of "squeezing" air, about 200 gallons of water per minute is recovered. This being in excess of the spray requirements, the surplus is diverted after a time to a storage well and routed to other points of the Woodward plant for further manufacturing purposes.

This controlled air, which is reduced by this process to about 40 degrees Fahrenheit, contains, in the beginning, about three grains of moisture per cubic foot of air, and this lower moisture content results in lower coke consumption in the process of manufacturing pig iron at the blast furnace, which records economy.

Saving Effected

As furnace operations are a continuous process and as materials are fed into the furnace as required, it is gathered that the present rate of ore to coke will be substantially reduced and it follows that the elimination of that unit of coke by the air, with the lower moisture content, will cause an increased production of pig iron. And while it is too soon to reduce this ore rate into actual money saving, it is expected a definite reduction of operting costs will be achieved by these startling changes made by the control of air.

Although merchant producers naturally are interested in possible cost reduction which is expected, the principal objection and by far the most desired is the ability to provide a constant uniform quality of pig iron to customers.

Since iron making reached a higher state of refinement, the inability of producers to provide constant control of humidity has been one of the most serious difficulties and a factor which naturally increased costs. And while it is established as true that customers of iron merchants have at all times in the past received iron as per requirement, the fact remains that furnace "runs" on specific orders have been more frequent, and therefore more costly, than will be the case when and if air is controlled permanently and free of high moisture content.

Minister Goes to Court In Effort To Perform Marriage Ceremonies

Winchester, Va., Aug. 3 (AP)—Roy F. Schmucker, who said he is a minister of the Church of the Disciples of Christ, appeared in corporation court before Judge Philip Williams today in compliance with a summons that he show cause why his right to perform marriage ceremonies should be continued or revoked.

The court took the matter under advisement after a lengthy hearing. Schmucker said he recently had been ordained by the Rev. Arthur Quenzel at Tommyhawk, Berkeley county, W. Va.

The Rev. Charles Hume Funk, pastor of the Winchester Church of the Dicipies of Christ and secretary of the Winchester Ministerial association, said in court that "when a man has not been associated with a religious body in membership, in work and in worship for a period of years he is not propuerly a subject for ordination." He asserted that Schmucker told him several days ago that "he was having the so-called ordination that he might be able to perform marriages here."

Mr. Funk produced a letter from the Rev. John A. Tate of Richmond, executive secretary of the Disciples of Christ in Virginia, stating that the procedure of ordination of Schmucker could not be valid for Churches of Disciples of Christ.

Bandit Robes Indiana Bank of $5,748

Auburn, Ind., Aug. 3 — A robber described by Cashier John Haggerty as a "nice appearing man" held up the Auburn State Bank today and, after forcing Haggerty to hand over $5,748 in cash, ran to an automobile in which a companion sat and was driven away.

State police blockaded several Northern Indiana highways, but found no definite trace.

Haggerty's description of the man who took the money, State Police Capt. Walter Eckert said, fits that of a gunman who looted a Toledo (O.) Loan Company July 17.

Haggerty said the man entered the bank shortly before noon and shoved a note into his cage.

The note read: "This is a holdup. Be quiet and do as you are told, and you won't get hurt."

"The bandit was holding what looked like a cannon," said Haggerty, "so I did what he said."

Youth Saves Two Babies from Death

Pittsburgh, Aug. 3 (AP)—A young steel worker dashed into a blazing home in Braddock, tossed one of two trapped babies into the arms of neighbors and leaped from a porch roof with the other child.

The hero of the fire was John Ebner, Jr., a neighbor of Hugh Mooney, in whose home the fire broke out, trapping the Mooney children, two-year-old Hughie and nine-months-old Beatrice, and their aunt, Patricia Howard.

Mr. and Mrs. Mooney escaped by breaking out a downstairs window and then Mooney and young Eb ran back upstairs to find Miss Ho ard in the smoke-filled bedro with the children in her arms. S was confused and blinded by t smoke.

Air-Conditioning Now Invades Iron Making Industry in South With Better Production Likely

Controlling Humidity, Cherished Dream of Furnace Operators, Promises to Effect Savings and Insure Uniform Pig Iron

Humidifier, showing white conniners, left, through which cooled air flows in the an-conditioning system installed at Woodward which may revolutionize southern iron making.

Giant blowing engines at the Woodward Iron Co., used to compress moisture-free air.

By CLYDE W. ENNIS
Central Press Correspondent

Birmingham, Ala., Aug. 3—The entire picture of southern iron making will undergo a revolutionary change if the air-conditioning equipment now operating at one of the Woodward Iron Company blast furnaces performs as expected and the results are as as they appear probable at this time.

The system, which has been installed at a very moderate cost, will, it is believed, completely subjugate the all-time enemy of furnace operators—humidity. One of the dreamed-of achievements that has evaded furnace men through all iron-making experience is controlled humidity.

Air conditioning will be of greater value to plants in the south, it is believed, due to the high temperatures and high humidity in this section as compared to the colder operating days at plants father north. However, even the latter will find it advantageous to make similar installations, if the Woodward installation measures up to expectations of the designers and the Woodward executives.

How It Operates

The process begins in a spray type dehumidifier which is essentially a small concrete building arranged to take the air into one end and pass it through three sets of sprays of frigerated water onto the intake of massive blowing engines. The engines compress the dehumidified air and supply it to stoves for reheating through an overhead pipe line, where it is ready to enter the blast furnaces at a given temperature.

Coming in at the intake at a temperature of say 85 degrees Fahrenheit, as it did on the first day of operation, the air is almost immediately cooled to a pre-determined temperature, depending upon the moisture content prevailing, but approximately 40 degrees Fahrenheit as a base.

The degree of temperature thus removed from the air is absorbed by the sprayed water sending it up several degrees. This water is pumped through a ten-inch pipe line to a centrifugal refrigeraion plant, located in a building some 200 feet away from the intake. The B. T. U. content is removed when it is routed back to the spryas, further cooled and then the process of continuous heat transfer is complete.

In this process of "squeezing" air, about 200 gallons of water per minute is recovered. This being in excess of the spray requirements, the surplus is diverted after a time to a storage well and routed to other points of the Woodward plant for further manufacturing purposes.

This controlled air, which is reduced by this process to about 40 degrees Fahrenheit, contains, in the beginning, about three grains of moisture per cubic foot of air, and this lower moisture content results in lower coke consumption in the process of manufacturing pig iron at the blast furnace, which records economy.

White Sands of New Mexico To Engulf City-- But It Won't Happen for 1,000,000 Years!

An approaching New Mexico sand storm with sands in foreground gives an idea of their vivid whiteness.

By RAY E. COLTON, Sc. D.
Central Press Correspondent

Alamogordo, N. M., Aug. 2—Advancing eastward at a steady rate of eight inches per year on a solid front of 30 miles, the great "white sands" of New Mexico, located 16 miles due east of this city will, in the opinion of investigating geologists and other scientists, engulf the town proper, at some period during the end of the next 1,000,000 years.

Unruffled by this encroachment of Old Mother Nature and her wandering sands, the citizens of Alamogordo go about their daily pursuits, as after all, why should they, as they say with a shrug of the shoulder in Castillian style, worry about something which will happen 1,000,000 years from now?"

Once thought to be merely a body of sand, left over from the vast New Mexico prehistoric inland sea, which inundated all of southern New Mexico and the southwestern portion of the state of Texas, during the Paleozoic geological era, over 200,000,000 years before the advent of man, the white sands have, after careful research and study, been recently discovered not to be sand, but a body of pure gypsum crystal, which have high commercial value as well as scenic and scientific interest.

Fame Spreads

The "white sands" of New Mexico are known throughout the world as well as in all parts of the United States. Few tourists, en route to the Pacific or Atlantic coasts, via the San Augustine pass, which is directly west from the western boundary of the "sands" proper, fail to stop and examine this "freak" of nature at close hand. During 1935, over 34,000 visitors came, and during the years of 1936-37-38, a total of 200,000 visitors, made the "pilgrimage."

The United States department of the interior has established a modern headquarters area within the sand's area, and under the jurisdiction of the United States national park service, this facility for the enlightenment of the visiting public, is being rushed to rapid completion.

Not Silica Or Quartz

Contrary to the belief held by many for over 100 years, the famed "white sands" are not ordinary silicia or quartz sands, but they are, as newly discovered, composed of fine crystallized gypsum. They are constantly in the process of making.

To the west of the sands, and about ten miles from the picnic grounds which have been established, is an old lake bed, which is drying up and working itself out in the process of forming these crystals of gypsum. The gypsum in solution is carried down from the surrounding hills and, when the water evaporates, is left on the surface of the grounds in the form of snow-white crystals.

These crystals are piled up by the prevailing southwest winds into wind-shaped dunes, some of which are 75 to 100 feet in height. The entire body of gypsum crystals, along a thirty-mile front, is moving eastward at the rate of eight inches per year, as observation and study has recently shown.

Animals, Insects Live in Sand

Animal and insect life are the predominating forms which inhabit this body of moving gypsum crystals, and there are to be seen many examples of protective coloration. The ordinary pocket mouse that lives near the border of the sands is a gray brown, but those who inhabit the sands proper are as white as the crystal themselves.

Lizards and many insects, some of which are descendants of long-vanished reptilian and insect life, are to be found within the dune area proper, and these are extremely light in color. Matching their background, they escape the notice of their enemies.

Yes, the white sands are not sand, but pure crystal gypsum, which has decided to move east, regardless of how long it takes for the migration.

Three Invent Blow Torch and Burn Way Out of Ohio Prison

London, O., Aug. 3 (AP)—A police killer and three robbers invented an ingenious blow torch to cut through saw-proof steel bars and escaped from the state prison farm here.

They lined a flower pot with asbestos and burned coke and alcohol in it forced by oxygen obtained from the prison hospital. The contrivance melted the steel.

They slid from a second story prison hospital window on a rope made of gauze bandages. A guard saw their flight but not until they were out of range of his rifle.

One of the four, Charles Adomak, 41, robber, became exhausted and was recaptured in a field. The others were: Louis Vandervort, 36, under life sentence for shooting a policeman to death in a store burglary; Harold Curtner, 39, and Nathan King, 47 robbers.

Vandervort was admitted to the hospital Monday at his own request for observation of possible tuberculosis. King was a tuberculosis patient.

Superintendent T. C. Jenkins said "Vandervort probably was not as sick as he seemed to be."

A Porch Clean-Up

White Sands of New Mexico To Engulf City-- But It Won't Happen for 1,000,000 Years!

An approaching New Mexico sand storm with sands in foreground gives an idea of their vivid whiteness.

By RAY E. COLTON, Sc. D.
Central Press Correspondent

Alamogordo, N. M., Aug. 2—Advancing eastward at a steady rate of eight inches per year on a solid front of 30 miles, the great "white sands" of New Mexico, located 16 miles due east of this city will, in the opinion of investigating geologists and other scientists, engulf the town proper, at some period during the end of the next 1,000,000 years.

Unruffled by this encroachment of Old Mother Nature and her wandering sands, the citizens of Alamogordo go about their daily pursuits, as after all, why should they, as they say with a shrug of the shoulder in Castillian style, worry about something which will happen 1,000,000 years from now?"

Once thought to be merely a body of sand, left over from the vast New Mexico prehistoric inland sea, which inundated all of southern New Mexico and the southwestern portion of the state of Texas, during the Paleozoic geological era, over 200,000,000 years before the advent of man, the white sands have, after careful research and study, been recently discovered not to be sand, but a body of pure gypsum crystal, which have high commercial value as well as scenic and scientific interest.

Fame Spreads

The "white sands" of New Mexico are known throughout the world as well as in all parts of the United States. Few tourists, en route to the Pacific or Atlantic coasts, via the San Augustine pass, which is directly west from the western boundary of the "sands" proper, fail to stop and examine this freak" of nature at close hand. During 1935, over 34,000 visitors came, and during the years of 1936-37-38, a total of 200,000 visitors, made the "pilgrimage."

The United States department of the interior has established a modern headquarters area within the sand's area, and under the jurisdiction of the United States national park service, this facility for the enlightenment of the visiting public, is being rushed to rapid completion.

Not Silica Or Quartz

Contrary to the belief held by many for over 100 years, the famed "white sands" are not ordinary silica or quartz sands, but they are, as newly discovered, composed of large crystallized gypsum. They are constantly in the process of making.

To the west of the sands, and about ten miles from the picnic grounds which have been established, is an old lake bed, which is drying up and working itself out in the process of forming these crystals of gypsum. The gypsum in solution is carried down from the surrounding hills and, when the water evaporates, is left on the surface of the grounds in the form of snow-white crystals.

These crystals are piled up by the prevailing southwest winds into wave-shaped dunes, some of which are 75 to 100 feet in height. The entire body of gypsum crystals, along a thirty-mile front, is moving eastward at the rate of eight inches per year, as observation and study has recently shown.

Animals, Insects Live in Sand

Animal and insect life are the predominating forms which inhabit this body of moving gypsum crystals, and there are to be seen many examples of protective coloration. The ordinary pocket mouse that lives near the border of the sands is a gray brown, but those who inhabit the sands proper are as white as the crystal themselves.

Lizards and many insects, some of which are descendants of long-vanished reptilian and insect life are to be found within the dune area proper, and these are extremely light in color. Matching their background, they escape the notice of their enemies.

Yes, the white sands are not sand, but pure crystal gypsum, which has decided to move east, regardless of how long it takes for the migration.

Three Invent Blow Torch and Burn Way Out of Ohio Prison

London, O., Aug. 3 (AP)—A police killer and three robbers invented an ingenious blow torch to cut through saw-proof steel bars and escaped from the state prison farm here.

They lined a flower pot with asbestos and burned coke and alcohol in it forced by oxygen obtained from the prison hospital. The contrivance melted the steel.

They slid from a second story prison hospital window on a rope made of gauze bandages. A guard saw their flight but not until they were out of range of his rifle.

One of the four, Charles Adomak, 41, robber, became exhausted and was recaptured in a field. The others were: Louis Vandervort, 36, under life sentence for shooting a policeman to death in a store burglary; Harold Curtner, 39, and Nathan King, 47 robbers.

Vandervort was admitted to the hospital Monday at his own request for observation of possible tuberculosis. King was a tuberculosis patient.

Superintendent T. C. Jenkins said "Vandervort probably was not as sick as he seemed to be."

Army Air Corps Celebrates 30th Year of Flying

Smashes One Record and Cracks Another at Dayton

By DEVON FRANCIS

Dayton, O., Aug. 3 — The army air corps polished off the 30th celebration of its origin here by Cracking one world's record and establishing another in a new category to boost to six the international marks hung up in three days of flying.

Maj. Gen. H. H. Arnold, chief of the air corps, told a luncheon meeting at Forbes field, "we have done this without "souping up" our engines, without putting alchol in our gasoline, clipping the wings of our planes or flying with motors which last only five hours. Moreover, we used standard equipment with full military loads."

Records Held Abroad

Most of the international records for all types of airplanes—some 70 in number—are held by Italy and Germany, although the British recently have been assaulting established marks.

All day long, above the heads of a frankfurter-eating crowd estimated at 100,000, warplanes from Wright field and other army posts flew in formation to signalize the 30th anniversary of that day in 1909 when a contract was signed for the purchase of America's first military ship—a 42-mile-an-hour Wright biplane.

In contrast, a four-motored "B-15" super flying fortress today averaged 166.32 miles an hour carrying 4,400 pounds of "payload" over a distance of 3,107 miles. American pursuit ships fly well in excess of 400 miles an hour and the army's goal in the current air rearmament drive, to be completed in two years, is 500 miles an hour. This mark is in a newly established category.

Fortress up 33,400 Feet

The other record made public was that of a standard, four-motored "flying fortress" which climed to 33,400 feet with a load in excess of 11,000 pounds. The mark, previously held by Germany, was "exceeded liberally," the Wright field press department said.

Regarding the open house at the Wright airdrome, Gen. Arnold said "the time is past when we can keep our light under a bushel basket. It's your air corps and your airplanes."

Father of Three Children Kills Wife, Attempts Suicide

Portland, Ore., Aug. 3 (AP)—Three horror-stricken children, awakened today to find their mother dead from axe wounds and their father lifeless from throat slashes in their two-room apartment here.

Detective Al Eichenberger said Charles Brant, 42, recently released from a veterans' hospital, killed his wife Annett Brant, 25, and then himself by slashing the arteries in his neck and wrist.

The youngsters—Grace, 9, Charles 8, and Jimmy 5— were asleep in a bed near their mother when the father wielded the long-handled ax.

49 Year Old Woman Commits Suicide

Washington, Aug. 3 (AP) — Police booked as a suicide today a case in which a 49-year-old widow apparently set an alarm clock for death.

The lifeless body of Mrs. Elsie T. Raymond was found at daybreak, eighty feet beneath the window of the Shoreham hotel room she rented yesterday.

The alarm clock in her room was set for 4:30 a. m.; the alarm spring was partially run down. Both screen and window in the air-conditioned room were open. A telephone operator heard a thud at about 4:40.

Coroner A. Magrude MacDonald who issued a suicide certificate, was told by Mrs. Raymond's sister that she had been ill.

Mexican Oil Probe Resolution Killed

Washington, Aug. 3 (AP) —With Senator Borah (R-Idaho) taking the lead, the Senate Foreign Relations Committee killed today two resolutions for an investigation of circumstances surrounding the seizure of American oil property by the Mexican government.

The committee decided unanimously, on Borah's motion, that neither of the resolutions, introduced by Senator Bridges (R-NH) and Senator Neely (D-WVa) was properly before it and that no facts were stated in either which justified an investigation by a special three-member committee, as suggested. It then voted to report both bills adversely.

The resolutions were introduced as the outgrowth of the action by Senator Bridges in reading to the Senate last week newspaper reports linking the name of Senator Guffey (D-Pa) with persons who negotiated the sale of oil by Mexico from the seized properties.

Down to the Sea

Freemansburg, Pa., Aug. 3(AP)—Its brakes becoming loosened, an unoccupied automobile coasted down Jefferson street hill and plunged into the Lehigh canal. Only a small part of the top of the car, sticking out of the water, showed the driver what had become of it when he came from a house where he was visiting.

Uruguay has ruled that game birds may not be shipped out of the country.

Bank Robber Sent to Prison for 35 Years

Leavenworth, Kan., Aug. 3 (AP) — John Thornburg, 26, pleaded guilty today to the $4,860 "human dynamite bomb" robbery of the First National Bank of Chanute, Kas., last March 27 and was sentenced to thirty-five years in a federal prison.

Judge Richard J. Hopkins imposed the long sentence after Z. J. Vanlandingham, FBI agent, told of Thornburg's high living on the loot.

Army Air Corps Celebrates 30th Year of Flying

By DEVON FRANCIS

Dayton, O., Aug. 3 — The army air corps polished off the 30th celebration of its origin here by Cracking one world's record and establishing another in a new category to boost to six the international marks hung up in three days of flying.

Maj. Gen. H. H. Arnold, chief of the air corps, told a luncheon meeting at Forbes field, "we have done this without "souping up" our engines, without putting alchol in our gasoline, clipping the wings of our planes or flying with motors which last only five hours. Moreover, we used standard equipment with full military loads."

Records Held Abroad

Most of the international records for all types of airplanes—some 70 in number—are held by Italy and Germany, although the British recently have been assaulting established marks.

All day long, above the heads of a frankfurter-eating crowd estimated at 100,000, warplanes from Wright field and other army posts flew in formation to signalize the 30th anniversary of that day in 1909 when a contract was signed for the purchase of America's first military ship—a 42-mile-an-hour Wright biplane.

In contrast, a four-motored "B-15" super flying fortress today averaged 166.32 miles an hour carrying 4,400 pounds of "payload" over a distance of 3,107 miles. American pursuit ships fly well in excess of 400 miles an hour and the army's goal in the current air rearmament drive, to be completed in two years, is 500 miles an hour. This mark is in a newly established category.

Fortress up 33,400 Feet

The other record made public was that of a standard, four-motored "flying fortress" which climed to 33,400 feet with a load in excess of 11,000 pounds. The mark, previously held by Germany, was "exceeded liberally," the Wright field press department said.

Regarding the open house at the Wright airdrome, Gen. Arnold said "the time is past when we can keep our light under a bushel basket. It's your air corps and your airplanes."

Father of Three Children Kills Wife, Attempts Suicide

Portland, Ore., Aug. 3 (AP)—Three horror-stricken children, awakened today to find their mother dead from axe wounds and their father lifeless from throat slashes in their two-room apartment here.

Detective Al Eichenberger said Charles Brant, 42, recently released from a veterans' hospital, killed his wife Annett Brant, 25, and then himself by slashing the arteries in his neck and wrist.

The youngsters—Grace, 9, Charles 8, and Jimmy 5— were asleep in a bed near their mother when the father wielded the long-handled ax.

49 Year Old Woman Commits Suicide

Washington, Aug. 3 (AP) — Police booked as a suicide today a case in which a 49-year-old widow apparently set an alarm clock for death.

The lifeless body of Mrs. Elsie T. Raymond was found at daybreak, eighty feet beneath the window of the Shoreham hotel room she rented yesterday.

The alarm clock in her room was set for 4:30 a. m.; the alarm spring was partially run down. Both screen and window in the air-conditioned room were open. A telephone operator heard a thud at about 4:40.

Coroner A. Magrude MacDonald who issued a suicide certificate, was told by Mrs. Raymond's sister that she had been ill.

Mexican Oil Probe Resolution Killed

Washington, Aug. 3 (AP) —With Senator Borah (R-Idaho) taking the lead, the Senate Foreign Relations Committee killed today two resolutions for an investigation of circumstances surrounding the seizure of American oil property by the Mexican government.

The committee decided unanimously, on Borah's motion, that neither of the resolutions, introduced by Senator Bridges (R-NH) and Senator Neely (D-WVa) was properly before it and that no facts were stated in either which justified an investigation by a special three-member committee, as suggested. It then voted to report both bills adversely.

The resolutions were introduced as the outgrowth of the action by Senator Bridges in reading to the Senate last week newspaper reports linking the name of Senator Guffey (D-Pa) with persons who negotiated the sale of oil by Mexico from the seized properties.

Down to the Sea

Freemansburg, Pa., Aug. 3(AP)—Its brakes becoming loosened, an unoccupied automobile coasted down Jefferson street hill and plunged into the Lehigh canal. Only a small part of the top of the car, sticking out of the water, showed the driver what had become of it when he came from a house where he was visiting.

Uruguay has ruled that game birds may not be shipped out of the country.

Bank Robber Sent to Prison for 35 Years

Leavenworth, Kan., Aug. 3 (AP) — John Thornburg, 26, pleaded guilty today to the $4,860 "human dynamite bomb" robbery of the First National Bank of Chanute, Kas., last March 27 and was sentenced to thirty-five years in a federal prison.

Judge Richard J. Hopkins imposed the long sentence after Z. J. Vanlandingham, FBI agent, told of Thornburg's high living on the loot.

Yanks Turn on Tigers to Pound Out 12-3 Win

Bronx Bombers Retaliate For Two Setbacks

Storm over Three Detroit Pitchers in Collecting 16 Safeties

Four Homers in Array with Joe DiMaggio Getting Two Clouts

New York, Aug. 3. (AP)—The world champion Yankees, who just won't stay down long, cuffed the Detroit Tigers 12 to 3 today with a 16-hit bombardment which included four home runs, two of them by Joe DiMaggio.

The Bronx bombers, retaliating for embarrassing defeats in the first two games of their series, stormed over three Detroit pitchers and finished Buck Newsom, the Tigers' starter, with a six-run blast in the fifth.

DiMaggio's first homer came with two on in the first and the other included the Yankee attack in the eighth. In addition Bill Dickey hit his 17th of the season in the third and Red Rolfe hit for the circuit in the sixth.

Pearson allowed 11 hits in winning his tenth game of the year, but got out together seven empty innings between the Detroit scoring.

Lots Happens As Cubs Defeat Phils In Wild Contest

Pitchers Chased, Star Benched, Coach Banished and Pilot "Quits"

Chicago, Aug. 3 (AP) — Chicago's Cubs defeated the Philadelphia Phillies 9 to 6 today, but that wasn't the half of it.

Both starting pitchers were chased, Morrie Arnovich, the National League's leading hitter, was benched, Coach Hans Lobert of the Phils was banished and Doc Prothro, Philly manager, walked off the field in "disgust."

The Cubs were outhit 15 to 13, but a big fourth inning, including homers by Stan Hack and Hank Leiber, helped Bill Lee to his 12th triumph although he had to be rescued by Jack Russell.

Base Stealing Reached Its Zenith In the '90's

BY JOHN LARDNER
(Released By North American Newspaper Alliance)

New York, Aug. 3—Your correspondent spent most of the years from 1890 to 1900 hunting big game in Africa—the biggest game I could find was a two-dollar stud game in Tanganyika—and, therefore, was out of touch with baseball developments before the turn of the century.

It doesn't pay to look away from the national pastime for a minute. A few weeks ago, when I talked about base-stealing, I put all the accent on a couple of Johnny-come-lately goniffs, or thieves, named Ty Cobb and Max Carey, little realizing that these fellows were slow and honest compared with some of the bandits who throve in the '90's.

But the friends of Billy Hamilton and Big Bill Lange have not forgotten them. I have a fat stack of mail on hand recording the claims of Lange and Hamilton—especially, Lange who, besides being highly larcenous on the bases, was one of the great outfielders of all time, and the logical candidate, his contemporaries say, for the hall of fame.

Griff To Nominate Bill Bill

As a matter of fact, Clark Griffith has promised to put big William's name into nomination for that same hall at the first opportunity. Griff, now the belated Earl of Washington's baseball acres, was a pitcher on the Chicago Cubs when Lange was playing all the center field he could find for that club. Today Mr. Griffith has a one-track (broad-gauge) mind, but there is room along the line of the track for Lange.

"The Yankees can be beten," snarls Griff, "and Lange was the greatest outfielder I ever saw."

Now in the real estate business in San Francisco, and a reformed character, without the slightest touch of burglary in his heart, Bill Lange was nevertheless the last major league ball player of any description to steal 100 or more bases in a season. He stole 100 in 1896. Cobb's best total, in 1915 was 96.

Lange's loyal historian, Tay Pay Magilligan, old-time St. Louis baseball writer, points out that Lange played only seven years of major league ball, retiring at the height of his game in 1899. His record of thefts for those seven years:

1895—79.
1896—100.
1897—83.
1898—83.
1899—50.

Used To Run Wild

Fans are apt to discount base-stealing and other records established in the nineteenth century because the rules and conditions of the game were different. They are right about base-stealing to a certain extent, but only to a certain extent. Before 1893, the pitcher stood fifty feet from the plate, and the base-thieves behind him ran wild. In 1888, for instance, Harry Stovey, of the old Athletics, stole 156 bases. In 1890, he stole 136, and Billy Hamilton, of the Phils, stole 115 in 1891.

In 1893 they shook up the rules and moved the pitcher ten feet farther away from the plate. This change achieved its principal purpose, to fatten batting averages, but it also reduced the base-stealing totals by giving the pitcher closer supervision over the runners. This being the case, the records of Hamilton for 1894 and 1895 (99 and 95) and of Lange for 1896-7-8 are little short of phenomenal.

Refused to Detour

Lange was a big fellow, 6 feet 4 inches tall and 220 pounds on his winged hooves. He must have been a painful sight to infielders covering second base as he catapulted toward them, loaded for bear and shortstops, for history tells us that Big William hated to detour, and the tagger who stood in his path was likely to wind up on the small, if any, of his back.

Because some of the more detailed records of the time have not survived, it's hard to say whether any of the base panthers of the nineties—Lange, Hamilton, Stovey, Welch, Brown, Ward, Clarke, Sheckard, Barrett, Martsel and Isbell — ever matched the efficiency, or "larceny quotient," of Max Carey, whom I nominated not long ago as baseball's most business-like thief.

In 1922, if you recall, Carey attempted 53 thefts and stole successfully 51 times. That was Carey's way. He didn't go down unless he thought he had that bag in his pocket, and he went down very frequently.

It's possible that some of the old-timers were just as efficient. Whether they were or not, their feats are often short-counted, and history is unjust today if she skims past Bill Lange as though Big Bill were a whistle-stop.

Swimming Meet At Celanese Pool Here This Evening

Teams from Several Cities To Meet Local Aquatic Stars at 8 P. M.

The fourth annual Western Maryland swimming and diving championship meet is scheduled to be held this evening at 8 o'clock at the Celanese A. A. pool with Director Raymond "Ike" Law in charge of the program of events.

Teams from Baltimore, Washington, Pittsburgh, Fairmont and Arlington, Va., will compete against local aquatic stars for the individual and team trophies.

A 14-inch trophy will go to the team title winners. This award has been donated by the Cumberland Sunday and Evening Times, which is sponsoring the meet, under the direction of the Celanese A. A.

The Young Men's Hebrew Association of Baltimore romped off with the crown last year when Baltimoreans won every men's event except the dives.

This year the Y. M. H. A. will be represented by Louis Adler, Julian Adler, Robert Rosenstein, Daniel Weiner and Morton Abrahams.

Name Teams

The Airport Pool of Arlington, Va., is sending Frank Reilly, Phil Dean, Mike Shaeffer, Stuart Fitzhugh and R. K. Moncure.

The Shoreham A. C. of Washington will be represented by William Tarbett and Bart Williams in the diving events.

The Boys Club of Washington plans to send 14 members. They are William Spiker, Buddy Moran, William Deck, Jack Patten, Donald Bradley, Richard Specht, Donald Essex, John Quick, Lawrence Rodgers, Joe Essex, Thomas Clarke, Wallace Fletcher, Bill Kelly and William McGrath.

The Fairmont team has not advised its members. Bill Taylor and Thomas Hopgood will represent the Celanese A. A. in the diving events.

Set Three Records

Three records were broken last year. Edward Blumbert, Baltimore, bettered the time of Bill Oswald in the men's 100-yard free style dash, swimming the distance in 1:05. Oswald's mark of 1:08¾ was set in 1937.

Ann Smith, in sweeping the senior and junior girls' divisions, established two records.

Saul Holland of Baltimore copped the 220-yard free style and 50-yard backstroke and the Baltimore YHMA team finished first in the 220-yard relay.

Cumberland divers made virtually a clean sweep of those events. Tom Hopwood walked off with top honors in both the men's high and low board contests, while Mitzie Sutherland won the women's high board and Marjorie Lowery the low board. Other winners last year follow:

Boys' Midget Class—15-yard dash, Eddie Mason; 25-yard dash, 10 to 12 years, Billy Stahl, and 25-yard dash, 12 to 14 years, Milnor Oswald.

Girls' Midget Class—15-yard dash, Connie Cook; 25-yard dash, 8 to 10 years, Jane Ebert; 25-yard dash, 10 to 12 years, Dona Littman, and 25-yard dash, 12 to 14 years, Wilda Lovenstein.

Junior Boys—50-yard free style, Bill Chandler.

Senior Women — 50-yard backstroke, Ann Smith.

Eagles Protect O'Brien

Philadelphia, Aug. 3 — Philadelphia Eagles will form a bodyguard this fall for Davey O'Brien. Coach Bert Bell says the little passer will be looked after even better than he was at Texas Christian, where two or three big men protected him.

THEY'RE OFF!—Field of 10 gets away nicely at Saratoga Springs, N. Y., aristocrat of race tracks observing its 75th season.

SADDLE STRAP SAM, ON THE LAM FROM BEL AIR; IS AT HANCOCK

(The letter below from Saddle Strap Sam was delayed in transit. The fact of the matter is S.S.S. himself has been delayed in thumbing his way home from Bel Air, where he turned up after leaving Wellersburg on the lam. S.S.S. was delayed at Hancock on the highway Wednesday. Some of the residents of Hancock wanted to see S.S.S. after his report on a recent outing on the environs of the Washington County apple belt.)

Enroute from Belair to Cumberland's Fair, Wednesday, Aug. 2, 1939.

Dear Chalk Hoss Chollie:

I saw your "missle" in place of my daily epistle in THE NEWS this a. m. and hasten to advise that what you write is half right and half wrong, in fact you're half-and-half.

That wasn't a squirrel-skin skypiece I had on passing thru Cumberland Tuesday; that was the squirrel in person perched atop my nut. That's how I got out of the tree at Wellersburg on my promise to the bushy-tailed beggar to furnish him transportation and food to Bel Air, where the nuts are ripest at the race-track there. See the race results daily.

I shed the squirrel after the sixth there yesterday when "Beaufast" ran second. The squirrel was ready to leave after the fourth as "Brainchild" ran nowhere that it counted after going to the barrier a 5 to 2 choice. I said I shed the squirrel but the squirrel really shed me, letting me know that there are some nuts that squirrels don't fancy, one kind is cocoanuts, another specie is cracked craniums commonly called a "coco".

Thumbing transportation from Bel Air is quite a workout on the wing. The motorists seemed to have lost faith in humankind and it may be because they see the way some of these poor dumb animals, called race horses, are made do such smart tricks.

I'm hoping to make it as far as Hancock and Cohill Manor by midnight and from there on up I should be able to take the mountains in high since I understand they're really rather anxious to see me stop in that locality after last week's party there. In fact, I've heard they sent me a double-dare to come there so I'm sure to make double time passing through and thereafter until in the catacombs of Cumberland.

(Editor's Note: SSS didn't get past Hancock Wednesday night.)

I mention the catacombs of the home town, having heard that there are more traffic regulations in force since I left, with a double lane of travel from the fair grounds in Greene street and one lane out . . . To me that's the handwriting on the wall that the pari-mutuel patrons will be twice as anxious to get home as to get out to the track. Harry Manley may give another answer for this new traffic trick but this is the time of the year when Harry has to have an answer for everything and we can excuse him if he gets a little mixed up on one here and there.

In fact that reminds me that Harry or somebody seems mixed up on the ticket distribution for the fair. They're making a big play for out-of-town patronage again by scattering the ducats here, there and everywhere for the Cumberland Fair, but from what all the boys tell me they are forgetting Cumberland and vicinity. I haven't asked the home gals anything about it because I don't relish broaching the subject of declined ducats to them, remembering the old saying that "Hell hath no fury like a woman scorned."

As I said I'll be home tomorrow (Thursday) so fill in for me in the lapse. I guess you went on "Fighting Fox" up at Saratoga today. He must have been the "chalk horse," and I see by the papers he ran fourth in a four horse race. That's them chalk horses for you.

Me, I touted all the boys on "Hustle Home" in the eighth at Bel Air today (Wednesday) because I had to hustle home, particularly past Hancock. Don't ask fool questions; do you think I'd be thumbing my way home if I had played it myself.

Yours, dejectedly,
SADDLE STRAP SAM.

Senators Sweep St. Louis Series --Case Runs Wild

Steals Three Bases, Scores Three and Hits Trio In 9-5 Victory

Washington, Aug. 3 (AP) — The Senators made it three straight over St. Louis, beating the Browns 9 to 5 today.

Outfielder George Case of the Senators stole three bases to increase his total to 37, scored three runs and hit a triple, double and single.

Billy Conn Matched To Fight Bettina

Pittsburgh, Aug. 3 (AP) — Billy Conn, latest sensation of the boxing world, was matched today to defend his light heavyweight crown in Pittsburgh, his home town, September 25 against Melio Bettina, New York champion whom he beat recently in Madison Square Garden.

Mike Jacobs, nationally known promoter, completed details of the bout, which will be held in the National League baseball park. Jake Mintz of Pittsburgh, will be co-promoter.

It was understood Conn would receive the champion's usual 37½ per cent of the gate and Bettina 12½ per cent.

The Candy Kitchen Girls swamped the ninth place Gilmore team 47 to 1, in a league game played on the South End Park.

Virginia Broadstock pitched her eleventh victory of the season, allowed only 5 hits and struck out seven batters. "Dot" Powers with six hits, including a home run, triple, double and three singles, while Betty Chaney and Louella Cage each had five hits, four of Chaney's blows being doubles and Cage hit two home runs. Vivian Stewart also hit a home run. 16 errors by Gilmore helped the Candy Kitchen to run up their score. Gilmore claims a forfeit victory over Corriganville on a game scheduled two weeks ago, when Corriganville failed to show up.

Yanks Turn on Tigers to Pound Out 12-3 Win

Bronx Bombers Retaliate For Two Setbacks

Four Homers in Array with Joe DiMaggio Getting Two Clouts

New York, Aug. 3. (AP)—The world champion Yankees, who just won't stay down long, cuffed the Detroit Tigers 12 to 3 today with a 16-hit bombardment which included four home runs, two of them by Joe DiMaggio.

The Bronx bombers, retaliating for embarrassing defeats in the first two games of their series, stormed over three Detroit pitchers and finished Buck Newsom, the Tigers' started, with a six-run blast in the fifth.

DiMaggio's first homer came with two on in the first and the other included the Yankee attack in the eighth. In addition Bill Dickey hit his 17th of the season in the third and Red Rolfe hit for the circuit in the sixth.

Pearson allowed 11 hits in winning his tenth game of the year, but put together seven empty innings between the Detroit scoring.

Lots Happens As Cubs Defeat Phils In Wild Contest

Pitchers Chased, Star Benched, Coach Banished and Pilot "Quits"

Chicago, Aug. 3 (AP) — Chicago's Cubs defeated the Philadelphia Phillies 9 to 6 today, but that wasn't the half of it.

Both starting pitchers were chased. Morrie Arnovich, the National League's leading hitter, was benched. Coach Hans Lobert of the Phils was banished and Doc Prothro, Philly manager, walked off the field in "disgust."

The Cubs were outhit 15 to 13, but a big fourth inning, including homers by Stan Hack and Hank Leiber, helped Bill Lee to his 12th triumph although he had to be rescued by Dick Russell.

Base Stealing Reached Its Zenith In the '90's

(Released By North American Newspaper Alliance)

New York, Aug. 3—Your correspondent spent most of the years from 1890 to 1900 hunting big game in Africa—the biggest game I could find was a two-dollar stud game in Tanganyika—and, therefore, was out of touch with baseball developments before the turn of the century.

It doesn't pay to look away from the national pastime for a minute. A few weeks ago, when I talked about base-stealing, I put all the accent on a couple of Johnny-come-lately goniffs, or thieves, named Ty Cobb and Max Carey, little realizing that these fellows were slow and honest compared with some of the bandits who throve in the '90's.

But the friends of Billy Hamilton and Big Bill Lange have not forgotten them, I have a fat stack of mail on hand recording the claims of Lange and Hamilton—especially, Lange who, besides being highly larcenous on the bases, was one of the great outfielders of all time, and the logical candidate, his contemporaries say, for the hall of fame.

Griff To Nominate Bill Bill

As a matter of fact, Clark Griffith has promised to put big William's name into nomination for that same hall at the first opportunity. Griff, now the belated Earl of Washington's baseball acres, was a pitcher on the Chicago Cubs when Lange was playing all the center field he could find for that club. Today Mr. Griffith has a one-track (broad-gauge) mind, but there is room along the line of the track for Lange.

"The Yankees can be beten," snarls Griff, "and Lange was the greatest outfielder I ever saw."

Now in the real estate business in San Francisco, and a reformed character, without the slightest touch of burglary in his heart, Bill Lange was nevertheless the last major league ball player of any description to steal 100 or more bases in a season. He stole 100 in 1896. Cobb's best total, in 1915 was 96.

Lange's loyal historian, Tay Pay Magilligan, old-time St. Louis baseball writer, points out that Lange played only seven years of major league ball, retiring at the height of his game in 1899. His record of thefts for those seven years:

1895—79.
1896—100.
1897—83.
1898—83.
1899—50.

Used To Run Wild

Fans are apt to discount base-stealing and other records established in the nineteenth century because the rules and conditions of the game were different. They are right about base-stealing to a certain extent, but only to a certain extent. Before 1893, the pitcher stood fifty feet from the plate, and the base-thieves behind him ran wild. In 1888, for instance, Harry Stovey, of the old Athletics, stole 156 bases. In 1890, he stole 136, and Billy Hamilton, of the Phils, stole 115 in 1891.

In 1893 they shook up the rules and moved the pitcher ten feet farther away from the plate. This change achieved its principal purpose, to fatten batting averages, but it also reduced the base-stealing totals by giving the pitcher closer supervision over the runners. This being the case, the records of Hamilton for 1894 and 1895 (99 and 95) and of Lange for 1896-7-8 are little short of phenomenal.

Refused to Detour

Lange was a big fellow, 6 feet 4 inches tall and 220 pounds on his winged hooves. He must have been a painful sight to infielders covering second base as he catapulted toward them, loaded for bear and shortstops, for history tells us that Big William hated to detour, and the tagger who stood in his path was likely to wind up on the small, if any, of his back.

Because some of the more detailed records of the time have not survived, it's hard to say whether any of the base panthers of the nineties—Lange, Hamilton, Stovey, Welch, Brown, Ward, Clarke, Sheckard, Barrett, Martsel and Isbell — ever matched the efficiency, or "larceny quotient," of Max Carey, whom I nominated not long ago as baseball's most business-like thief.

In 1922, if you recall, Carey attempted 53 thefts and stole successfully 51 times. That was Carey's way. He didn't go down unless he thought he had that bag in his pocket, and he went down very frequently.

It's possible that some of the old-timers were just as efficient. Whether they were or not, their feats are often short-counted, and history is unjust today if she skims past Bill Lange as though Big Bill were a whistle-stop.

Swimming Meet At Celanese Pool Here This Evening

Teams from Several Cities To Meet Local Aquatic Stars at 8 P. M.

The fourth annual Western Maryland swimming and diving championship meet is scheduled to be held this evening at 8 o'clock at the Celanese A. A. pool with Director Raymond "Ike" Law in charge of the program of events.

Teams from Baltimore, Washington, Pittsburgh, Fairmont and Arlington, Va., will compete against local aquatic stars for the individual and team trophies.

A 14-inch trophy will go to the team title winners. This award has been donated by the Cumberland Sunday and Evening Times, which is sponsoring the meet, under the direction of the Celanese A. A.

The Young Men's Hebrew Association of Baltimore romped off with the crown last year when Baltimoreans won every men's event except the dives.

This year the Y. M. H. A. will be represented by Louis Adler, Julian Adler, Robert Rosenstein, Daniel Weiner and Morton Abrahams.

Name Teams

The Airport Pool of Arlington, Va., is sending Frank Reilly, Phil Dean, Mike Shaeffer, Stuart Fitzhugh and R. K. Moncure.

The Shoreham A. C. of Washington will be represented by William Tarbett and Bart Williams in the diving events.

The Boys Club of Washington plans to send 14 members. They are William Spiker, Buddy Moran, William Deck, Jack Patten, Donald Bradley, Richard Specht, Donald Essex, John Quick, Lawrence Rodgers, Joe Essex, Thomas Clarke, Wallace Fletcher, Bill Kelly and William McGrath.

The Fairmont team has not advised its members. Bill Taylor and Thomas Hopgood will represent the Celanese A. A. in the diving events.

Set Three Records

Three records were broken last year. Edward Blumbert, Baltimore, bettered the time of Bill Oswald in the men's 100-yard free style dash, swimming the distance in 1:05. Oswald's mark of 1:08¾ was set in 1937.

Ann Smith, in sweeping the senior and junior girls' divisions, established two records.

Saul Holland of Baltimore copped the 220-yard free style and 50-yard backstroke and the Baltimore YHMA team finished first in the 220-yard relay.

Cumberland divers made virtually a clean sweep of those events. Tom Hopwood walked off with top honors in both the men's high and low board contests, while Mitzie Sutherland won the women's high board and Marjorie Lowery the low board. Other winners last year follow:

Boys' Midget Class—15-yard dash, Eddie Mason; 25-yard dash, 10 to 12 years, Billy Stahl, and 25-yard dash, 12 to 14 years, Milnor Oswald.

Girls' Midget Class—15-yard dash, Connie Cook; 25-yard dash, 8 to 10 years, Jane Ebert; 25-yard dash, 10 to 12 years, Dona Littman, and 25-yard dash, 12 to 14 years, Wilda Lovenstein.

Junior Boys—50-yard free style, Bill Chandler.

Senior Women — 50-yard backstroke, Ann Smith.

Eagles Protect O'Brien

Philadelphia, Aug. 3 — Philadelphia Eagles will form a bodyguard this fall for Davey O'Brien. Coach Bert Bell says the little passer will be looked after even better than he was at Texas Christian, where two or three big men protected him.

THEY'RE OFF!—Field of 10 gets away nicely at Saratoga Springs, N. Y., aristocrat of race tracks observing its 75th season.

SADDLE STRAP SAM, ON THE LAM FROM BEL AIR; IS AT HANCOCK

(The letter below from Saddle Strap Sam was delayed in transit. The fact of the matter is S.S.S. himself has been delayed in thumbing his way home from Bel Air, where he turned up after leaving Wellersburg on the lam. S.S.S. was delayed at Hancock on the highway Wednesday. Some of the residents of Hancock wanted to see S.S.S. after his report on a recent outing on the environs of the Washington County apple belt.)

Enroute from Belair to Cumberland's Fair, Wednesday, Aug. 2, 1939.

Dear Chalk Hoss Chollie:

I saw your "missle" in place of my daily epistle in THE NEWS this a. m. and hasten to advise that what you write is half right and half wrong, in fact you're half-and-half.

That wasn't a squirrel-skin skypiece I had on passing thru Cumberland Tuesday; that was the squirrel in person perched atop my nut. That's how I got out of the tree at Wellersburg on my promise to the bushy-tailed beggar to furnish him transportation and food to Bel Air, where the nuts are ripest at the race-track there. See the race results daily.

I shed the squirrel after the sixth there yesterday when "Beaufast" ran second. The squirrel was ready to leave after the fourth as "Brainchild" ran nowhere that it counted after going to the barrier a 5 to 2 choice. I said I shed the squirrel but the squirrel really shed me, letting me know that there are some nuts that squirrels don't fancy, one kind is cocoanuts, another specie is cracked craniums commonly called a "coco".

Thumbing transportation from Bel Air is quite a workout on the wing. The motorists seemed to have lost faith in humankind and it may be because they see the way some of these poor dumb animals, called race horses, are made do such smart tricks.

I'm hoping to make it as far as Hancock and Cohill Manor by midnight and from there on up I should be able to take the mountains in high since I understand they're really rather anxious to see me stop in that locality after last week's party there. In fact, I've heard they sent me a double-dare to come there so I'm sure to make double time passing through and thereafter until in the catacombs of Cumberland.

(Editor's Note: SSS didn't get past Hancock Wednesday night.)

I mention the catacombs of the home town, having heard that there are more traffic regulations in force since I left, with a double lane of travel from the fair grounds in Greene street and one lane out . . . To me that's the handwriting on the wall that the pari-mutuel patrons will be twice as anxious to get home as to get out to the track. Harry Manley may give another answer for this new traffic trick but this is the time of the year when Harry has to have an answer for everything and we can excuse him if he gets a little mixed up on one here and there.

In fact that reminds me that Harry or somebody seems mixed up on the ticket distribution for the fair. They're making a big play for out-of-town patronage again by scattering the ducats here, there and everywhere for the Cumberland Fair, but from what all the boys tell me they are forgetting Cumberland and vicinity. I haven't asked the home gals anything about it because I don't relish broaching the subject of declined ducats to them, remembering the old saying that "Hell hath no fury like a woman scorned."

As I said I'll be home tomorrow (Thursday) so fill in for me in the lapse. I guess you went on "Fighting Fox" up at Saratoga today. He must have been the "chalk horse," and I see by the papers he ran fourth in a four horse race. That's them chalk horses for you.

Me, I touted all the boys on "Hustle Home" in the eighth at Bel Air today (Wednesday) because I had to hustle home, particularly past Hancock. Don't ask fool questions; do you think I'd be thumbing my way home if I had played it myself.

Yours, dejectedly,
SADDLE STRAP SAM.

Senators Sweep St. Louis Series --Case Runs Wild

Steals Three Bases, Scores Three and Hits Trio In 9-5 Victory

Washington, Aug. 3 (AP) — The Senators made it three straight over St. Louis, beating the Browns 9 to 5 today.

Outfielder George Case of the Senators stole three bases to increase his total to 37, scored three runs and hit a triple, double and single.

Billy Conn Matched To Fight Bettina

Pittsburgh, Aug. 3 (AP) — Billy Conn, latest sensation of the boxing world, was matched today to defend his light heavyweight crown in Pittsburgh, his home town, September 25 against Melio Bettina, New York champion whom he beat recently in Madison Square Garden.

Mike Jacobs, nationally known promoter, completed details of the bout, which will be held in the National League baseball park. Jake Mintz of Pittsburgh, will be co-promoter.

It was understood Conn would receive the champion's usual 37½ per cent of the gate and Bettina 12½ per cent.

The Candy Kitchen Girls swamped the ninth place Gilmore team 47 to 1, in a league game played on the South End Park.

Virginia Broadstock pitched her eleventh victory of the season, allowed only 5 hits and struck out seven batters. "Dot" Powers with six hits, including a home run, triple, double and three singles, while Betty Chaney and Louella Cage each had five hits, four of Chaney's blows being doubles and Cage hit two home runs. Vivian Stewart also hit a home run. 16 errors by Gilmore helped the Candy Kitchen to run up their score. Gilmore claims a forfeit victory over Corriganville on a game scheduled two weeks ago, when Corriganville failed to show up.

St. Louis Cards Take Two for Five in Row

Defeat Boston 5-1 and 4-3 and Gain On Idle Reds

Joe Medwick Returns to Cards Lineup and Hits Homer

Lon Warneke Wins Tenth In First Full Game Since May 30

St. Louis, Aug. 3 (AP)—Running their winning streak to five in a row, the St. Louis Cardinals cut a full game off the National League lead of the idle Cincinnati Reds today by defeating the Boston Bees in both halves of a doubleheader.

The victories by scores of 5 to 1 and 4 to 3 placed the Cardinals more securely in second place, 9½ games behind the front-running Reds, who were rained out this afternoon.

Joe Medwick, in the limelight after a temperamental run-in with Manager Ray Blades, played the full 18 innings and contributed a home run and a double to the Cardinals' 14-hit attack on Bill Posedel in the opener.

Lon Warneke won his tenth victory of the season in the opener in pitching his first complete game since May 30.

Waugh Pop Wins Bel Air Feature --Is Disqualified

Officials Rule Pansy's First Was Bumped--New Record Set

Bel Air, Md., Aug. 3 (AP)—Waugh Pop was first home in the Churchville Purse, feature fifth race today, but officials ruled the 4-year-old bumped Pansy's First at the head of the stretch and disqualified him.

Waugh Pop's jockey, Lou Machado, leading rider of the Harford county fair association's ten-day program, was suspended for the remainder of the meeting.

The disqualification gave first money to Fredalva, made Pansy's First second and Best Policy third.

Fredalva, a longshot, paid $14.30 for $2.

Machado brought Waugh Pop home in 1.39 3-5, equalling the track record Waugh Pop set for the mile Tuesday.

The disqualification left Machado and Sammy Palumbo in a tie for riding honors at the meeting, but with the former out of the meeting, Palumbo should have easier competition.

Machado, tied with Palumbo with eight victories and six seconds each, won the opener astride E. R. Pipe's Seplin. Palumbo brought S. B. Berry's Nanci's Best in second.

Palumbo was aboard Fredalva in the fifth, however, and the disqualification of Waugh Pop put the jockeys even again.

Annual Golf Match At CCC on Saturday

Presidents Oppose Vice-Presidents with Winners To Get Free Dinner

The annual golf match between the Presidents and Vice-Presidents of the Cumberland Country Club will be held Saturday afternoon starting at 1 o'clock, it was announced yesterday. G. William Biddy will captain the Presidents while Robert E. Barnard will head the Vice-Presidents.

Play will be in foursomes with scoring by high ball and low ball method of points. Following the match, the losers will treat the winners to a dinner at the club at 7 o'clock.

Teams have been chosen by the captains and members who will be unable to play should report immediately to either Mr. Bibby or Mr. Barnard. Others not listed but who desire to play should get in touch with Secretary Albert Carlson.

The pairings for the match, with members of the Presidents team listed first, follow:

Saddle Strap Sam

Saddle Strap Sam blew in at midnight, 24 hours behind schedule, and in no shape to stick a pencil through a program to say which plug he picks for today so yours truly, "Chalk Hoss Chollie" will do the honors like Waugh Pop at Bel Air . . . Set a record with a win and then be disqualified . . .

Saddle Strap looks much the worse for wear and tear and we won't say what he was wearing . . . but he looked like a walking ad for the "Beer Barrel Polka." . . . We just noticed "Wear and Tear" is the name of a horse going in the first at Rockingham and if you believe a hunch is a hunch, there's a hunch for you . . .

Still wondering what happened to SSS we are struck by the name of a horse in the sixth at Rockingham. It's "Pumpgun" and it should pop.

If you prefer parlays put a penny across the board on Liberty Ann and Hurry Ann, the first in the first at Saratoga and the second in the fourth at Rockingham; take 'em or leave 'em or take 'em as you please.

St. Louis Cards Take Two for Five in Row

Defeat Boston 5-1 and 4-3 and Gain On Idle Reds

Joe Medwick Returns to Cards Lineup and Hits Homer

Lon Warneke Wins Tenth In First Full Game Since May 30

St. Louis, Aug. 3 (AP)—Running their winning streak to five in a row, the St. Louis Cardinals cut a full game off the National League lead of the idle Cincinnati Reds today by defeating the Boston Bees in both halves of a doubleheader.

The victories by scores of 5 to 1 and 4 to 3 placed the Cardinals more securely in second place, 9½ games behind the front-running Reds, who were rained out this afternoon.

Joe Medwick, in the limelight after a temperamental run-in with Manager Ray Blades, played the full 18 innings and contributed a home run and a double to the Cardinals' 14-hit attack on Bill Posedel in the opener.

Lon Warneke won his tenth victory of the season in the opener in pitching his first complete game since May 30.

Waugh Pop Wins Bel Air Feature --Is Disqualified

Officials Rule Pansy's First Was Bumped--New Record Set

Bel Air, Md., Aug. 3 (AP)—Waugh Pop was first home in the Churchville Purse, feature fifth race today, but officials ruled the 4-year-old bumped Pansy's First at the head of the stretch and disqualified him.

Waugh Pop's jockey, Lou Machado, leading rider of the Harford county fair association's ten-day program, was suspended for the remainder of the meeting.

The disqualification gave first money to Fredalva, made Pansy's First second and Best Policy third.

Fredalva, a longshot, paid $14.30 for $2.

Machado brought Waugh Pop home in 1.39 3-5, equalling the track record Waugh Pop set for the mile Tuesday.

The disqualification left Machado and Sammy Palumbo in a tie for riding honors at the meeting, but with the former out of the meeting, Palumbo should have easier competition

Machado, tied with Palumbo with eight victories and six seconds each, won the opener astride E. R. Pipe's Seplin. Palumbo brought S. B. Berry's Nanci's Best in second.

Palumbo was aboard Fredalva in the fifth, however, and the disqualification of Waugh Pop put the jockeys even again.

Presidents Oppose Vice-Presidents with Winners To Get Free Dinner

The annual golf match between the Presidents and Vice-Presidents of the Cumberland Country Club will be held Saturday afternoon starting at 1 o'clock, it was announced yesterday. G. William Biddy will captain the Presidents while Robert E. Barnard will head the Vice-Presidents.

Play will be in foursomes with scoring by high ball and low ball method of points. Following the match, the losers will treat the winners to a dinner at the club at 7 o'clock.

Teams have been chosen by the captains and members who will be unable to play should report immediately to either Mr. Bibby or Mr. Barnard. Others not listed but who desire to play should get in touch with Secretary Albert Carlson.

The pairings for the match, with members of the Presidents team listed first, follow:

A. B. Carlson and G. W. Bibby vs. R. Barnard and M. C. Harris; Dr. K. P. Heintz and C. S. Catherman, Jr. vs. George Werkmeister and Edward Mattingly; Dr. J. E. McLean and Dr. H. B. Tennis Tourney Producing Fast Matches

First Day's Play Indicates High Calibre of Meet

Ponton, Cumberland's No. 1 Player Loses In The First Round

Public Invited Daily to the Matches on all Local Courts

The first day of the Allegheny Mountains open tennis championship showed local tennis fans that the next three days will bring forth matches worth traveling miles to see. The entry list this year is far superior to last year in number and ability of the players.

The grade of the women players is higher as well as the thirty-two players entered in the men's singles, and it is impossible to tell who will reach the final rounds in all events.

First Upset

The first upset of the tournament was the elimination of Russell Ponton. Cumberland's leading player, by George Soisson, of Connellsville, Pa., in straight sets of 8-6 and 6-1. Ponton also had been seeded No. 4. Lawrence Middlecamp, another local player, however, was able to dispose of his opponent, Wesley Neville, of Keyser, W. Va., 6-1, 6-2. Leo LaNeve, Cumberland, downed another good player from Keyser, Dr. William McDonald, in a hard fought battle 4-6, 7-5, 6-1. Adrian Hartman, Pittsburgh, made short work of Newton Heston, Cumberland, 6-0, 6-1. Ross Palmer vs. Loraine Eisenberg, both of Cumberland was won by Palmer at 6-1, 6-2. One of the best matches of the day was the playing of Ansell Knotts, Morgantown, W. Va. against Eric Smith, of Worcester, Mass., which Knotts won after long rallies at 4-6, 6-2, 6-1.

Only one match was played yesterday in the womens' singles, as they were scheduled to start Friday and a number of the players had not arrived. Joy Hartman, of Pittsburgh, seeded No. 1, defeated Elizabeth Doub, Cumberland, 6-0, 6-1.

Matches Today

Matches scheduled for today: 9 a. m., Walter Eyler, Cumberland, vs. A. McBain, Mercersburg, Pa.; "Red" Brown, Elkins, vs. John Spangler, Morgantown, W. Va.; 9 a. m., Lawrence Middlecamp, Cumberland vs. Adrian Hartman, Pittsburgh; 11 a. m., A. Ross, Mercersburg, vs. W. E. Hinkel, Cumberland, Jack McLaughlin, Mercersburg, vs. J. R. Dye, Cumberland; 2 p. m., John Brown, Sr., Pittsburgh, vs. Hubert Martin, Morgantown.; 3 p. m., Harry Wald, Pittsburgh, vs. Bobby Bennett, Pittsburgh; Paul Sullivan vs. J. R. Brown, Jr., both Pittsburgh; 4 p. m., Fred Adler, Pittsburgh, vs. Charles Jones, Cumberland; George Stoner, Washington, vs. Ed. Harvey, Cumberland; 5 p. m., John Loud and Gordon Bowie, Cumberland, vs. John and Robert Spangler, Morgantown. Women's singles already scheduled: 10 a. m., Mrs. Gordon Bowie will play Mrs. Peyton Brown, both of Cumberland; 2 p. m., Francis Grimes, Morgantown, will meet Mrs. Betty Hitchins Byrd.

All the above matches are scheduled for the Cumberland Country Club courts. The public is cordially invited to witness all tournament play the next thee days. There is no charge for admission. Other matches will be played on all the courts today in men's singles, women's singles, and men's doubles.

White Sox Win Over A's 9 to 7 To Capture Series

Philadelphia, Aug. 3 (AP) — The Chicago White Sox captured their series with the Athletics three games to one in a free-hitting affair today, 9 to 7.

Bob Johnson and Frankie Hayes featured the Athletics' attack with long home runs in the third inning. Johnson's coming with two on was his 15th of the season. Hayes' has 13.

Riggs Leads Way Into Semi-Finals At Southampton

Has Fight All Way To Win Over Hunt Who Is Slow Starting

Southampton, N. Y., Aug. 3 (AP) — Bobby Riggs led the way into the semi-finals of both singles and doubles in the Meadow Club's annual invitation tennis tournament today, but the unpredictable Chicagoan had to fight all the way before overcoming game Joe Hunt in the individual competition.

With Riggs into the round-of-four of the singles marched Sidney Wood, the former Wimbledon champion; Ernie Sutter of New Orleans and Bob Kamrath of Austin, Texas. It will be Riggs against Kamrath and Wood facing Sutter in tomorrow's semi-finals.

A hot sun and a long layoff from tournament tennis deprived Hunt of most of his early strength in his match against Riggs, but he staged a rally in the third set that forced the No. 1, Davis Cup hopeful to go all out to win 4-5,6-3, 7-5.

Prusoff Defaulted

Kamrath advanced by default over Henry Prusoff, of Seattle. Prusoff, who upset Bitsy Grant on opening day, was forced to withdraw because of torn stomach muscles.

Wood defeated George Toley, of Los Angeles, 6-4,6-2, while Sutter toppled Bob Peacock, of Berkeley, Calif., 5-7, 6-2, 6-2.

In the doubles quarter-finals, Frank Geurnsey,of Orlando, Fla., and Russell Bobbitt, of Atlanta, defeated Gene Mako of Los Angeles and Gardnar Mulloy, of Miami, 12-10, 6-4, while Frankie Parker of Beverly Hills, Calif. ,and Don McNeill of Oklahoma City, bested John Hope Doeg of Rumson, N. J., and Charles Mattman of New York, 6-3, 6-4.

Riggs and Elwood T. Cooke, of Portland, Ore., disposed of Ronald Lubin and George Toley, Los Angeles, 7-5, 6-4, and Bill and Chester Murphy of Chicago, turned back Marvin Wachman and Norman Bickel if Chicago, 3-6, 6-3, 7-5.

The SPORT TRAIL

By WHITNEY MARTIN

New York, Aug. 3 (AP)—They are keeping the home fires burning in St. Louis, particularly under Joe Medwick, and boy, is he hot!

When Ray Blades sent in a substitute to field for Ducky-Wucky yesterday it practically was the same as sending someone in to run the last lap for Glenn Cunningham, or fight the last round for Joe Louis. An insult, no less, and it added to the growing belief that when the snows come Medwick will go.

As a matter of fact it would not be necessary to wait that long for the Cardinals and their star outfielder to part company, although the closing date for player deals was June 15.

Brooklyn is known to be a little moon-struck over Medwick. Last summer Larry MacPhail is reported to have offered $200,000 for him.

Brooklyn was in sixth place today, with only Boston and Philadelphia lowed. The Dodgers and Cardinals could arrange their deal, and then MacPhail could go to the heads of the Boston and Philadelphia clubs and say:

"See here, Mr. Quinn and Mr. Nugent, I'm all fixed to get Medwick if you will waive on him. You can't get him, as you couldn't pay the price. We're next in line, so we'd get him. How about it?"

According to waiver rules, the club lowest in the standing gets a player if several clubs claim him, and MacPhail would get his chance at Medwick before any clubs but the Phils and Bees could grab him.

That probably won't happen, but it could.

If winter comes and Medwick still is a Cardinal, Brooklyn may have its troubles making a deal. Phil Wrigley has shown more than casual interest in a guy named Joe, and he is about to toss dollars into the ocean with any of them.

Medwick, most valuable player in 1937, had contract trouble in 1938, and again this year, but he finally signed for a figure somewhere between $17,000 and $20,000.

However, he apparently hasn't been happy about the whole thing, and when Blades fined him $25 for failing to hustle after a ground ball, Ducky's relations with the club became more or less strained. It is reported he and Blades, after that incident, wouldn't ever say: "Pass the salt" to each other.

Yesterday's incident was something of a climax, and something is likely to pop up any day.

Local Fisherman Lands Big Catfish

George W. Thompson, Baltimore and Ohio Railroad fireman who resides at 705 Virginia avenue, landed a Mississippi catfish weighing 19 pounds and measuring 33 inches at Harpers Ferry Wednesday. The big "catty" put up a battle and it took Mr. Thompson nearly a half an hour to land him.

Cleveland's Poor Defense Figures In 17 to 6 Defeat

Johnny Allen Forced Out by Heat and Boston Goes On Rampage

Boston, Aug. 3. (AP)—Boston walloped Cleveland today, 17 to 6, as the Indians put on one of the wierdest of their wierd defensive performances.

Starting pitcher Johnny Allen, who collected three straight singles in his five-inning stay, retired at the start of the sixth because of fatigue with the Red Sox holding a 7-5 lead. Boston, which collected 17 hits, went on a nine-run splurge in the eighth off Johnny Broaca and Paul Sullivan to leave no doubt about the outcome.

The Tribe was charged officially with only six errors, but there were repeated instances of balls falling between fielders and one case in which three men went after the ball and nobody covered first.

Brooklyn Dodgers Win Over Pirates; Tied for Fifth

Pittsburgh, Aug. 3 (AP) — The Brooklyn Dodgers pulled themselves back into a tie for fifth place in the National League today with a 4 to 1 victory over the Pirates in their series finale.

Tot Pressnell, aided by three double plays, pitched a steady eight-hit game. The only run against him was scored by Max Butcher, the Pirates' newly-acquired pitcher, on two singles in the third.

AUSTRALIA—ROUND TRIP

New York, Aug. 3—It has been a matter of twenty years since we billed Australia for the Davis Cup. The billing consisted of Big Bill and Little Bill—otherwise known as Tilden and Johnston. They were an oddly matched pair as they sailed in the general direction of the Southern Cross on the other side of the world. Big Bill—six feet two—weighing 180. Little Bill, total displacement 118 pounds.

But they were two of the greatest tennis players anyone has ever seen and even today Big Bill can put on a one-set show to match anybody around. Little Bill had a great forehand and the heart of two Numidian lions. Together they collected the Davis Cup bill.

At this spot Australia believes it is about time the round-trip back to the land of the kangaroo, the koala and the wombat should be started.

Her two main collectors are Adrian Quist and John Bromwich, the two-handed swinger. Bromwich was good last year at the age of 19 or 20. His last year's added experience should make him even better for the next meeting, now only a short spell away.

We have quite an assortment from which to pick—including Riggs, Parker, Mako, Cooke and others, but picking a team strong enough to suppress the Australian entry is another affair.

Riggs also has improved—but at this writing the Australians have no Big and Little Bill to handle. The downfall of Riggs at Seabright last week was no cheerful news to the U. S. side. Judging from what happened to Riggs and Cooke, Seabright is a rougher tennis spot than Wimbledon.

Twenty-five years have slipped by since Norman Brookes and Tony Wilding carried the cup to Australia in the most dramatic of all the matches. For guns were blazing on the Western Front at the time and both Brookes and Wilding knew they were to head for the battle zone immediately after the last match was over. Brookes in that test carried Maurie McLoughlin to a 17-15 contest, the Comet depending on a killing service that finally broke down the veteran.

This was Tony Wilding's last shot at tennis. He told friends before he left that his final tennis match had been played as he had a foreboding that he would last only a short time. He was killed in action a short while later.

All this happened several years before Bromwich was born. And Quist was just about able to toddle around. It's a long way to Tipperary—and just as long to the last successful Australian invasion.

The Top Man

In talking over an all-time ranking with a number of veterans who still follow the game closely, I asked their vote on the best tennis player of them all.

The count was heavily in Bill Tilden's favor. There were several markers placed to the credit of Lawrence Doherty, the star member of the famous brother act. Brookes was voted the craftiest of the lot, one of the great competitors. There wasn't a better competitor than Bill Johnston, with his slender armament of 118 pounds. The Californian beat Tilden in 1919, but after that lacked the physical equipment to face so many heavier guns.

"No one ever quite knew just how good Tilden was at his best," one of the veterans said. "He had a way of loafing along until pressed then it would be different. He would use big matches in a championship to practice certain strokes, just as if there were nothing at stake. I've seen him lose a set to some rival and then call the next set at 6-1 or 6-0. Tilden was one of the few who could let down and then pull himself together. He could save himself, which accounts partly for his long career in the top-flight set."

About Tilden

Tilden had a greater combination of speed and power than anyone I've seen. He was also a master general on the court. He was like a cat on his feet, always in perfect balance. He was also a master at cracking an opponent's mental attitude with a change of pace.

"I could beat that long drink of water," Vinnie Richards once told me, "if I only knew what he was thinking about."

Tilden worked for years in developing varieties of attack that all looked to be exactly the same from the starting point. He had practically no weakness when he was at his best, and Tilden didn't approach his peak until he was around 25 years old.

Big Bill always rated Henri Cochet, the Ball Boy of Lyons, as the best of his opponents. But there was no other Tilden.

George Church, who played against him for many years, rates him the same way. "He had every stroke, plus speed, power and tennis brains." Church said recently: "There was only one Tilden."

Vines and Budge both came along after Big Bill started slipping. Here are two others who can be rated close to the front.

U. S. Cup Team's Selection Is Now Far Up in the Air

Recent Tournaments Put Returning Stars on Spot In Homeland

By WHITNEY MARTIN

New York, Aug., 3 (AP) —Just when it appeared the U. S. L. T. A. committee could pick its Davis Cup team with one grand gesture, it finds itself fumbling areund for a derby hat from which to draw names in single file.

A little reverse cooperation on the part of the candidates is responsible for the abrupt change in outlook, the Southampton and Seabright tournaments offering proof that a player might be ranked high one day and be rank the next.

When Bobby Riggs and Elwood Cooke returned from Wimbledon with pockets bulging with championships, they seemed ready to sweep through current tournaments with ease, and make the selecting of the Davis Cup team a formality.

Then what happens? Riggs loses to Frank Guernsey, Jr., ranked No. 12, and Cooke bows to Jack Kramer, ranked No. 15, in the third round at Seabright.

Other players also lost to rivals of lower ranking. For instance, Sydney Wood, No. 4 last year, lost to the No. 9 man, Gil Hunt; Bitsy Grant, No. 6, lost to unranked Henry Prusoff, at Southampton, and Gene Mako bowed to also unranked Robert Peacock, in the same tournament.

Grant also was defeated at Sea-

Bowling Green Downs Shamrocks 5 to 3

Bowling Green defeated the Shamrock club 5 to 3 on the Shamrock diamond Wednesday in an East Side softball league game. T. Robinson held the Shamrocks to four hits, while Sheetz the losing pitcher gave up eight hits.

The score by innings:

Bowling Green	130 000 1—5	8	1
Shamrocks	201 000 0—3	4	2

bright, but that loss to Don McNeill, No. 13, was not astonishing. McNeill has been coming along like a prairie fire in recent months, and definitely is a Davis Cup candidate.

Riggs is known as a hot and cold player, and his defeat at Seabright can be discounted inasmuch as he jumped from the boat into the tournament. Cooke also can use that as an alibi.

The one bright spot in recent performance is the play of Frankie Parker, winner of the Seabright singles.

The scrambled performance of the candidates as a whole, however, bodes ill for the United States chances against Australia, assuming, of course, the Aussies get past Cuba and Yugoslavia. Those matches should be no more troublesome than a slight rash to the adept Australians.

Just as one person's guess as to the makeup of the United States team for the matches at Philadelphia Sept. 2-4, it could be Riggs No. 1 in the singles, Parker No. 2, and the Cooke-Riggs combination in the doubles, although the Parker-McNeill and Sabin-Mako duos might squeeze in.

Ponton, Cumberland's No. 1 Player Loses In The First Round

Public Invited Daily to the Matches on all Local Courts

The first day of the Allegheny Mountains open tennis championship showed local tennis fans that the next three days will bring forth matches worth traveling miles to see. The entry list this year is far superior to last year in number and ability of the players.

The grade of the women players is higher as well as the thirty-two players entered in the men's singles, and it is impossible to tell who will reach the final rounds in all events.

First Upset

The first upset of the tournament was the elimination of Russell Ponton. Cumberland's leading player, by George Soisson, of Connellsville, Pa., in straight sets of 8-6 and 6-1. Ponton also had been seeded No. 4. Lawrence Middlecamp, another local player, however, was able to discomfit of his opponent, Wesley Neville, of Keyser, W. Va., 6-1, 6-2. Leo LaNeve, Cumberland, downed another good player from Keyser, Dr. William McDonald, in a hard fought battle 4-6, 7-5, 6-1. Adrian Hartman, Pittsburgh, made short work of Newton Heston, Cumberland, 6-0, 6-1. Ross Palmer vs. Lorraine Eisenberg, both of Cumberland was won by Palmer at 6-1, 6-2. One of the best matches of the day was the playing of Ansell Knotts, Morgantown, W. Va. against Eric Smith, of Worcester, Mass., which Knotts won after long rallies at 4-6, 6-2, 6-1.

Only one match was played yesterday in the womens' singles, as they were scheduled to start Friday and a number of the players had not arrived. Joy Hartman, of Pittsburgh, seeded No. 1, defeated Elizabeth Doub, Cumberland, 6-0, 6-1.

Matches Today

Matches scheduled for today: 10 a. m., Walter Eyler, Cumberland, vs. A. McBain, Mercersburg, Pa.; "Red" Brown, Elkins, vs. John Spangler, Morgantown, W. Va.; 9 a. m., Lawrence Middlecamp, Cumberland vs. Adrian Hartman, Pittsburgh; 11 a. m., A. Ross, Mercersburg, vs. W. E. Hinkel, Cumberland. Jack McLaughlin, Mercersburg, vs. J. R. Dye, Cumberland; 2 p. m., John Brown, Sr., Pittsburgh, vs. Hubert Martin, Morgantown.; 3 p. m., Harry Wald, Pittsburgh, vs. Bobby Bennett, Pittsburgh; Paul Sullivan vs. J. R. Brown, Jr., both of Pittsburgh; 4 p. m., Fred Adler, Pittsburgh, vs. Charles Jones, Cumberland; George Stoner, Washington, vs. Ed. Harvey, Cumberland; 5 p. m., John Loud and Gordon Bowie, Cumberland, vs. John and Robert Spangler, Morgantown. Women's singles already scheduled: 10 a. m., Mrs. Gordon Bowie will play Mrs. Peyton Brown, both of Cumberland; 2 p. m., Francis Grimes, Morgantown, will meet Mrs. Betty Hitchins Ford.

All the above matches are scheduled for the Cumberland Country Club courts. The public is cordially invited to witness all tournament play the next thee days. There is no charge for admission. Other matches will be played on all the courts today in men's singles, women's singles, and men's doubles.

In the doubles quarter-finals, Frank Geurnsey,of Orlando, Fla., and Russell Bobbitt, of Atlanta, defeated Gene Mako of Los Angeles and Gardnar Mulloy, of Miami, 12-10, 6-4, while Frankie Parker of Beverly Hills, Calif. ,and Don McNeill of Oklahoma City, bested John Hope Doeg of Rumson, N. J., and Charles Mattman of New York, 6-3, 6-4.

Riggs and Elwood T. Cooke, of Portland, Ore., disposed of Ronald Lubin and George Toley, Los Angeles, 7-5, 6-4, and Bill and Chester Murphy of Chicago, turned back Marvin Wachman and Norman Bickel if Chicago, 3-6, 6-3, 7-5.

The SPORT TRAIL

By WHITNEY MARTIN

New York, Aug. 3 (AP)—They are keeping the home fires burning in St. Louis, particularly under Joe Medwick, and boy, is he hot!

When Ray Blades sent in a substitute to field for Ducky-Wucky yesterday it practically was the same as sending someone in to run the last lap for Glenn Cunningham, or fight the last round for Joe Louis. An insult, no less, and it added to the growing belief that when the snows come Medwick will go.

As a matter of fact it would not be necessary to wait that long for the Cardinals and their star outfielder to part company, although the closing date for player deals was June 15.

Brooklyn is known to be a little moon-struck over Medwick. Last summer Larry MacPhail is reported to have offered $200,000 for him.

Brooklyn was in sixth place today, with only Boston and Philadelphia lowed. The Dodgers and Cardinals could arrange their deal, and then MacPhail could go to the heads of the Boston and Philadelphia clubs and say:

"See here, Mr. Quinn and Mr. Nugent, I'm all fixed to get Medwick if you will waive on him. You can't get him, as you couldn't pay the price. We're next in line, so we'd get him. How about it?"

According to waiver rules, the club lowest in the standing gets a player if several clubs claim him, and MacPhail would get his chance at Medwick before any clubs but the Phils and Bees could grab him.

That probably won't happen, but it could.

If winter comes and Medwick still is a Cardinal, Brooklyn may have its troubles making a deal. Phil Wrigley has shown more than casual interest in a guy named Joe, and he is about to toss dollars into the ocean with any of them.

Medwick, most valuable player in 1937, had contract trouble in 1938, and again this year, but he finally signed for a figure somewhere between $17,000 and $20,000.

However, he apparently hasn't been happy about the whole thing, and when Blades fined him $25 for failing to hustle after a ground ball, Ducky's relations with the club became more or less strained. It is reported he and Blades, after that incident, wouldn't ever say: "Pass the salt" to each other.

Yesterday's incident was something of a climax, and something is likely to pop up any day.

Local Fisherman Lands Big Catfish

George W. Thompson, Baltimore and Ohio Railroad fireman who resides at 705 Virginia avenue, landed a Mississippi catfish weighing 19 pounds and measuring 33 inches at Harpers Ferry Wednesday. The big "catty" put up a battle and it took Mr. Thompson nearly a half an hour to land him.

Cleveland's Poor Defense Figures In 17 to 6 Defeat

Johnny Allen Forced Out by Heat and Boston Goes On Rampage

Boston, Aug. 3. (AP)—Boston walloped Cleveland today, 17 to 6, as the Indians put on one of the wierdest of their wierd defensive performances.

Starting pitcher Johnny Allen, who collected three straight singles in his five-inning stay, retired at the start of the sixth because of fatigue with the Red.Sox holding a 7-5 lead. Boston, which collected 17 hits, went on a nine-run splurge in the eighth off Johnny Broaca and Paul Sullivan to leave no doubt about the outcome.

The Tribe was charged officially with only six errors, but there were repeated instances of balls falling between fielders and one case in which three men went after the ball and nobody covered first.

Brooklyn Dodgers Win Over Pirates; Tied for Fifth

Pittsburgh, Aug. 3 (AP) — The Brooklyn Dodgers pulled themselves back into a tie for fifth place in the National League today with a 4 to 1 victory over the Pirates in their series finale.

Tot Pressnell, aided by three double plays, pitched a steady eight-hit game. The only run against him was scored by Max Butcher, the Pirates' newly-acquired pitcher, on two singles in the third.

AUSTRALIA—ROUND TRIP

New York, Aug. 3—It has been a matter of twenty years since we billed Australia for the Davis Cup. The billing consisted of Big Bill and Little Bill—otherwise known as Tilden and Johnston. They were an oddly matched pair as they sailed in the general direction of the Southern Cross on the other side of the world. Big Bill—six feet two—weighing 180. Little Bill, total displacement 118 pounds.

But they were two of the greatest tennis players anyone has ever seen and even today Big Bill can put on a one-set show to match anybody around. Little Bill had a great forehand and the heart of two Numidian lions. Together they collected the Davis Cup bill.

At this spot Australia believes it is about time the round-trip back to the land of the kangaroo, the koala and the wombat should be started.

Her two main collectors are Adrian Quist and John Bromwich, the two-handed swinger. Bromwich was good last year at the age of 19 or 20. His last year's added experience should make him even better for the next meeting, now only a short spell away.

We have quite an assortment from which to pick—including Riggs, Parker, Mako, Cooke and others, but picking a team strong enough to suppress the Australian entry is another affair.

Riggs also has improved—but at this writing the Australians have no Big and Little Bill to handle. The downfall of Riggs at Seabright last week was no cheerful news to the U. S. side. Judging from what happened to Riggs and Cooke, Seabright is a rougher tennis spot than Wimbledon.

Twenty-five years have slipped by since Norman Brookes and Tony Wilding carried the cup to Australia in the most dramatic of all the matches. For guns were blazing on the Western Front at the time and both Brookes and Wilding knew they were to head for the battle zone immediately after the last match was over. Brookes in that test carried Maurie McLoughlin to a 17-15 contest, the Comet depending on a killing service that finally broke down the veteran.

This was Tony Wilding's last shot at tennis. He told friends before he left that his final tennis match had been played as he had a foreboding that he would last only a short time. He was killed in action a short while later.

All this happened several years before Bromwich was born. And Quist was just about able to toddle around. It's a long way to Tipperary—and just as long to the last successful Australian invasion.

The Top Man

In talking over an all-time ranking with a number of veterans who still follow the game closely, I asked their vote on the best tennis player of them all.

The count was heavily in Bill Tilden's favor. There were several markers placed to the credit of Lawrence Doherty, the star member of the famous brother act. Brookes was voted the craftiest of the lot, one of the great competitors. There wasn't a better competitor than Bill Johnston, with his slender armament of 118 pounds. The Californian beat Tilden in 1919, but after that lacked the physical equipment to face so many heavier guns.

"No one ever quite knew just how good Tilden was at his best," one of the veterans said. "He had a way of loafing along until pressed then it would be different. He would use big matches in a championship to practice certain strokes, just as if there were nothing at stake. I've seen him lose a set to some rival and then call the next set at 6-1 or 6-0. Tilden was one of the few who could let down and then pull himself together. He could save himself, which accounts partly for his long career in the top-flight set."

About Tilden

Tilden had a greater combination of speed and power than anyone I've seen. He was also a master general on the court. He was like a cat on his feet, always in perfect balance. He was also a master at cracking an opponent's mental attitude with a change of pace.

"I could beat that long drink of water," Vinnie Richards once told me, "if I only knew what he was thinking about."

Tilden worked for years in developing varieties of attack that all looked to be exactly the same from the starting point. He had practically no weakness when he was at his best, and Tilden didn't approach his peak until he was around 25 years old.

Big Bill always rated Henri Cochet, the Ball Boy of Lyons, as the best of his opponents. But there was no other Tilden.

George Church, who played against him for many years, rates him the same way. "He had every stroke, plus speed, power and tennis brains." Church said recently: "There was only one Tilden."

Vines and Budge both came along after Big Bill started slipping. Here are two others who can be rated close to the front.

U. S. Cup Team's Selection Is Now Far Up in the Air

By WHITNEY MARTIN

New York, Aug., 3 (AP) —Just when it appeared the U. S. L. T. A. committee could pick its Davis Cup team with one grand gesture, it finds itself fumbling areund for a derby hat from which to draw names in single file.

A little reverse cooperation on the part of the candidates is responsible for the abrupt change in outlook, the Southampton and Seabright tournaments offering proof that a player might be ranked high one day and be rank the next.

When Bobby Riggs and Elwood Cooke returned from Wimbledon with pockets bulging with championships, they seemed ready to sweep through current tournaments with ease, and make the selecting of the Davis Cup team a formality.

Then what happens? Riggs loses to Frank Guernsey, Jr., ranked No. 12, and Cooke bows to Jack Kramer, ranked No. 15, in the third round at Seabright.

Other players also lost to rivals of lower ranking. For instance, Sydney Wood, No. 4 last year, lost to the No. 9 man, Gil Hunt; Bitsy Grant, No. 6, lost to unranked Henry Prusoff, at Southampton, and Gene Mako bowed to also unranked Robert Peacock, in the same tournament.

Grant also was defeated at Sea-

Bowling Green Downs Shamrocks 5 to 3

Bowling Green defeated the Shamrock club 5 to 3 on the Shamrock diamond Wednesday in an East Side softball league game. T. Robinson held the Shamrocks to four hits, while Sheetz the losing pitcher gave up eight hits.

The score by innings:

Bowling Green	130	000 1—5	8 1
Shamrocks	201	000 0—3	4 2

bright, but that loss to Don McNeill, No. 13, was not astonishing. McNeill has been coming along like a prairie fire in recent months, and definitely is a Davis Cup candidate.

Riggs is known as a hot and cold player, and his defeat at Seabright can be discounted inasmuch as he jumped from the boat into the tournament. Cooke also can use that as an alibi.

The one bright spot in recent performance is the play of Frankie Parker, winner of the Seabright singles.

The scrambled performance of the candidates as a whole, however, bodes ill for the United States chances against Australia, assuming, of course, the Aussies get past Cuba and Yugoslavia. Those matches should be no more troublesome than a slight rash to the adept Australians.

Just as one person's guess as to the makeup of the United States team for the matches at Philadelphia Sept. 2-4, it could be Riggs No. 1 in the singles, Parker No. 2, and the Cooke-Riggs combination in the doubles, although the Parker-McNeill and Sabin-Mako duos might squeeze in.

Annual and Sick Leave Is Being Considered for State Roads Employees

Baltimore, Aug. 2 (AP)— The question of whether state roads employes working by the hour are eligible for annual and sick leave was laid before the public works board today.

Employment Commissioner Harry C. Jones said the law, enacted by the last legislature to give classified employes such leave, did not set up any standard to determine how many hours an employe should work before he was given leave. He said that the law, in its present form, might permit a man to work one week out of the year and then get a month's leave with pay.

Pending the works board's decision, he said, his office, the attorney-general and the roads commission had determined to leave the old arrangement unchanged. This gave no leave to hourly employes.

52 Year Old Man Swims Mile and a Half to Safety

Polar Island, Md., Aug. 2 (AP)— Timothy Cronin, 52, swam a mile and a half to safety today when the motor on a thirty-seven foot tender he was operating for the annual cruise of the Maryland Yacht Club stopped in a heavy sea.

About fifty yachts were making the week-long cruise to Eastern Shore regattas and the open tender, used to carry ice to club boats and as a ferry for members, was trailing them when the fleet sailed for Oxford after a day of fishing.

Cronin, weary and with arms swollen after the long immersion, said the motor stopped about 2:30 o'clock this morning. The open vessel began to ship water in the heavy sea. After trying to bail with a bucket and water cooler, he dived overboard and swam to Jefferson Island.

Meanwhile, the tender had been reported missing to the Coast Guard by Capt. Howard Bregal of the Yacht Club. The patrol boat Dionne was hastily summoned for the search. It was found, full of water several hours afterwards.

Cronin, at one time in the Navy, returned to Baltimore.

Log School House, but Of Modern Type

Pineville, W. Va., Aug. 3 (AP) — Future graduates of the Marsh Fork school will be able to tell their children long about 1960 that they went to classes in a log school house.

But it's not the kind of a log school you think. This one is modern in every respect, has running water, a sufficient library, and although it has only one room now, it provides ample space for the forty students.

The WPA provided funds for construction of the school which is just being completed.

Last year William Murphee became principal in the old dilapidated structure. He made some improvements himself, working after school hours, and even laid concrete walks. The board of education decided he and his pupils should have a new school. The log cabin is the result.

Huntington Voted Best By Traveling Britons

Hunting, W. Va., Aug. 3 (AP) — West Virginia in general and Huntington in particular won "hands down" in a vote by members of the Junior Car Club, of London, as the most enjoyable part of their recent tour of the United States and Canada.

Rudd Lowry, of New York city, who acted as service manager for the Britons on the trip, wrote Col. J. H. Long, of the Huntington Chamber of Commerce in part:

"It might interest you to know that our English friends were most delighted with their entire trip, but most particularly with the reception they received in Huntington.

"At the final dinner in Boston, a vote was taken on the towns where they had enjoyed themselves the most and Huntington won 'hands down'."

A dinner and dance attended by several hundred townspeople was given in honor of the forty-six members of the English party during their overnight stop in Huntington, June 30.

Dating by Girls Comes Sooner Than by Boys

They Develop from One to Two Years Earlier

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph. D.

It does not often occur to the average parent that puberty dawns in the daughter from one to two years earlier than in the son, and that because of her earlier physiological development she, as a rule, should be expected to be "boy crazy" a year or two earlier than her brother is "girl crazy."

The girl's earlier interest in the opposite sex, together with the traditional protectiveness toward the daughter by the parents, has caused them, it seems, to neglect guidance of their son. They forever warn their daughter against the barbarism of boys, but are little concerned about taming their own young "barbarian" properly to respect the girl. If we parents did as much to make our sons fit to be with girls as we do our daughters to be safe with boys, adolescent relationships would become more wholesome.

Do Need Protection

None the less, we know our daughters do need protection, and need it most right after sex-maturing. Since a great many parents don't protect their daughters adequately in the early teens, your daughter or mine may think we are very old-fashioned, even unreasonable, when we don't let her at 12, 13, or 14, go places all alone with a boy friend.

"All the other girls have this privilege," is the almost universal complaint. But let us not be frightened by this cry.

Not All Safe

Not all daughters at so early age are entirely safe with such privilege. I wish parents, years before the daughter approaches puberty, even in the child's infancy, would prepare to meet the problems of this critical period. There are two major essentials: one, that parental authority be well established years before; another, that the mother earn the confidence and companionship of her daughter.

Whether the daughter shall properly be allowed to have "dates" at 14, 15 or later will depend upon how well this mother-daughter comradeship has been cultivated, and upon the degree of responsibility and dependability the daughter has acquired.

The wise mother, carefully studying her daughter, will have an understanding with her as to when she may expect to have "dates." In the meanwhile, this mother will provide many opportunities for her daughter to have, under adequate protection, social contacts with many boys. Accordingly, ways will be devised for attracting numerous boys as well as girls to the home.

Generous Thieves Sweep over Kentucky

Paducah, Ky., (AP)—Jailer Charles Gholson has no ire for the thief who stole his automobile. The car was recovered undamaged. Said Gholson:

"It had been driven about 150 miles, but it had more gas in it when I got it back than it had when it was stolen."

Bowling Green, Ky. (AP)—Two bandits lined up nine persons in a grocery and robbed each.

One of the victims was a farmer with only 75 cents in his pocket. The gunman gave the money back.

"You're too dammed poor to be robbed," said one.

Corner Cleaning

Use crumpled soft tissue paper to remove dust from the corners of rooms with polished floors. Sprinkle a little furniture or floor polish on the paper so the dust will adhere to it.

HAPPY RELIEF FROM PAINFUL BACKACHE

Many of those gnawing, nagging, painful backaches people blame on colds or strains are often caused by tired kidneys—and may be relieved when treated in the right way.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste.

Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning shows there may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Blight Appears Among Potatoes

Specialist Advises Occasional Spraying for Control

College Park, Aug. 3—With the wet weather of the past few weeks, late blight has made its appearance in potato fields of the state, especially in the western part, and growers are urged by Dr. Robert A. Jehle, plant pathologist for the university extension service, to dust or spray frequently as possible while the damp weather continues. Dr. Jehle says that the disease has severely injured many fields which have not been thoroughly dusted or sprayed. If the weather becomes dry, spraying or dusting at one or two-week intervals will be sufficient but the frequency of application should be gauged by the growth of the plants and presence of insects and diseases

Bordeaux Mixture Best

Best results in control have been obtained by spraying with instant Bordeaux mixture. To make this spray, fill the sprayer half full of water, place pulverized bluestone on the screen and wash into the tank. Add water until the tank is about three-fourths full and then place the hydrated lime on the screen and wash into the tank. Fill the tank with water and use the spray at once. Keep the agitator going throughout the entire mixing process.

As spraying has given best results in the control of late blight in Maryland dusting is only recommended in fields where conditions make spraying impossible. If dust is used in place of spray a dust containing approximately twenty percent monohydrated copper sulphate, twenty percent calcium arsenate, and sixty percent hydrated lime should be used.

New Varieties Developed

The University of Maryland in cooperation with the United States Department of Agriculture has developed several new varieties of potatoes which have yielded just as successfully or better than the rural varieties in experiments conducted in Garrett county. Although resistant to the late blight it will be necessary to spray or dust for the control of other diseases and insects. However, the number of applications made during the season can be materially reduced, especially in seasons which are favorable for late blight development.

Weir Says Steel Industry Is Operating "In the Red"

Pittsburgh, Aug. 3(AP)—E. T. Weir, head of the American Iron and Steel institute, declared here the steel industry was operating "in the red" despite reports of profits by major producers for the first six months of the year.

He said reports showing the 13 leading producers had made profits of $21,109,152 during the first half gave a "distorted, untrue" picture because they did not take into consideration the payment of referred dividends.

Instead of making a profit, he asserted, the producers actually lost $3,295,000 in meeting preferred dividend payments. He cited as an example a company that reported earnings of 36 cents a share but declared a dividend of $1.75. He added:

"The difference had to come out of surplus."

Preferred on Plate

Clarksburg, W. Va., Aug. 3 (AP)—Guinea hen, no doubt, makes a delectable dish, but Mrs. Nanni Pike, 73, prefers her hens on a platter—not flying through a bus window at her.

Mrs. Pike, a former resident of Clarksburg was returning to San Francisco after a visit. She suffered a slight shock when a guinea hen smashed through a window of the bus. Mrs. Pike was adjusting her glasses at the time and the fowl struck her hands. The guinea was killed.

American motion pictures now attract the largest audiences in Ireland.

Wall Street Encouraged by Defeat Of New Deal Measures in Congress

Shelving of Latest Experiments Pleasing News to Traders

By FREDERICK GARDNER

New York, Aug. 3 (AP) — The stock market retreated before a stiff profit taking barrage today and early gains running to 2 or more points were reduced or converted into moderate losses at the close.

Transfers aggregated 1,007,267 shares against 1,026,530 the day before.

Wall street continued to exhibit cheerfulness over the congressional shift toward conservatism involving shelving of the administration's lending bill and the curtailing of other New Deal expenditures.

Steels and motors, among the best in the morning, ended under water, and rails, buoyant for a while, emerged about even or with only minor advances. Utilities, yesterday's fast sprinters, took a breathing spell.

At the best a number of new 1939 highs were recorded. Among these were Celanese, Western Union, DuPont and Safeway stores.

Fractions to more than a point down in the curb were Electric Bond & Share, Lockheed and Niagara Hudson Power. A little on the plus side were American Cyanamid "B," Northern States Power "A" and Bell Aircraft. Turnover of 217,000 shares compared with 207,000 Wednesday.

"Goodbye Mr. Chips" Excellent Entertainment Now at the Maryland

Robert Donat, who gave the screen one of its finest performances as the idealistic doctor of "The Citadel," once again reveals his consummate artistry and acting skill in "Goodbye, Mr. Chips," filmization of the celebrated James Hilton novel, which is currently on view at the Maryland Theater.

The story of "Mr. Chips" is the story of the education of youth the world over. Donat plays the kindly schoolmaster who comes to a large English school as a young man and passes his entire life there. He becomes the ideal of the boys in his care, and when these boys grow up they send their sons back to "Mr. Chips." He meets and falls in love with a young and beautiful girl and when she ultimately dies the tragedy leaves "Chips" with a great human understanding and compassion.

New Film-Drama Deals With Courtroom Tactics Of Criminal Attorneys

Revelation of the shady methods whereby criminal lawyers secure the unjustified acquittal of their guilty clients, is the basis of Lee Tracy's new film, "The Spellbinder," now showing at the Liberty.

The fast-talking actor is presented as a successful criminal attorney who for years has matched wits against prosecutors and employed all manner of trickery and faking before impressionable juries in order to win his cases. The ethics of the matter do not concern him. And outside the courtroom all he cares about is his motherless daughter.

The girl is the apple of his eye, and he takes every precaution to keep her from discovering the sort of lawyer he really is. How the policy works out when the girl, misled by his eloquence, falls in love with a young murderer whom the attorney has saved from the electric chair makes for the surprising drama of the picture.

Barbara Read and Patric Knowles head the supporting cast of the film, which is said to be Tracy's finest vehicle to date. Allan Lane and Linda Hayes are also featured. Jack Hively directed the RKO Radio production.

"Overland Stage Raiders" And "Society Lawyer" At Embassy

There was excitement aplenty on the set of "Overland Stage Raiders," the Three Mesquiteer picture which opened today at the Embassy Theater, one day at the Republic Studios, when John Wayne challenged Ray Corrigan to a shooting exhibition.

Dimes were set up on a tree stump, and the two popular actors stepped off fifty paces. They faced away from the targets, and each was to whirl and fire at a given signal. The first one to miss had to treat the entire company to cold drinks.

On the first shot, both dimes went flying. Two more were put up. Again both disappeared, bullets through them. This went on until six shots had been fire — and twelve dimes were gone.

At this point, Max Terhune's dummy, "Elmer," popped up with the remark that the contest was costing more than the treat would—so, it was called off and John and Ray chipped in to buy the drinks.

Virginia Bruce had to run away from beauty, the thing women seek most, before she could find success in motion pictures.

"Getting into pictures was fairly easy," Miss Bruce recalls, "but I did little besides stand around as atmosphere. I decided that it was up to me to start an honest campaign against the current belief of 'beautiful but dumb,' and settled down to the real hard work of building a career."

Today, after repeated success in numerous notable pictures, Miss Bruce is teamed with Walter Pidgeon in "Society Lawyer," screening now at the Embassy Theater, at the head of a cast that includes Leo Carrillo, Eduardo Ciannelli, Lee Bowman, Frances Mercer, Ann Morriss and Herbert Mundin.

Bobby Breen Sings Melodious Spirituals In "Way Down South"

Heading away from the classical, semi-classical and popular type of songs which he has vocalized in his previous starring pictures, Bobby Breen turns to the lush and beautiful melodies of the negro spiritual in his current film, "Way Down South," starting Saturday at the Liberty.

Based on a story by Clarence Muse and Langston Hughes, two well-known colored authors, "Way Down South" casts young Breen in the role of a courageous boy who attempts to hold together a vast plantation inherited from his father and to preserve the peace and happiness of the slaves who work it. His success, in the face of giant odds, is the subject of the exciting plot.

Numerous sequences centering around life on the large Louisiana estate in the pre-Civil War period call for the singing of traditional negro music as the cotton and sugar-cane pickers are seen at their work and play. Bobby's fine voice has the added advantage, in this case, of support from the famous Hall Johnson Choir, finest of negro choral organizations.

Among the favorite spirituals voiced either by Bobby, the choir or with their combined talents are: "Nobody Knows de Trouble I See," "Peter, Go Ring Dem Bells," "Couldn't Hear Nobody Pray," "Send One Angel Down," "Oh, Dem Golden Slippers" and "Sometimes I Feel Like a Motherless Child."

SCENE AT STRAND

"Frontiers of '49" Opens At Garden

"Frontiers of '49," Columbia's thrill-packed outdoor action drama starring Wild Bill Elliott, opens today at the Garden Theatre. Set in California of the colorful gold rush days, the film presents the star as an undercover cavalry officer who uproots the abuses of early, criminal government. Petite Luana de Alcaniz is Elliott's leading lady and Hal Taliaferro, Charles King, Charles Whittaker, Jack Walters and Al Ferguson are others in the cast. Joseph Levering directed from a screen play by Nate Gatzert.

Cy Schindell, former prize-fighter and vaudevillian, who has played featured roles in many Columbia comedies, is a heavy in "Smashing the Spy Ring," featuring Ralph Bellamy and Fay Wray, at the Garden Theatre. Schindell, a short, doly-poly, genial comedian, plays the part of a henchman to a famous spy.

Double Feature Now Showing at Strand

"The Lady Vanishes" which stars Margaret Lockwood, Michael Redgrave and Paul Lukas, is one of the most talked about pictures released this year and enjoys the distinction of playing six months in New York, three months in Washington and twelve weeks in Baltimore. It is now playing at the Strand.

On the same program is another grand hour of entertainment, the new and thrilling 20th Century-Fox murder mystery, "It Could Happen To You." Stuart Erwin plays with great skill the role of a shy young advertising man suddenly thrust into the headlines by a terrifying experience. Gloria Stuart is superb as the clever and helpful wife.

World of Girls In "Hotel For Women"

A world of girls on their own, with the life of a million parties giving them a new slant on life, rolls merrily into the Strand Theatre tomorrow in Elsa Maxwell's "Hotel For Women."

This Cosmopolitan Production for 20th Century-Fox marks the famous Elsa's film debut and describes in gay and thrilling terms a side of life you've never seen—dozens of smart, beautiful young things, girls who'll go to your heart; office girls in love with their bosses; girls on the make for fame; girls who want a good address—and a liberal education; girls looking for life in a penthouse—and girls longing for love in a cottage.

Production Chief Darryl F. Zanuck lined up a fine cast to be co-featured with Elsa, including Ann Sothern, Linda Darnell (new screen discovery), James Ellison, Jean Rogers, Lynn Bari, June Gale, Joyce Compton, Elsa herself, John Halliday, Katharine Aldridge, Alan Dinehart and Sidney Blackmer.

Roosevelt, Kump and Galento Lose Election

Clarksburg, W. Va., Aug. 3 (AP)—President Roosevelt, former Gov. H. Guy Kump and Tony Galento, prize fighter, ran last in a mock election staged here by members of a good government group from Wheeling, W. Va., demonstrating to a local charter committee the Cincinnati plan of electing councilmen.

Ten names were submitted on the ballots, with the high seven to be named to council. The winning candidates in order were:

Gov. Homer A. Holt, F. Guy Ash, Clarksburg; Former Congressman Carl G. Bachmann, Wheeling; Eddie Cantor and Jack Benny, radio comedians; John L. Lewis, CIO chieftain and Lowell Thomas, news commentator.

The charter committee is considering proposals for a new form of government for Clarksburg. Voters, including members of the committee and interested citizens were asked to vote on the ten candidates in order of choice.

Wall Street Encouraged by Defeat Of New Deal Measures in Congress

By FREDERICK GARDNER

New York, Aug. 3 (AP) — The stock market retreated before a stiff profit taking barrage today and early gains running to 2 or more points were reduced or converted into moderate losses at the close.

Transfers aggregated 1,007,267 shares against 1,026,530 the day before.

Wall street continued to exhibit cheerfulness over the congressional shift toward conservatism involving shelving of the administration's lending bill and the curtailing of other New Deal expenditures.

Steels and motors, among the best in the morning, ended under water, and rails, buoyant for a while, emerged about even or with only minor advances. Utilities, yesterday's fast sprinters, took a breathing spell.

At the best a number of new 1939 highs were recorded. Among these were Celanese, Western Union, Du-Pont and Safeway stores.

Fractions to more than a point down in the curb were Electric Bond & Share, Lockheed and Niagara Hudson Power. A little on the plus side were American Cyanamid "B," Northern States Power "A" and Bell Aircraft. Turnover of 217,000 shares compared with 207,000 Wednesday.

"Goodbye Mr. Chips" Excellent Entertainment Now at the Maryland

Robert Donat, who gave the screen one of its finest performances as the idealistic doctor of "The Citadel," once again reveals his consummate artistry and acting skill in "Goodbye, Mr. Chips," filmization of the celebrated James Hilton novel, which is currently on view at the Maryland Theater.

The story of "Mr. Chips" is the story of the education of youth the world over. Donat plays the kindly schoolmaster who comes to a large English school as a young man and passes his entire life there. He becomes the ideal of the boys in his care, and when these boys grow up they send their sons back to "Mr. Chips." He meets and falls in love with a young and beautiful girl and when she ultimately dies the tragedy leaves "Chips" with a great human understanding and compassion.

New Film-Drama Deals With Courtroom Tactics Of Criminal Attorneys

Revelation of the shady methods whereby criminal lawyers secure the unjustified acquittal of their guilty clients, is the basis of Lee Tracy's new film, "The Spellbinder," now showing at the Liberty.

The fast-talking actor is presented as a successful criminal attorney who for years has matched wits against prosecutors and employed all manner of trickery and faking before impressionable juries in order to win his cases. The ethics of the matter do not concern him. And outside the courtroom all he cares about is his motherless daughter.

The girl is the apple of his eye, and he takes every precaution to keep her from discovering the sort of lawyer he really is. How the policy works out when the girl, misled by his eloquence, falls in love with a young murderer whom the attorney has saved from the electric chair makes for the surprising drama of the picture.

Barbara Read and Patric Knowles head the supporting cast of the film, which is said to be Tracy's finest vehicle to date. Allan Lane and Linda Hayes are also featured. Jack Hively directed the RKO Radio production.

"Overland Stage Raiders" And "Society Lawyer" At Embassy

There was excitement aplenty on the set of "Overland Stage Raiders," the Three Mesquiteer picture which opened today at the Embassy Theater, one day at the Republic Studios, when John Wayne challenged Ray Corrigan to a shooting exhibition.

Dimes were set up on a tree stump, and the two popular actors stepped off fifty paces. They faced away from the targets, and each was to whirl and fire at a given signal. The first one to miss had to treat the entire company to cold drinks.

On the first shot, both dimes went flying. Two more were put up. Again both disappeared, bullets through them. This went on until six shots had been fire — and twelve dimes were gone.

At this point, Max Terhune's dummy, "Elmer," popped up with the remark that the contest was costing more than the treat would—so, it was called off and John and Ray chipped in to buy the drinks.

Virginia Bruce had to run away from beauty, the thing women seek most, before she could find success in motion pictures.

"Getting into pictures was fairly easy," Miss Bruce recalls, "but I did little besides stand around as atmosphere. I decided that it was up to me to start an honest campaign against the current belief of 'beautiful but dumb,' and settled down to the real hard work of building a career."

Today, after repeated success in numerous notable pictures, Miss Bruce is teamed with Walter Pidgeon in "Society Lawyer," screening now at the Embassy Theater, at the head of a cast that includes Leo Carrillo, Eduoardo Ciannelli, Lee Bowman, Frances Mercer, Ann Morriss and Herbert Mundin.

Bobby Breen Sings Melodious Spirituals In "Way Down South"

Heading away from the classical, semi-classical and popular type of songs which he has vocalized in his previous starring pictures, Bobby Breen turns to the lush and beautiful melodies of the negro spiritual in his current film, "Way Down South," starting Saturday at the Liberty.

Based on a story by Clarence Muse and Langston Hughes, two well-known colored authors, "Way Down South" casts young Breen in the role of a courageous boy who attempts to hold together a vast plantation inherited from his father and to preserve the peace and happiness of the slaves who work it. His success, in the face of giant odds, is the subject of the exciting plot.

Numerous sequences centering around life on the large Louisiana estate in the pre-Civil War period call for the singing of traditional negro music as the cotton and sugar-cane pickers are seen at their work and play. Bobby's fine voice has the added advantage, in this case, of support from the famous Hall Johnson Choir, finest of negro choral organizations.

Among the favorite spirituals voiced either by Bobby, the choir or with their combined talents are: "Nobody Knows de Trouble I See," "Peter, Go Ring Dem Bells," "Couldn't Hear Nobody Pray," "Send One Angel Down," "Oh, Dem Golden Slippers" and "Sometimes I Feel Like a Motherless Child."

SCENE AT STRAND

"Frontiers of '49" Opens At Garden

"Frontiers of '49," Columbia's thrill-packed outdoor action drama starring Wild Bill Elliott, opens today at the Garden Theatre. Set in California of the colorful gold rush days, the film presents the star as an undercover cavalry officer who uproots the abuses of early, criminal government. Petite Luana de Alcaniz is Elliott's leading lady and Hal Taliaferro, Charles King, Charles Whittaker, Jack Walters and Al Ferguson are others in the cast. Joseph Levering directed from a screen play by Nate Gatzert.

Cy Schindell, former prize-fighter and vaudevillian, who has played featured roles in many Columbia comedies, is a heavy in "Smashing the Spy Ring," featuring Ralph Bellamy and Fay Wray, at the Garden Theatre. Schindell, a short, doly-poly, genial comedian, plays the part of a henchman to a famous spy.

Double Feature Now Showing at Strand

"The Lady Vanishes" which stars Margaret Lockwood, Michael Redgrave and Paul Lukas, is one of the most talked about pictures released this year and enjoys the distinction of playing six months in New York, three months in Washington and twelve weeks in Baltimore. It is now playing at the Strand.

On the same program is another grand hour of entertainment, the new and thrilling 20th Century-Fox murder mystery, "It Could Happen To You." Stuart Erwin plays with great skill the role of a shy young advertising man suddenly thrust into the headlines by a terrifying experience. Gloria Stuart is superb as the clever and helpful wife.

World of Girls In "Hotel For Women"

A world of girls on their own, with the life of a million parties giving them a new slant on life, rolls merrily into the Strand Theatre tomorrow in Elsa Maxwell's "Hotel For Women."

This Cosmopolitan Production for 20th Century-Fox marks the famous Elsa's film debut and describes in gay and thrilling terms a side of life you've never seen—dozens of smart, beautiful young things, girls who'll go to your heart; office girls in love with their bosses; girls on the make for fame; girls who want a good address—and a liberal education; girls looking for life in a penthouse—and girls longing for love in a cottage.

Production Chief Darryl F. Zanuck lined up a fine cast to be featured with Elsa, including Ann Sothern, Linda Darnell (new screen discovery), James Ellison, Jean Rogers, Lynn Bari, June Gale, Joyce Compton, Elsa herself, John Halliday, Katharine Aldridge, Alan Dinehart and Sidney Blackmer.

Roosevelt, Kump and Galento Lose Election

Clarksburg, W. Va., Aug. 3 (AP)—President Roosevelt, former Gov. H. Guy Kump and Tony Galento, prize fighter, ran last in a mock election staged here by members of a good government group from Wheeling, W. Va., demonstrating to a local charter committee the Cincinnati plan of electing councilmen.

Ten names were submitted on the ballots, with the high seven to be named to council. The winning candidates in order were:

Gov. Homer A. Holt, F. Guy Ash, Clarksburg; Former Congressman Carl G. Bachmann, Wheeling; Eddie Cantor and Jack Benny, radio comedians; John L. Lewis, CIO chieftain and Lowell Thomas, news commentator.

The charter committee is considering proposals for a new form of government for Clarksburg. Voters, including members of the committee and interested citizens were asked to vote on the ten candidates in order of choice.

untington, W. Va., Aug. 3 (AP)— major construction projects, control walls and levees at tington and Kenova, which are handled by the United States neers of this area are nearing pletion, and Lieut.-Col. J. D. ur, Jr., district engineer, has unced that another will start e near future.

Col. Arthur said the engineers ex- to complete Section 2 of the tington flood wall about Sep- er 1 and hope to have the ova portion of the Kenova- do flood wall and levees fin- by November 1.

ontingent upon obtaining rights way, survey work and design may also be started soon on other projects. These are the osed $14,000,000 Bluestone dam he New river near Hinton, for ich rights of way are now pend- n court, and a dam on the Elk near Clendenin.

Is Ceredo Portion

The project scheduled to get er way soon is the Ceredo por- of flood control construction Kenova and Ceredo. Col. Ar- said contracts have been let it and that work "will start ly."

his district, with headquarters Huntington, serves this state and s of Ohio and Kentucky, and ent work in the area requires ersonnel of 1,500 workers in of- and field.

e office personnel is so large the city's federal building does have sufficient space for it, and al offices are maintained in Chesapeake and Ohio Railway ing.

s number of workers is so at this time, a representative ol. Arthur explained, because e construction work on Section the Huntington flood wall. He d that the number will be cut n, probably by about 600, when project is completed.

By Hired Labor

e flood wall is being built by hired directly by the en- ers and under their supervision her than by contract as most construction jobs are handled. ction 2 of the flood control ect will consist of a concrete 18,000 feet long, ranging in ht from twelve to twenty-four Completion is expected by ember 1, and by that time the ect will have cost approxi- ely $2,500,000.

Huntington's flood control con- ction program will be finally pleted by adding about 20,000 of levee to Section 2 in the st end of the city.

The engineers, Col. Arthur's re- said, have sufficient funds al- allocated to complete design and initiate construction of levee, and it is hoped to start work next spring, contingent the city providing rights of

Includes Long Wall

The Kenova project will include wall about 10,000 feet long with maximum height of twenty feet. hen the wall and the levees are pleted it will have cost about 50,000.

The Ceredo project will consist of combination wall and levee, the wall to be about 12,000 feet long. Although being constructed at different times and under different contractors, the Kenova - Ceredo walls and levees are in effect one project, since they will connect to form one wall for the protection of both towns.

In addition to the Ceredo work and the Huntington levees, other projects scheduled by the United States Engineers in this district during the current fiscal year include local flood protection projects at Massolin, O., and Newark, O., for which the design work has already been finished.

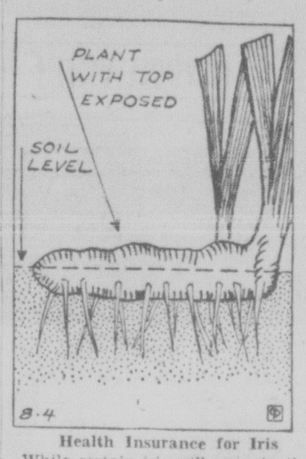
Reservoir and Dam

At least design work, and possible start of construction, is expected during the year for a flood control reservoir to be known as the Dillon dam at Dillon, O., and for Dewey dam near Prestonburg, Ky.

Besides such construction projects, the U. S. Engineers here are charged with the maintenance of navigation facilities from dams 14 to 28 on the Ohio river, a distance of 198 miles, and on the Muskingum, Kanawha and Little Kanawha rivers.

This work includes any necessary dredging, the operation of locks and dams, including the high life roller dams at Gallipolis, Winfield, Marmet and London, and routine repairs on the locks and dams.

Today's GARDEN-GRAPH



Health Insurance for Iris

While certain iris will grow in the shade most varieties should have all the sun possible if they are to remain healthy and bloom freely. Bearded iris must be planted where they will have good drainage, usually will prove healthy enough to resist the invasion of borers.

Bearded iris, as well as other varieties having fleshy rhizomes, should be planted with the top of the bulb exposed to the sun, as illustrated in the Garden-Graph. The roots of the rhizome should be firmly planted, however, to anchor the bulb until new root growth is made. The roots should be spread out and down as illustrated.

When planting iris the foliage should be cut back half of its original length in a V shape.

As flowering almond, lilac, Japanese cherries and garden roses are often grafted plants, they should be watched carefully to detect the presence of suckers growing from below the graft. Remove such growth promptly.

Roosevelt Hopes Civic Liberties Committee Can Continue Its Work

Washington, Aug. 3(AP)—President Roosevelt expressed the hope today that the Senate Civil Liberties Investigating committee would be given another $100,000 to complete its work.

Chairman Lafollette (Prog-Wis) requested $50,000 additional last session in the belief this would be adequate, the president said but new evidence has been uncovered which the committeemen believed indicated civil liberty violations and another $50,000 will be needed to finish the job.

For the sake of the civil liberties of the people, he said he hoped the $100,000 would be voted.

New York State Adopts Maternity Leave Plan

Albany, N. Y., Aug 2 (AP) — New York states tax department has adopted a new maternity leave policy to encourage the rearing of families.

Tax Commissioner Mark Graves said the plan allows women workers in the department thirty days sick leave in addition to their regular accumulated sick leave and earned vacation.

The policy requires the expectant mother, unless she resigns her job, to take a leave of absence of not less than seven months, of which at least 3½ months shall be without pay.

At least three of the seven months' leave must be taken prior to confinement.

Now is the time to sow seeds of many of the perennials and biennials such as Oriental poppy, foxglove, delphinium, Canterbury bell and columbine. The latter are rather slow to germinate, so do not give them up if they do not appear above ground as soon as some of the other kinds.

Danish street car conductors permit passengers to ride on credit. Most fares, the conductors say, are paid the following day.

KNITTED BLOUSE PATTERN 2265

The body of this blouse is a slight variation of stockinette stitch to permit interlacing threads to form vari-colored stripes. Pattern 2265 contains directions for blouse and plain skirt in sizes 12 to 14 and 16 to 18; ill. of it and of stitches; materials required.

Send ten cents in coin for this pattern to The Cumberland News, Needlecraft Dept., 82 Eighth Avenue, New York, N. Y. Write plainly pattern number, your name and address.

The small-flowered rambler roses should be pruned by removing the old canes which have bloomed but saving three or four new canes. The large flowering climbers should have the side shoots which have bloomed cut back and all dead or diseased canes cut out.

If you intend to harvest homegrown seeds, do not allow any seeds to develop on any inferior-flowering plants.

Jobless Compensation Claims Jump in W. Va.

Washington, Aug. 3 (AP) —West Virginia's unemployment compensation claims filed June showed a 29.4 per cent increase over the preceding month, while benefits paid jumped 141.5 per cent, the Social Security Board reported today.

The board said jobless benefits totaling $43,157,675, were paid throughout the nation during June, an eight per cent increase over May.

English Girl Says Miss America Had Better Watch Out

New York, Aug. 3(AP)—Miss America had better watch out.

For whereas America has established a consistent superiority over England in tennis, yachting and practically all competition except possibly cricket, Miss Edith Hammond arrived today with intent to conquer America in the fields of beauty, personality and figure.

She says so.

"I'd like to see how I would do against your American girls," said the apple cheeked Shropshire lass as she stepped off the Aquitania. "And not only for beauty, mind you. I was Miss London for beauty for several years and then I was Miss London again for a Venus figure. I have a Venus figure."

For various phases of pulchritude she has taken fifty-eight first prizes.

She is going to visit Mrs. Ross Bryan of Monroe, N. C., and a cousin, Wallace Hammond. "He lives in Lockwood in a place spelled O-h-i-o" she said. "Is there such a place"

She had a run in her right stocking.

Ilex verticillata, the common black alder, is an excellent shrub for dump or wet situations. In the fall it is covered with brilliant red berries which can be brought inside for winter decoration.

Teachers College Enrollment Jumps; Record Expected

Registration Far Ahead of Last Year; Improvements Being Made

Frostburg, Aug. 3—The enrollment for the freshmen class at State Teachers College for the fall term indicates that a larger number of high school graduates are being attracted to the teaching profession.

It was learned at the office of the college that sixty-six new students have enrolled to date, as compared to twenty-nine at the same time last year.

They come from the following communities: Frederick, 2; Clear Spring, 1; Barton, 3; Oakland, 3; Grantsville, 4; Middletown, 1; Cumberland, 17; Lonaconing, 5; Friendsville, 1; Mt. Savage, 2; Hagerstown, 4; Westernport, 3; Frostburg, 17; Accident, 1; Kitzmiller, 1, and Williamsport, 1.

Record Enrollment Seen

The fact that only six students of last year's classes have transferred their credits to other colleges discloses that all four classes at the opening of the school year will be the largest in the history of the institution.

A staff of workmen are busy at the college to place every department of the institution in tip top shape for the opening of school in September. The building revonations and improvements are as follows:

The second and third flood rooms of the dormitory have been repainted, and they are now being re-wired for student lamps which will be furnished by the college. The lounge furniture in the dormitory is being upholstered, and large mirrors are being placed in the service rooms. The furniture in the day room is being replaced with new, and the old furniture will be reconditioned for use in the men's room in the college elementary school.

Students To Help

A squad of students through the cooperation of the NYA will be recalled during August for service at the college to place the entire plant in excellent condition for the opening in September.

A recording machine for use in the speech classes, music and English work will be ready for use in September. Extra chairs and tables have been ordered to save the moving of furniture for large classes; and an additional chemistry table, records for both music and English work and orchestral instruments have been purchased. President John J. Dunkle stated that department requests for these improvements have been met in full in most cases.

Plan Improvements

Mountain City Council, Junior Order of United American Mechanics, whose membership has increased over one hundred since last April, is planning to improve its property at Junior Order Park, managed by the Uniform Rank of the order.

The tentative plan is to transform the park pavilion into a winter amusement center by having two hot air furnaces installed and building refreshment stands underneath the main floor now used for roller skating.

A new floor was laid several months ago at a cost of over $500 for roller skating purposes, and the patronage has been so large that the park is now open Sunday afternoons for the use of special parties. The committee in charge of the pavilion will line the walls with imitation beaver board. When this interior work is completed, the main floor interior will be re-painted and made available for use in winter as well as summer.

Considerable work is also to be done on the grounds surrounding the pavilion. All small buildings used for the sale of refreshments will be torn down, and the surface earth washed in front of the pavilion by heavy rains will be removed and a drainage system installed to protect the park and pavilion from future damage by water.

Musical Pfeiffers Visit

Mr. and Mrs. William Pfeiffer, Annapolis, with their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Pfeiffer II, and Frederick Pfeiffer, all of Washington, came here Tuesday to visit Dr. and Mrs. J. C. Pfeiffer, West Loo street.

William Pfeiffer is a retired member of the Naval Academy Band, and Frederick Pfeiffer is a retired member of the U. S. Marine Band. Frederick Pfeiffer II, a graduate of Peabody Institute, Baltimore, is a solo violinist with the U. S. Marine Band, having joined the organization eight years ago.

The elder Pfeiffers started their musical careers with the Arion Band here and they were interested spectators last evening as the band paraded over the streets in their new uniforms and later gave a concert in front of the Gunter hotel.

Frostburg Briefs

On August 5, depositors of the Farmers and Merchants Bank of Hamlin will split $5,341.26, bringing to sixty per cent the total paid since the institution suspended in December, 1932.

A total of $5,642.60 will be distributed to depositors in the Bank of Fayette, Fayetteville, making thirty per cent the amount repaid since closure in March, 1931.

$10,000 Damages Asked by Mother Of Crash Victim

Mrs. Rita Trenter Simultaneously Files Divorce Suit at Keyser

Keyser, W. Va., Aug. 3 — Mrs. Rita M. Trenter, Keyser, mother of Charles "Lindy" Trenter who died from injuries received when struck by a car driven by Charles W. Weese, Keyser, several weeks ago at the south end of Water street, today filed suit for $10,000 damages in the offices of Circuit Court Clerk Paul W. Drayton Weese and his father, C. E. Weese, owner of the automobile, are named defendants. Attorneys R. A. Welch and H. R. Athey have been retained to represent Mrs. Trenter in court.

The complaint brought by Mrs. Trenter charges negligence on the part of Charles Weese and his father, although the older Weese was not in the auto at the time of the accident.

Mrs. Trenter, who is estranged from the dead boy's father, Clarence F. Trenter, her husband filed suit for divorce at the same time.

Mineral County Health Commissioner J. H. Wilverton, Piedmont, today laid the blame for Keyser's one typhoid death and three cases of the fever to contaminated wells in the Potomac Heights section, at the south end of town, where the sufferers so far have been confined.

One Potomac Heights resident died of typhoid fever a few weeks ago, and two more citizens of the section are known to be suffering from the disease. A third is suspected to be a victim, Wolverton said.

The county health officer said the infection "doubtless" originated in outside wells, contaminated by overflowing outdoor toilets. Wolverton stated he had issued orders for the closing of all wells and the removal of the outside toilets. Water from other sources will be provided to the residents of Potomac Heights, Keyser's "shantytown."

Judge Allows Claims in Hamilton Gas Company Receivership Case

Charleston, W. Va., Aug. 3 (AP) — Claims totaling $145,750 and expenses of $47,695 were allowed to lawyears today by Federal Judge George W. McClintic in a 95-page opinion dealing with phases of the seven-year-old Hamilton Gas comnay litigation.

The claims represented fees incurred during the suits of various stockholders committees, receivers and other interested parties.

The company, with extensive holdings in Kentucky and West Virginia, was placed under a Federal receivership in January, 1932. At that time, it listed $2,325,500 in first mortgage 6½ per cent sinking fund gold notes, $756,000 of debentures bonds and current obligations of more than $300,000. Although solvent, it was unable to pay its debts.

Attorneys said the total amount of claims and expenses mentioned in McClintic's opinion represented the amount left in the hands of the receivers following settlement of claims of all creditors. Attorneys added informally that the sum covered only a part of the claims filed, which totaled more than $642,000.

McClintic gave his reasons for allowing and disallowing claims in the opinion, which was lodged but not filed in the clerk's office.

Some of the larger claims allowed included $16,000 compensation and $29,283.72 expenses for the Harper committee; $22,000 to White and Clapp; $32,500 compensation and $2,130.10 for Steptoe and Johnson, Clarksburg law firm, as counsel for the Harper committee; $17,500 for Hines, Rearick, Dorr and Hammond; $15,000 compensation for Hepburn and Norris; S. C. Morris and W. N. Miller, $5,000 as special counsel.

New Old-Age Pension Plans Emerge From Ashes of Two Defunct Groups

West Virginia Issues First Winery Charter Since Dry Law Repeal

Charleston, W. Va., Aug. 3 (AP) —The first winery charter issued in West Virginia since repeal was granted today by the Secretary of State to Wine Packers, Inc., of Chester, Hancock county.

Before the concern can do business, the State Liquor Commission must issue a license. The company, incorporated by mid-western interests, has not applied for the permit yet.

Robert K. McGreevy of Cleveland, one of the incorporators, indicated this would be done soon, adding, "I hope to start by October 1."

McGreevy said he and several associates had leased a two-story building at Chester which would be used as a bonded storeroom. The farm will use a California wine, he said, exclusively in its bottling operations.

West Virginia Organization Calls for Monthly Pension of $60

Charleston, W. Va., Aug. 3 (AP) — From the ashes of two West Virginia old-age pension groups came a third today, this time backing a plan for payments of $60 monthly to everyone 60-years-old or more.

Six Statehouse employes were among nine incorporators of the "United Pension Union of West Virginia, Inc.," chartered by the Secretary of State as non- profit and in the words of a backer, "non-political."

Membership, the charter said, will be open to any person with this stipulation:

"Pledged as an individual to support in every honorable way that party or those candidates for public office who it is believed will labor in behalf of the objective of our organzation."

Such objectives are:

"To secure just and fair legislation both in the state and in the nation, respecting all those entitled to a reasonable pension under reasonable and equitable pension laws a minimum of which should be $60 per month payable to all persons 60 years of age or over."

J. A. Lowe, a Statehouse guide and an incorporator, said the new organization is not affiliated with any national movement but has its roots in two extinct organizations.

Lowe said the first one was the Peoples Pension and Unemployment Association which eventually gave way to the Citizens Amalgamated Pensions and Home Owners Association, Inc.

Like the new group, the old ones had headquarters at Charleston, said Lowe.

As for the Citizens Amalgamated, "we just let it die out," he explained.

With Lowe in the group of incorporators were listed Alex Poole, J. F. Booth, E. W. Harper, J. F. Grimsley, C. R. Dew, J. F. Woolwine, Elmer A. Jones and H. B. Eccles.

Dues: $1 a month maximum.

Rain, Hail Greet Opening of Coney Band Celebration

Crowd Small on Account of Weather; Big Parade Planned Tonight

Lonaconing, Aug. 3. — Rain and hail today put a damper on the opening of the Lonaconing City band's eighty-second anniversary celebration which will continue through Saturday.

Although today was not the banner day, the large crowd which was expected to be on hand for the affair was diminished on account of the weather. Following a small parade, the band gave a short concert on the main street, after which game activities started, although hampered by the weather.

Tomorrow (Friday) night, more than twenty organizations will be on hand to parade over the principal streets of this city. Among the paraders will be Barton Troop No. 25, Boy Scouts, and the Barton Girl Scouts, with at least seventy-five in line. It is understood that with the paraders from Barton, more than 100 persons of that city will be entered in the parade. The scouts of Barton will make their first appearance in uniform.

John McPartland and John Watkinson have been selected to judge the parade and name the receivers of the three trophies for the best band in line; the fire company making the best appearance, and the fire company coming the longest distance with twenty or more men in line.

The trophies have been on display in th ewindow of the M. Eichhorn store on Main street for the past two weeks, along with photographs of the band and the Goodwill Fire Company.

Teachers College Enrollment Jumps; Record Expected

Registration Far Ahead of Last Year; Improvements Being Made

Frostburg, Aug. 3—The enrollment for the freshmen class at State Teachers College for the fall term indicates that a larger number of high school graduates are being attracted to the teaching profession.

It was learned at the office of the college that sixty-six new students have enrolled to date, as compared to twenty-nine at the same time last year.

They come from the following communities: Frederick, 2; Clear Spring, 1; Barton, 3; Oakland, 3; Grantsville, 4; Middletown, 1; Cumberland, 17; Lonaconing, 5; Friendsville, 1; Mt. Savage, 2; Hagerstown, 4; Westernport, 3; Frostburg, 17; Accident, 1; Kitzmiller, 1, and Williamsport, 1.

Record Enrollment Seen

The fact that only six students of last year's classes have transferred their credits to other colleges discloses that all four classes at the opening of the school year will be the largest in the history of the institution.

A staff of workmen are busy at the college to place every department of the institution in tip top shape for the opening of school in September. The building revonations and improvements are as follows:

The second and third flood rooms of the dormitory have been repainted, and they are now being re-wired for student lamps which will be furnished by the college. The lounge furniture in the dormitory is being upholstered, and large mirrors are being placed in the service rooms. The furniture in the day room is being replaced with new, and the old furniture will be reconditioned for use in the men's room in the college elementary school.

Students To Help

A squad of students through the cooperation of the NYA will be recalled during August for service at the college to place the entire plant in excellent condition for the opening in September.

A recording machine for use in the speech classes, music and English work will be ready for use in September. Extra chairs and tables have been ordered to save the moving of furniture for large classes; and an additional chemistry table, records for both music and English work and orchestral instruments have been purchased. President John J. Dunkle stated that department requests for these improvements have been met in full in most cases.

Plan Improvements

Mountain City Council, Junior Order of United American Mechanics, whose membership has increased over one hundred since last April, is planning to improve its property at Junior Order Park, managed by the Uniform Rank of the order.

The tentative plan is to transform the park pavilion into a winter amusement center by having two hot air furnaces installed and building refreshment stands underneath the main floor now used for roller skating.

A new floor was laid several months ago at a cost of over $500 for roller skating purposes, and the patronage has been so large that the park is now open Sunday afternoons for the use of special parties. The committee in charge of the pavilion will line the walls with imitation beaver board. When this interior work is completed, the main floor interior will be re-painted and made available for use in winter as well as summer.

Considerable work is also to be done on the grounds surrounding the pavilion. All small buildings used for the sale of refreshments will be torn down, and the surface earth washed in front of the pavilion by heavy rains will be removed and a drainage system installed to protect the park and pavilion from future damage by water.

Musical Pfeiffers Visit

Mr. and Mrs. William Pfeiffer, Annapolis, with their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Pfeiffer II, and Frederick Pfeiffer, all of Washington, came here Tuesday to visit Dr. and Mrs. J. C. Pfeiffer, West Loo street.

William Pfeiffer is a retired member of the Naval Academy Band, and Frederick Pfeiffer is a retired member of the U. S. Marine Band. Frederick Pfeiffer II, a graduate of Peabody Institute, Baltimore, is a solo violinist with the U. S. Marine Band, having joined the organization eight years ago.

The elder Pfeiffers started their musical careers with the Arion Band here and they were interested spectators last evening as the band paraded over the streets in their new uniforms and later gave a concert in front of the Gunter hotel.

Frostburg Briefs

The Rev. C. B. Jones, pastor of First English Baptist church, will be the guest speaker Monday evening at the weekly luncheon of the Frostburg Rotary club, at Layman's farm, Garrett county.

Mrs. Clarence Rephann, 115 West Main street, entertained Monday evening with a kitchen shower in honor of Mrs. William F. Clement, the former Miss Edna Eisel, who was recently married. Closed Banks To Pay 5 Per Cent Dividends

Charleston, W. Va., Aug. 3 (AP) — Five per cent dividends for depositors in two closed state banks were authorized today by Banking Commissioner George Ward.

On August 5, depositors of the Farmers and Merchants Bank of Hamlin will split $5,341.26, bringing to sixty per cent the total paid since the institution suspended in December, 1932.

A total of $5,642.60 will be distributed to depositors in the Bank of Fayette, Fayetteville, making thirty per cent the amount repaid since closure in March, 1931.

$10,000 Damages Asked by Mother Of Crash Victim

Mrs. Rita Trenter Simultaneously Files Divorce Suit at Keyser

Keyser, W. Va., Aug. 3 — Mrs. Rita M. Trenter, Keyser, mother of Charles "Lindy" Trenter who died from injuries received when struck by a car driven by Charles W. Weese, Keyser, several weeks ago at the south end of Water street, today filed suit for $10,000 damages in the offices of Circuit Court Clerk Paul W. Drayton Weese and his father, C. E. Weese, owner of the automobile, are named defendants. Attorneys R. A. Welch and H. R. Athey have been retained to represent Mrs. Trenter in court.

The complaint brought by Mrs. Trenter charges negligence on the part of Charles Weese and his father, although the older Weese was not in the auto at the time of the accident.

Mrs. Trenter, who is estranged from the dead boy's father, Clarence F. Trenter, her husband filed suit for divorce at the same time.

Mineral County Health Commissioner J. H. Wilverton, Piedmont, today laid the blame for Keyser's one typhoid death and three cases of the fever to contaminated wells in the Potomac Heights section, at the south end of town, where the sufferers so far have been confined.

One Potomac Heights resident died of typhoid fever a few weeks ago, and two more citizens of the section are known to be suffering from the disease. A third is suspected to be a victim, Wolverton said.

The county health officer said the infection "doubtless" originated in outside wells, contaminated by overflowing outdoor toilets. Wolverton stated he had issued orders for the closing of all wells and the removal of the outside toilets. Water from other sources will be provided to the residents of Potomac Heights, Keyser's "shantytown."

Judge Allows Claims in Hamilton Gas Company Receivership Case

Charleston, W. Va., Aug. 3 (AP) — Claims totaling $145,750 and expenses of $47,695 were allowed to lawyears today by Federal Judge George W. McClintic in a 95-page opinion dealing with phases of the seven-year-old Hamilton Gas comnay litigation.

The claims represented fees incurred during the suits of various stockholders committees, receivers and other interested parties.

The company, with extensive holdings in Kentucky and West Virginia, was placed under a Federal receivership in January, 1932. At that time, it listed $2,325,500 in first mortgage 6½ per cent sinking fund gold notes, $756,000 of debentures bonds and current obligations of more than $300,000. Although solvent, it was unable to pay its debts.

Attorneys said the total amount of claims and expenses mentioned in McClintic's opinion represented the amount left in the hands of the receivers following settlement of claims of all creditors. Attorneys added informally that the sum covered only a part of the claims filed, which totaled more than $642,000.

McClintic gave his reasons for allowing and disallowing claims in the opinion, which was lodged but not filed in the clerk's office.

Some of the larger claims allowed included $16,000 compensation and $29,283.72 expenses for the Harper committee; $22,000 to White and Clapp; $32,500 compensation and $2,130.10 for Steptoe and Johnson, Clarksburg law firm, as counsel for the Harper committee; $17,500 for Hines, Rearick, Dorr and Hammond; $15,000 compensation for Hepburn and Norris; S. C. Morris and W. N. Miller, $5,000 as special counsel.

New Old-Age Pension Plans Emerge From Ashes of Two Defunct Groups

West Virginia Issues First Winery Charter Since Dry Law Repeal

Charleston, W. Va., Aug. 3 (AP) —The first winery charter issued in West Virginia since repeal was granted today by the Secretary of State to Wine Packers, Inc., of Chester, Hancock county.

Before the concern can do business, the State Liquor Commission must issue a license. The company, incorporated by mid-western interests, has not applied for the permit yet.

Robert K. McGreevy of Cleveland, one of the incorporators, indicated this would be done soon, adding, "I hope to start by October 1."

McGreevy said he and several associates had leased a two-story building at Chester which would be used as a bonded storeroom. The farm will use a California wine, he said, exclusively in its bottling operations.

West Virginia Organization Calls for Monthly Pension of $60

Charleston, W. Va., Aug. 3 (AP) — From the ashes of two West Virginia old-age pension groups came a third today, this time backing a plan for payments of $60 monthly to everyone 60-years-old or more.

Six Statehouse employes were among nine incorporators of the "United Pension Union of West Virginia, Inc.," chartered by the Secretary of State as non-profit and in the words of a backer, "non-political."

Membership, the charter said, will be open to any person with this stipulation:

"Pledged as an individual to support in every honorable way that party or those candidates for public office who it is believed will labor in behalf of the objective of our organzation."

Such objectives are:

"To secure just and fair legislation both in the state and in the nation, respecting all those entitled to a reasonable pension under reasonable and equitable pension laws a minimum of which should be $60 per month payable to all persons 60 years of age or over."

J. A. Lowe, a Statehouse guide and an incorporator, said the new organization is not affiliated with any national movement but has its roots in two extinct organizations.

Lowe said the first one was the Peoples Pension and Unemployment Association which eventually gave way to the Citizens Amalgamated Pensions and Home Owners Association, Inc.

Like the new group, the old ones had headquarters at Charleston, said Lowe.

As for the Citizens Amalgamated, "we just let it die out," he explained.

With Lowe in the group of incorporators were listed Alex Poole, J. F. Booth, E. W. Harper, J. F. Grimsley, C. R. Dew, J. F. Woolwine, Elmer A. Jones and H. B. Eccles.

Dues: $1 a month maximum.

Crowd Small on Account of Weather; Big Parade Planned Tonight

Lonaconing, Aug. 3. — Rain and hail today put a damper on the opening of the Lonaconing City band's eighty-second anniversary celebration which will continue through Saturday.

Although today was not the banner day, the large crowd which was expected to be on hand for the affair was diminished on account of the weather. Following a small parade, the band gave a short concert on the main street, after which game activities started, although hampered by the weather.

Tomorrow (Friday) night, more than twenty organizations will be on hand to parade over the principal streets of this city. Among the paraders will be Barton Troop No. 25, Boy Scouts, and the Barton Girl Scouts, with at least seventy-five in line. It is understood that with the paraders from Barton, more than 100 persons of that city will be entered in the parade. The scouts of Barton will make their first appearance in uniform.

John McPartland and John Watkinson have been selected to judge the parade and name the receivers of the three trophies for the best band in line; the fire company making the best appearance, and the fire company coming the longest distance with twenty or more men in line.

The trophies have been on display in th ewindow of the M. Eichhorn store on Main street for the past two weeks, along with photographs of the band and the Goodwill Fire Company.

Moundsville Man Is First Aspirant for Republican Governorship Nomination

Charleston, W. Va., Aug. 3 (AP) — State Senator D. B. Ealy of Moundsville, today became the first aspirant for the 1940 Republican gubernatorial nomination.

The Moundsville physician, who sent his $100 check to the Secretary of State along with his formal application for a place on his party's ticket in the May 14, 1940 primaries, said he intended to "carry on the widest campaign possible."

The $100 was required under the state law which calls for a fee from those who file for any office.

Dr. Ealy is serving his first term in the State Senate, representing the Second District—Marshall, Tyler and Wetzel counties.

A World War veteran, he was Marshall county coroner for 12 years and a former Moundsville health commissioner.

now people are being shot down and not for revolutionary activities but for picketing and for legitimate union aims. That's what I'm concerned about, not what's going to happen 30 or 40 years from now."

Bridges summarized his statements by saying:

"When the workers come to me for answers to their problems I don't tell the workers to wait 30 years and we'll have a revolution. I've got to figure a way for them to get a couple of nickels more a day right now."

Bridges charged Frank F. Merriam, former California governor, "got $30,000" for calling out the national guard in the 1934 general strike here.

Shoemaker asked him to elaborate.

"Thirty thousand dollars was paid into his (Merriam's) campaign fund by the ship owners," Bridges replied.

Militia was called to patrol the waterfront here in July, 1934, after two days of rioting in which two men were killed and scores injured.

"Do you think there would be any benefit in scrapping our form of government?" Shoemaker asked.

"I do not at all," Bridges replied.

"Do you think the form of government existing in the Soviet Union would be any improvement?"

"x x x I don't think the American form of government can be bettered anywhere else in the world."

Examiner James Landis, presidfng, asked Bridges his views on Fascism and Bridges replied he objected to "dictatorship of any sort" including a dictatorship of the proletariat. In response to a direct question he said:

"If it came to a decision I think a majority of the American people would vote in favor of Russia over Germany."

SALLY'S SALLIES

Man never admits incompetence. When he succeeds—that is cleverness. When he fails—that is bad luck.

Prominent Logan Matron Critically Wounded; 'No Need' for Probe

Logan, W. Va., Aug. 3 (AP)—Mrs. H. A. Callagham, 50, prominent Logan matron, was found unconscious today, a bullet wound in her head.

Prosecutor Claude A. Joyce said his office saw "no need of an investigation."

Relatives who found Mrs. Callaghan in her bedroom said a pistol was nearby, with five discharged shells. She has been in ill health for two years, they said, and was despondent.

Mrs. Callagham's condition is critical.

She is the wife of the secretary of the Aracoma Drug Company, a daughter of U. S. Commissioner T. C. Whited and a sister-in-law of Mayor W. B. Johnson.

Moody Brothers Aloft 266 Hours

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 3 (AP) — Hunter and Humphrey Moody started their twelfth day aloft in a light monoplane over the Springfield airport and showed no inclination tonight to stop their endurance test.

At 5 p. m. (C. S. T.) they had been flying 266 hours, two days past the previous light plane record of 218 hours and were more than a third of the way to the heavy endurance plane mark of 653 hours held by two other brothers, Al and Fred Keyes, Meridan, Miss.

From Dalton City, Ill., the brothers' birthplace, came an automobile caravan carrying most of the 450 residents of the village to cheer the young fliers on.

Fire Chief Tagged, Parks at Hydrant

New Haven, Conn., Aug. 3.(AP) —Patrolman Joseph Dolinski saw his duty and he did it.

The officer tagged the official automobile used by Fire Chief Lawrence E. Reif for—of all things—being parked in front of a fire hydrant.

Moundsville Man Is First Aspirant for Republican Governorship Nomination

Charleston, W. Va., Aug. 3 (AP) — State Senator D. B. Ealy of Moundsville, today became the first aspirant for the 1940 Republican gubernatorial nomination.

The Moundsville physician, who sent his $100 check to the Secretary of State along with his formal application for a place on his party's ticket in the May 14, 1940 primaries, said he intended to "carry on the widest campaign possible."

The $100 was required under the state law which calls for a fee from those who file for any office.

Dr. Ealy is serving his first term in the State Senate, representing the Second District—Marshall, Tyler and Wetzel counties.

A World War veteran, he was Marshall county coroner for 12 years and a former Moundsville health commissioner.

Bridges Declares Class Struggle is Under Way In U. S.

Bridges declared the small farmer had been virtually eliminated and 90 per cent of the farms in California are owned by large banker-farmer corporations.

Bridges summarized his statements by saying:

"When the workers come to me for answers to their problems I don't tell the workers to wait 30 years and we'll have a revolution. I've got to figure a way for them to get a couple of nickels more a day right now."

Bridges charged Frank F. Merriam, former California governor, "got $30,000" for calling out the national guard in the 1934 general strike here.

Shoemaker asked him to elaborate.

"Thirty thousand dollars was paid into his (Merriam's) campaign fund by the ship owners," Bridges replied.

Militia was called to patrol the waterfront here in July, 1934, after two days of rioting in which two men were killed and scores injured.

"Do you think there would be any benefit in scrapping our form of government?" Shoemaker asked.

"I do not at all," Bridges replied. "Do you think the form of government existing in the Soviet Union would be any improvement?"

"x x x I don't think the American form of government can be bettered anywhere else in the world."

Examiner James Landis, presidfng, asked Bridges his views on Fascism and Bridges replied he objected to "dictatorship of any sort" including a dictatorship of the proletariat. In response to a direct question he said:

"If it came to a decision I think a majority of the American people would vote in favor of Russia over Germany."

Associates Honor William Milne At Dinner Party

Celanese Official Resigns; Lauded By C. D. Walton

William Milne, Celanese official, was the guest of honor last night at a testimonial dinner tendered him at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club by his associates at the plant.

Mr. Milne, who has resigned the post he has held here for nearly a decade, was presented a handsome five-piece sterling silver service and a rod and reel. The presentation was made on behalf of the group by Charles D. Walton, plant manager, who paid high tribute to Mr. Milne.

Fred Small was toastmaster at the affair, which was featured by an address by William C. Duncan, Philadelphia Ledger columnist. Mr. Duncan reiterated his previously-stated belief that Roosevelt will be a candidate for the presidency in 1940.

The columnist predicted that Paul V. McNutt, federal security administrator, will be Roosevelt's running mate. He added that should the president decide not to run for a third term he will probably back McNutt for the presidency.

Also on the program were selections by Clem Lucas and Ben McCracken, accompanied by Joe Williams.

Arrangements for the dinner, attended by nearly sixty of Mr. Milne's associates, were made by Herbert Platt.

TRAP SHOOTERS—The sound of gunfire attracted the photographer over the hill from the Shrine country club yesterday, and he found members of the newly consolidated Cumberland Gun Club and the Ali Ghan Gun Club lined up for their weekly practice shoot. Historic Rites To Be Followed

Catholics To Mark Portiuncula Feast

The great feast, better known as the feast of Portiuncula of Assisi, will be celebrated with the usual solemnity Sunday at the Church of SS. Peter and Paul.

The origin of the Portiuncula Feast dates back to the days of St. Francis of Assisi, and has its name from the chapel Mary, Queen of the Angels, located in the Umbrian valley, near the city of Assisi, the home of St. Francis.

It was in this chapel of Portiuncula, the cradle of the great Franciscan Order where the Blessed Lord encouraged St. Francis to ask of His Vicar, Pope Honorius, the special privilege of Plenary Indulgence for all those who would visit the chapel "Mary Queen of the Angels."

The unusual request was granted, and, in the course of centuries, extended to all the churches of the members of the Three Orders of St. Francis.

Over the original chapel of Portiuncula, meaning "the small portion", a magnificent basilica was erected, and under the dome of the grand Franciscan Church the original small chapel of Portiuncula is preserved in its pristine poverty and shape of the days of Poverello.

Beginning with noon on Saturday until Sunday evening, every person who visits the church of SS. Peter and Paul, receives the holy Sacraments of Confession and Communion and prays for the special intentions of the Holy Father, one of which is "Peace among the nations of the world," can gain a plenary indulgence.

Confessions will be heard Saturday, morning, afternoon, and evening.

Solemn High Mass will be celebrated Sunday morning at 8:10.

Students Offered Prizes For Dog Show Essays

Three prizes will be awarded to the grade school students writing the best essays on "My Impressions of the 1939 Dog Show", J. Wesley Kelley announced last night.

The prizes are offered by the Western Maryland Outdoor Life Federation. The contest will be under the supervision of Mrs. W. Ralph Bretz, playground supervisor.

Boys and girls attending the playgrounds have made a half dozen posters under Mrs. Bretz' supervision to be used in advertising the Western Maryland Kennel Club's show at Fairgo Sunday.

Cumberland Couple Wed in 1879 Celebrate Diamond Anniversary

Sixty years of wedded life were celebrated Sunday by Mr. and Mrs. Emanuel Miller, who live six miles east of Cumberland on Route 40.

They were married July 31, 1879, in Bedford county, Pennsylvania. And that was a long time ago.

It was just one year after Edison invented the incandescent lamp, five years before the first trolley car, four years after Bell invented the telephone, thirteen years before the first gasoline automobile went sputtering down the streets of an American city.

Mr. Miller is 82, and his bride of sixty years ago is 77. Both are in fairly good health. They moved to their present home in December, 1908.

They have five children living. They are John, Roy and George Miller, and Mrs. Nellie Smith, all of whom live near their parents on Route 40, and Mrs. Hazel Oester, of Grantsville. They are proud of their thirteen grandchildren and nine great-grandchildren.

Most of their large family were present for the celebration of their anniversary Sunday.

(According to the World Almanac, the sixtieth anniversary, as well as the seventy-fifth, is a diamond anniversary).

Precautions in Handling Communicable Diseases — Instructions for Attendant

By "attendant" in these instructions we mean the person in the home who is caring for the patient with a contagious disease, such as diphtheria or scarlet fever.

Safeguard yourself from contracting the disease or carrying it to others by protecting your own health.

Eat well-balanced meals regularly, and have a daily bowel movement.

Use care in handling articles recently used by the patient.

Care Of Patient

Precaution For The Sickroom

Wear a cover-all apron when in the sickroom. This apron should have short sleeves and open in the back. Always remove the apron before leaving the sickroom; hang it inside the patient's room, folding inside under. Wash your hands and arms to the elbow before and after removing the apron.

Caring For The Patient

Collect everything you will need to use before you go into the patient's room.

Take these into the patient's room and put on the apron at once.

Arrange articles as bedside and then give care.

After finishing the care, before removing apron and before leaving room:

Get dishes ready to be boiled.

Get waste food and soiled paper handkerchiefs, etc., wrapped ready to destroy.

Get liquid waste water ready to be disposed of.

Wash your hands, remove the apron, wash your hands again.

Remove dishes, soiled linen, and waste materials: disinfect or destroy. When taking these articles from the room be careful not to let them touch your clothing.

Wash your hands again after doing this.

Ask your doctor for definite instructions on how to care for waste food, bath waters, excretions, care of soiled linens, and disinfection after illness is over.

Deaths

Mrs. Charles H. Manges

The body of Mrs. Elizabeth Rebecca Manges, wife of Charles H. Manges, who died Tuesday night at her home, 18 Fifth street, will be taken to Wellersburg, Pa., this afternoon for burial.

Mrs. Manges was a native of Wellersburg. She was 73.

Weather Gets Hotter Day by Day

August heat which has been on the increase for three days was quenched late last night, at least temporarily, by a gentle rain.

The three-day heat wave started with a 92 maximum on Tuesday, 93 on Wednesday, and 94 plus yesterday, according to the government thermometer on City Hall.

Chief Treiber's Cap Swiped from Station By Visiting Drunk

Funniest story of the week involves a prominent young man from Oakland, who walked into police headquarters the other night, spied Assistant Chief Trieber's cap on the judge's bench, clapped it on his head when no one was looking, walked out, and ambled over to Ridgeley for a big time.

It so happened the cap was Assistant Chief Treiber's brand new one, which he had never worn himself. The assistant chief was out when the cap disappeared, being content to wear his old one.

Some hours later, Officer Thomas Griffin spied the cap and playboy on Liberty street and took both back to headquarters.

Assistant Chief Treiber pounced on the cap, the Garrett county visitor was charged with drunk and disorderly conduct. A local business man was called out of bed to put up $10 bail.

After he had done so for his friend, the playboy said, "Ho hum, I have to sleep somewhere, you might as well put me back in jail."

This was a bit unorthodox, police admitted. They told the man to go on away. He insisted on staying. After much argument, weary policemen put him back in a cell. The judge took the $10 bond for a fine the next morning.

Cops Catch Lone Motorist As Speeding Drive Lags

The motor vehicle docket at police headquarters yesterday showed signs of a let-up on careless drivers—only one motorist was apprehended. Or else it showed a scarcity of carelessness.

Herbert E. Comer, of Ridgeley, W. Va., was arrested last night on Greene street by Officers G. W. Deffenbaugh and J. D. Whalley for speeding. He is scheduled to be given a hearing this morning in Police court.

Celanese Strike Rumors Last Night Unfounded

Rumors of a strike at Celanese were current last night, but were without foundation.

The night shift went to work at 11 p. m. without incident.

Unionists staged demonstrations in several parts of the plant yesterday afternoon, but nothing out of the ordinary developed.

Tuesday night the union ordered its committee to resume contract negotiations with the management, and at the same time put power to call a strike in the committee's hands.

COLLEGIAN—Miss Ruth Hammer

Miss Ruth Hammer, 715 Maryland avenue, student at Frostburg State Teachers college, has been active in collegiate musical circles. She was accompanist for the Maryland Singers during the past year, including their spring high school tour, and also for the college orchestra. She is a piano student of Mrs. Maurice Matteson and will be a junior at the college during the coming year. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis F. Hammer.

Gephart Tournament Winners Named

Careless Driver Fined

James Cole, 120 North Mechanic street, was fined $10 yesterday morning in Police court on a charge of careless driving. He was arrested on the Wineow street beat by Officers B. F. Hitchkill and J. F. Davis.

Bride's Last Say Costs Her $10

The West Side bride whose two little words to a couple of cops landed her in jail Tuesday afternoon had nothing to say to the judge yesterday.

In fact, those two little words appeared all she had to say to anybody, for she did not even appear in court, forfeiting the $10 bail her husband had to put up for her.

The bride uttered her classic quotations when the officers, cruising by, cautioned her not to stand with one foot in the street and one on the curb.

Montgomery Ward Buys More Land

Company Has Property Totaling $136,500

Montgomery-Ward and Company, Inc., has purchased a third piece of property on South George street, a deed filed at the courthouse revealed yesterday.

The mail-order company, which is scheduled to build a store here, purchased the property on the northeast corner of George and Harrison streets from the Cumberland Improvement Company.

Revenue stamps on the document indicated that the purchase price was $9,500. The transaction brings to $136,500 the amount spent by the company for property here.

Earlier in the week a deed was filed for a lot on the east side of George street, adjoining the alley between Baltimore and Union streets. It was purchased from Mrs. Clara L. Bowen, Mrs. Mary C. Bowen Greenfield, Mrs. Susan J. Bowen Lacy, William Lacey, and William Bowen for $22,000.

The company purchased more than a month ago the Smith property at the corner of Baltimore and George streets for $105,000.

Trio Gets Seven More Years in Jail As Price of 36 Hours of Freedom

Elkins, W. Va., Aug. 3. (AP)—Thirty-six hours of freedom brought seven more years in jail apiece today to three federal prisoners.

The trio broke out of the Randolph county jail Friday night, shooting a man in their flight. Recaptured Sunday, indicted for jail break by a special grand jury on Wednesday, they were brought before Federal Judge William E. Baker today.

Five years for escape and two years for conspiring to escape were the sentences given each of the men in addition to ten-year terms imposed for the federal violations under which they were held at the time of the flight.

The prisoners are Louis Andrew Pifer, 30, of Cumberland, Md., and Fred Iser, 25, of Ridgeley, who were convicted of the interstate transportation of a stolen car; and John L. Holmes, alias Randolph Douglas Deschauer, 49--year-old former Clarksburg jeweler, charged with violating the federal stolen goods act.

All pleaded guilty to the escape charges.

The group overpowered Jailer B. Y. White when he entered a cell block to distribute mail. White was bound and gagged.

He resigned two days ago and Sheriff Dale W. Crawford took over active supervision of the jail.

SECOND HONEYMOON—With only $50 and two weeks vacation, Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Parker, of Waukegan, Ill., decided to come to Washington to see the sights. Here they are waiting for a ride on U. S. 40. Story below.—News Staff Photo.

Hitch-Hiking Couple on $50 Tour See Mountains for First Time

The August sun beat down fiercely yesterday afternoon on a couple of hitch-hikers stranded along Route 40 a mile east of town.

But hot as it was, they seemed to be taking it all in their stride. And their stride is taking them from Waukegan, Ill., to the nation's capital—and, they hope, back again.

They introduced themselves as Vernon and Audrey Parker, who were married a year ago and are now on what they call their second honeymoon.

"I'm 21 and my wife's 18," said the tall, good looking young captain of the crew.

Works in Laboratory

"I work in the Abbott laboratories back in Waukegan," he continued. "Ever hear of Waukegan? Jack Benny's from there, only his name was Kobolsky back home. Why we go past the tailor shop where he was born every day.

"We've never been hitch-hiking before. But I got a two-weeks vacation and we saved up $50."

"To be exact, it was $50 and one cent," said dark-eyed Mrs. Parker as she shifted the heavy pack on her back.

"And we wanted to see the sights in Washington," went on Mr. Miller. "So we came this way. We're having lots of fun, though we've been stranded here for an hour. And we walked all the way from Lover's Leap.

Longest Wait was Here

"This is the longest we've been stranded yet. We started out Tuesday, and came to Van Wert, Ohio, the first day in fourteen rides. Wednesday night we got to Washington, Pa. in six rides. We've had six rides already today.

"We've met some very interesting people this way. Mostly salesmen pick us up. They say they are lonely and glad to have some one to talk to.

"When we came by Braddock's grave and Fort Necessity, the man we were with said he wasn't in a hurry, so he stopped while we visited the fort and took some pictures. We spend the nights in tourist homes."

Admire Mountains

The couple looked around, still unwilted by the heat.

"It's beautiful country you have here," said the young pioneer, 1939 edition. "Neither of us has ever seen mountains before. We love them."

But it was hot. And Mrs. Parker, who was wearing slacks sat down on a board to rest while her husband waved their "Waukegan to Washington" banner in the faces of motorists who sped up the hill. But it didn't do much good.

Move to Better Spot

Then the reporter who had spotted the couple invited them into his car and rode them out to the Shrine country club entrance, where motorists could see them for a quarter of a mile. In short order they were again humming on their way to "see the sights" in Washington.

They were young and happy, and out for a good time. And they didn't need a streamlined limousine or a million dollars to have a good time.

Celebrating Promotion, Drunk Driver Fined

Cecil A. Lediard, 35, of Harrisburg, Pa., was fined $100 and costs for drunken driving and $1 and costs for reckless driving.

Lediard pleaded guilty, saying he was celebrating a promotion from his company.

Officers B. F. Hotchkiss, J. F. Davis, and J. E. Sherry apprehended Lediard early yesterday morning on North Centre street after they noticed his machine weaving about.

Pittsburghers Here

Mrs. A. Perry Everstine and daughters, Mary Sue and Charlotte Lee, of Pittsburgh, Pa., are visiting the Rev. and Mrs. Eugene P. Skiles, 221 Harrison street.

Children Escape When Cars Crash

Tourists Are Jailed Following Accident

Six persons escaped injury late last night when two cars collided on the Baltimore Turnpike, near Nave's crossroad.

Max W. Shirley, of Wood, Wis., and W. P. Waplis, of Milton, Del., occupants of one machine, were lodged in jail following the mishap.

State Trooper T. A. Short, who investigated the accident, said the vehicle operated by Shirley, traveling east, sideswiped the car driven by Tillie Pierce, of Baltimore, who was coming towards Cumberland.

Mrs. Pierce's mother and two small children were also in the Cumberland bound machine, Trooper Short said.

Shirley was taken into custody on a charge of reckless driving, while Waplis was charged with being drunk.

Trooper Short was still investigating the accident at midnight.

Another accident was reported to have taken place early last night on the Oldtown road when a car crashed into a light pole.

State Trooper George J. Miller investigated.

Experts Diagnose Raspberry Disease

Experts in plant pathology, who attended the meeting of raspberry culturists, last Tuesday at the farm of Foster Smith below Spring Gap, to investigate a disease rampant among this year's crop, diagnosed the ailment as "anthracnose" or a fungus disease that girdles the raspberry's cane and either kills the plant outright or drys up the berries before maturity.

Nothing could be done with this year's crop, according to County Agent Ralph F. McHenry, except to cut out the diseased cane. By following a spraying program next spring, as outlined by the visiting experts, Mr. McHenry said, the trouble could probably be eradicated completely.

Visiting Plant Experts

Dr. C. E. Temple, Dr. Mark Woods and Dr. I. C. Haut, all from the University of Maryland, were the visiting plant pathologists at the meeting. Mr. McHenry said that the visitors were impressed with the strides made in raspberry culture in the eastern part of the county and that it compared very favorably with other sections of the state where respberry farming has long been practiced. The plant experts will return again next June to observe raspberry growth in Allegany county and to encourage culturists to follow out a remedial program if the crop again shows signs of impairment from disease.

Associates Honor William Milne At Dinner Party

Celanese Official Resigns; Lauded By C. D. Walton

William Milne, Celanese official, was the guest of honor last night at a testimonial dinner tendered him at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club by his associates at the plant.

Mr. Milne, who has resigned the post he has held here for nearly a decade, was presented a handsome five-piece sterling silver service and a rod and reel. The presentation was made on behalf of the group by Charles D. Walton, plant manager, who paid high tribute to Mr. Milne.

Fred Small was toastmaster at the affair, which was featured by an address by William C. Duncan, Philadelphia Ledger columnist. Mr. Duncan reiterated his previously-stated belief that Roosevelt will be a candidate for the presidency in 1940.

The columnist predicted that Paul V. McNutt, federal security administrator, will be Roosevelt's running mate. He added that should the president decide not to run for a third term he will probably back McNutt for the presidency.

Also on the program were selections by Clem Lucas and Ben McCracken, accompanied by Joe Williams.

Arrangements for the dinner, attended by nearly sixty of Mr. Milne's associates, were made by Herbert Platt.

TRAP SHOOTERS—The sound of gunfire attracted the photographer over the hill from the Shrine country club yesterday, and he found members of the newly consolidated Cumberland Gun Club and the Ali Ghan Gun Club lined up for their weekly practice shoot. Historic Rites To Be Followed

Catholics To Mark Portiuncula Feast

The great feast, better known as the feast of Portiuncula of Assisi, will be celebrated with the usual solemnity Sunday at the Church of SS. Peter and Paul.

The origin of the Portiuncula Feast dates back to the days of St. Francis of Assisi, and has its name from the chapel Mary, Queen of the Angels, located in the Umbrian valley, near the city of Assisi, the home of St. Francis.

It was in this chapel of Portiuncula, the cradle of the great Franciscan Order where the Blessed Lord encouraged St. Francis to ask of His Vicar, Pope Honorius, the special privilege of Plenary Indulgence for all those who would visit the chapel "Mary Queen of the Angels."

The unusual request was granted, and, in the course of centuries, extended to all the churches of the members of the Three Orders of St. Francis.

Over the original chapel of Portiuncula, meaning "the small portion", a magnificent basilica was erected, and under the dome of the grand Franciscan Church the original small chapel of Portiuncula is preserved in its pristine poverty and shape of the days of Poverello.

Beginning with noon on Saturday until Sunday evening, every person who visits the church of SS. Peter and Paul, receives the holy Sacraments of Confession and Communion and prays for the special intentions of the Holy Father, one of which is "Peace among the nations of the world," can gain a plenary indulgence.

Confessions will be heard Saturday, morning, afternoon, and evening.

Solemn High Mass will be celebrated Sunday morning at 8:10.

Students Offered Prizes For Dog Show Essays

Three prizes will be awarded to the grade school students writing the best essays on "My Impressions of the 1939 Dog Show", J. Wesley Kelley announced last night.

The prizes are offered by the Western Maryland Outdoor Life Federation. The contest will be under the supervision of Mrs. W. Ralph Bretz, playground supervisor.

Boys and girls attending the playgrounds have made a half dozen posters under Mrs. Bretz' supervision to be used in advertising the Western Maryland Kennel Club's show at Fairgo Sunday.

Cumberland Couple Wed in 1879 Celebrate Diamond Anniversary

Sixty years of wedded life were celebrated Sunday by Mr. and Mrs. Emanuel Miller, who live six miles east of Cumberland on Route 40.

They were married July 31, 1879, in Bedford county, Pennsylvania. And that was a long time ago.

It was just one year after Edison invented the incandescent lamp, five years before the first trolley car, four years after Bell invented the telephone, thirteen years before the first gasoline automobile went sputtering down the streets of an American city.

Mr. Miller is 82, and his bride of sixty years ago is 77. Both are in fairly good health. They moved to their present home in December, 1908.

They have five children living. They are John, Roy and George Miller, and Mrs. Nellie Smith, all of whom live near their parents on Route 40, and Mrs. Hazel Oester, of Grantsville. They are proud of their thirteen grandchildren and nine great-grandchildren.

Most of their large family were present for the celebration of their anniversary Sunday.

(According to the World Almanac, the sixtieth anniversary, as well as the seventy-fifth, is a diamond anniversary).

COLLEGIAN—Miss Ruth Hammer

Miss Ruth Hammer, 715 Maryland avenue, student at Frostburg State Teachers college, has been active in collegiate musical circles. She was accompanist for the Maryland Singers during the past year, including their spring high school tour, and also for the college orchestra. She is a piano student of Mrs. Maurice Matteson and will be a junior at the college during the coming year. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis F. Hammer.

Bride's Last Say Costs Her $10

The West Side bride whose two little words to a couple of cops landed her in jail Tuesday afternoon had nothing to say to the judge yesterday.

In fact, those two little words appeared all she had to say to anybody, for she did not even appear in court, forfeiting the $10 bail her husband had to put up for her.

The bride uttered her classic quotations when the officers, cruising by, cautioned her not to stand with one foot in the street and one on the curb.

Montgomery Ward Buys More Land

Company Has Property Totaling $136,500

Montgomery-Ward and Company, Inc., has purchased a third piece of property on South George street, a deed filed at the courthouse revealed yesterday.

The mail-order company, which is scheduled to build a store here, purchased the property on the northeast corner of George and Harrison streets from the Cumberland Improvement Company.

Revenue stamps on the document indicated that the purchase price was $9,500. The transaction brings to $136,500 the amount spent by the company for property here.

Earlier in the week, a deed was filed for a lot on the east side of George street, adjoining the alley between Baltimore and Union streets. It was purchased from Mrs. Clara L. Bowen, Mrs. Mary C. Bowen Greenfield, Mrs. Susan J. Bowen Lacy, William Lacey, and William Bowen for $22,000.

The company purchased more than a month ago the Smith property at the corner of Baltimore and George streets for $105,000.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl O. Burkett, 474 Goethe street, announce the birth of a daughter yesterday morning at Allegany hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Lombardi, of Ridgeley, announce the birth of a son yesterday at Allegany hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. James Paxton, Williams road, announce the birth of a daughter yesterday morning at Memorial hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter F. Files, 218 Beall street, announce the borth of a son yesterday at home.

Mr. and Mrs. Royce C. Harmon, 410 Grand avenue, announce the birth of a son July 30 at home.

Hitch-Hiking Couple on $50 Tour See Mountains for First Time

The August sun beat down fiercely yesterday afternoon on a couple of hitch-hikers stranded along Route 40 a mile east of town.

But hot as it was, they seemed to be taking it all in their stride. And their stride is taking them from Waukegan, Ill., to the nation's capital—and, they hope, back again.

They introduced themselves as Vernon and Audrey Parker, who were married a year ago and are now on what they call their second honeymoon.

"I'm 21 and my wife's 18," said the tall, good looking young captain of the crew.

Works in Laboratory

"I work in the Abbott laboratories back in Waukegan," he continued. "Ever hear of Waukegan? Jack Benny's from there, only his name was Kobolsky back home. Why we go past the tailor shop where he was born every day.

"We've never been hitch-hiking before. But I got a two-weeks vacation and we saved up $50."

"To be exact, it was $50 and one cent," said dark-eyed Mrs. Parker as she shifted the heavy pack on her back.

"And we wanted to see the sights in Washington," went on Mr. Miller. "So we came this way. We're having lots of fun, though we've been stranded here for an hour. And we walked all the way from Lover's Leap.

Longest Wait was Here

"This is the longest we've been stranded yet. We started out Tuesday, and came to Van Wert, Ohio, the first day in fourteen rides. Wednesday night we got to Washington, Pa. in six rides. We've had six rides already today.

"We've met some very interesting people this way. Mostly salesmen pick us up. They say they are lonely and glad to have some one to talk to.

"When we came by Braddock's grave and Fort Necessity, the man we were with said he wasn't in a hurry, so he stopped while we visited the fort and took some pictures. We spend the nights in tourist homes."

Admire Mountains

The couple looked around, still unwilted by the heat.

"It's beautiful country you have here," said the young pioneer, 1939 edition. "Neither of us has ever seen mountains before. We love them."

But it was hot. And Mrs. Parker, who was wearing slacks sat down on a board to rest while her husband waved their "Waukegan to Washington" banner in the faces of motorists who sped up the hill. But it didn't do much good.

Move to Better Spot

Then the reporter who had spotted the couple invited them into his car and rode them out to the Shrine country club entrance, where motorists could see them for a quarter of a mile. In short order they were again humming on their way to "see the sights" in Washington.

They were young and happy, and out for a good time. And they didn't need a streamlined limousine or a million dollars to have a good time.

Children Escape When Cars Crash

Tourists Are Jailed Following Accident

Six persons escaped injury late last night when two cars collided on the Baltimore Turnpike, near Nave's crossroad.

Max W. Shirley, of Wood, Wis., and W. P. Waplis, of Milton, Del., occupants of one machine, were lodged in jail following the mishap.

State Trooper T. A. Short, who investigated the accident, said the vehicle operated by Shirley, traveling east, sideswiped the car driven by Tillie Pierce, of Baltimore, who was coming towards Cumberland.

Mrs. Pierce's mother and two small children were also in the Cumberland bound machine, Trooper Short said.

Shirley was taken into custody on a charge of reckless driving, while Waplis was charged with being drunk.

Trooper Short was still investigating the accident at midnight.

Another accident was reported to have taken place early last night on the Oldtown road when a car crashed into a light pole.

State Trooper George J. Miller investigated.

Experts Diagnose Raspberry Disease

Experts in plant pathology, who attended the meeting of raspberry culturists, last Tuesday at the farm of Foster Smith below Spring Gap, to investigate a disease rampant among this year's crop, diagnosed the ailment as "anthracnose" or a fungus disease that girdles the raspberry's cane and either kills the plant outright or drys up the berries before maturity.

Nothing could be done with this year's crop, according to County Agent Ralph F. McHenry, except to cut out the diseased cane. By following a spraying program next spring, as outlined by the visiting experts, Mr. McHenry said, the trouble could probably be eradicated completely.

Visiting Plant Experts

Dr. C. E. Temple, Dr. Mark Woods and Dr. I. C. Haut, all from the University of Maryland, were the visiting plant pathologists at the meeting. Mr. McHenry said that the visitors were impressed with the strides made in raspberry culture in the eastern part of the county and that it compared very favorably with other sections of the state where respberry farming has long been practiced. The plant experts will return again next June to observe raspberry growth in Allegany county and to encourage culturists to follow out a remedial program if the crop again shows signs of impairment from disease.

Know Your Health Department

Precautions in Handling Communicable Diseases — Instructions for Attendant

By "attendant" in these instructions we mean the person in the home who is caring for the patient with a contagious disease, such as diphtheria or scarlet fever.

Safeguard yourself from contracting the disease or carrying it to others by protecting your own health.

Arrange to have rest daily.

Where quarantine regulations permit, get out into the fresh air, but do not shop, visit or go to a theater.

Eat well-balanced meals regularly, and have a daily bowel movement.

Use care in handling articles recently used by the patient.

Care Of Patient

Precaution For The Sickroom

Wear a cover-all apron when in the sickroom. This apron should have short sleeves and open in the back. Always remove the apron before leaving the sickroom; hang it inside the patient's room, folding inside under. Wash your hands and arms to the elbow before and after removing the apron.

Caring For The Patient

Collect everything you will need to use before you go into the patient's room.

Take these into the patient's room and put on the apron at once.

Arrange articles as bedside and then give care.

After finishing the care, before removing apron and before leaving room:

Get dishes ready to be boiled.

Get laundry ready to be boiled.

Get waste food and soiled paper handkerchiefs, etc., wrapped ready to destroy.

Get liquid waste water ready to be disposed of.

Wash your hands, remove the apron, wash your hands again.

Remove dishes, soiled linen, and waste materials: disinfect or destroy. When taking these articles from the room be careful not to let them touch your clothing.

Wash your hands again after doing this.

Ask your doctor for definite instructions on how to care for waste food, bath waters, excretions, care of soiled linens, and disinfection after illness is over.

Deaths

Mrs. Charles H. Manges

The body of Mrs. Elizabeth Rebecca Manges, wife of Charles H. Manges, who died Tuesday night at her home, 18 Fifth street, will be taken to Wellersburg, Pa., this afternoon for burial.

Mrs. Manges was a native of Wellersburg. She was 73.

Weather Gets Hotter Day by Day

August heat which has been on the increase for three days was quenched late last night, at least temporarily, by a gentle rain.

The three-day heat wave started with a 92 maximum on Tuesday, 93 on Wednesday, and 94 plus yesterday, according to the government thermometer on City Hall.

Chief Treiber's Cap Swiped from Station By Visiting Drunk

Funniest story of the week involves a prominent young man from Oakland, who walked into police headquarters the other night, spied Assistant Chief Trieber's cap on the judge's bench, clapped it on his head when no one was looking, walked out, and ambled over to Ridgeley for a big time.

It so happened the cap was Assistant Chief Treiber's brand new one, which he had never worn himself. The assistant chief was out when the cap disappeared, being content to wear his old one.

Some hours later, Officer Thomas Griffin spied the cap and playboy on Liberty street and took both back to headquarters.

Assistant Chief Treiber pounced on the cap, the Garrett county visitor was charged with drunk and disorderly conduct. A local business man was called out of bed to put up $10 bail.

After he had done so for his friend, the playboy said, "Ho hum, I have to sleep somewhere, you might as well put me back in jail."

This was a bit unorthodox, police admitted. They told the man to go on away. He insisted on staying. After much argument, weary policemen put him back in a cell. The judge took the $10 bond for a fine the next morning.

Cops Catch Lone Motorist As Speeding Drive Lags

The motor vehicle docket at police headquarters yesterday showed signs of a let-up on careless drivers—only one motorist was apprehended. Or else it showed a scarcity of carelessness.

Herbert E. Comer, of Ridgeley, W. Va., was arrested last night on Greene street by Officers G. W. Deffenbaugh and J. D. Whalley for speeding. He is scheduled to be given a hearing this morning in Police court.

Celanese Strike Rumors Last Night Unfounded

Rumors of a strike at Celanese were current last night, but were without foundation.

The night shift went to work at 11 p. m. without incident.

Unionists staged demonstrations in several parts of the plant yesterday afternoon, but nothing out of the ordinary developed.

Tuesday night the union ordered its committee to resume contract negotiations with the management, and at the same time put power to call a strike in the committee's hands.

Gephart Tournament Winners Named

Careless Driver Fined

James Cole, 120 North Mechanic street, was fined $10 yesterday morning in Police court on a charge of careless driving. He was arrested on the Wineow street beat by Officers B. F. Hitchkill and J. F. Davis.

Trio Gets Seven More Years in Jail As Price of 36 Hours of Freedom

Elkins, W. Va., Aug. 3. (AP)—Thirty-six hours of freedom brought seven more years in jail apiece today to three federal prisoners.

The trio broke out of the Randolph county jail Friday night, shooting a man in their flight. Recaptured Sunday, indicted for jail break by a special grand jury on Wednesday, they were brought before Federal Judge William E. Baker today.

Five years for escape and two years for conspiring to escape were the sentences given each of the men in addition to ten-year terms imposed for the federal violations under which they were held at the time of the flight.

The prisoners are Louis Andrew Pifer, 30, of Cumberland, Md., and Fred Iser, 25, of Ridgeley, who were convicted of the interstate transportation of a stolen car; and John L. Holmes, alias Randolph Douglas Deschauer, 49--year-old former Clarksburg jeweler, charged with violating the federal stolen goods act.

Their full terms, which Judge Baker specified must be served consecutively, total seventeen years apiece.

All pleaded guilty to the escape charges.

The group overpowered Jailer B. Y. White when he entered a cell block to distribute mail. White was bound and gagged.

He resigned two days ago and Sheriff Dale W. Crawford took over active supervision of the jail.

Celebrating Promotion, Drunk Driver Fined

Cecil A. Lediard, 35, of Harrisburg, Pa., was fined $100 and costs for drunken driving and $1 and costs for reckless driving.

Lediard pleaded guilty, saying he was celebrating a promotion from his company.

Pittsburghers Here
